Really Unusual.
Good News.
And the Other Kind.
Yesterday's Hi-Jacker.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

"SNOW OVER the Middle West, wires brought down by snow in eight Indiana cities, utilities companies damaged by storm. Five states in the grip of winter."

California, Florida and the Gulf Coast print and read that news without any deep signs of grief. We usually say that everything is unusual, but this really has been an unusual winter.

THERE IS good news in the report that steel companies plan increases in wages. Some smaller companies have announced increases of ten per cent. The big companies are expected to follow.

MORE GOOD news from the Mayo clinic tells you that your own body is a "germicide factory." All through the body, germ-killing chemicals are manufactured, dealing with deep-seated troubles that could not be reached from the outside, and would cause death.

The Mayo scientists believe that a diet, properly regulated, would stimulate these germicide products, diminish disease and prolong life.

We are fearfully and wonderfully made, and, in addition to praising the Lord, which we should do, we have still many things to learn about ourselves.

The natural, home-made product that fights your diseases more effectively than any doctor or medicine, is betaoxybutyric acid.

FURTHER GOOD news has to do with new uses for rosin and turpentine, procured in abundance from southern pine trees. Those trees, apparently, are to be more useful than Heine's einsam tannenbaum, lonely pine of the North.

The southern pine is expected to supply pulp paper as good as any from northern spruce, and chemists say the rosin of pine trees can be used to manufacture synthetic camphor that recently cost a dollar a pound, and would cost that now, except for the drop in Japanese exchange. With the help of the pine trees, camphor, used in many industries, can be made here for thirty-five cents a pound.

CHICAGO POLICE wonder what has become of the hijacker that, with a few friends and machine-guns, held up the bootlegger with his load of whisky or beer on the highway and took it from him. It was so much easier to let bootleggers do the hard work, then take their material.

Hi-jacking is as old as nature. On Biscayne Bay you see a wise pelican watching weaker birds catching fish. When a fish is caught the pelican takes it, swallows it.

Higher up on the scale you see the financier watching the businessman building up a business. When it is ripe and good the big man takes it, inflates it, waters it, issues it, the little man gets it and wishes he hadn't.

CHICAGO POLICE say that when prohibition died, hijackers disappeared with the bootleggers' trucks. He now is "doing the best he can for his little ones, robbing banks," is the opinion of Mr. Keenan, head of the government's criminal division. Chief Morrissey, of Indianapolis police, says:

"He's probably a CWA worker."

Acting Police Chief McCarthy, of St. Louis, thinks hijackers "have gone into kidnaping and minor extortion."

A LADY of Shreveport, La., is arrested for "hoarding" $2,500 in gold. It was hers, but suddenly the law said: "You can't have it, bring it in." She did not obey and may go to jail.

Powerful is that hoarding instinct, and useful, at times. Many a child among savages has been saved from death by a hoarding mother, concealing, hoarding dried meat or other food, for the days of deep snow. Many a man in old age has been saved by timely hoarding from the humiliation that Dante describes so powerfully, of holding out his hand to beg, by hoarding while he still had something to hoard.

But don't hoard gold. For some reason, Uncle Sam wants it, although he doesn't do anything with it. Evidently, the reason is sound, since our dollars, based on paper, faith and hope, retain their value amazingly.

THE SLOT machine is systematic robbery, nothing else. Every intelligent person knows it. For $100 put in the machine, at least $80 goes in profit to the owners. Yet, millions throw away their money in these machines. An occasional winning, allowed as "bait" is known to everybody. Losses are not known.

American respect for law and American power to enforce law are at such a low ebb that apparently this crude stealing from people of small means cannot be stopped.

ANOTHER "RACKET" for public robbery is the "number lottery," which takes millions a week from the poor and ignorant. It is shown by Florida's state racing commission that one "mutuel" betting system is manipulated in order that the number desired by the owners of the number lotteries may "come out."

The robbers give the gambler one chance in ten to win, then take the one chance.

ARE YOU betting on horse races, using your magnificent judgment, carefully studying past performances, picking out the winner? You will be interested in a coupe automobile seized by the federal authorities, loaded with narcotics used for

'THREE TOMS' GUILTY; FOUR RAIDERS FIRED

'THREE TOMS' CONVICTED BY JURY

Troopers Said to Have Retained Trinkets Lose Jobs

The "Three Toms"—Tom Coyne, Tom Dolan and Tom (Goose) Goslin—today were found guilty of keeping a gambling house and of being common gamblers.

Their conviction was the sequel to a raid on the exclusive Monaca Club 14 months ago by state police.

And simultaneous with the convictions today it was disclosed that four of the raiding troopers attached to Troop A at Greensburg, had been dishonorably discharged from the service.

NEW TRIAL SOUGHT

They were found guilty at a state police court-martial of having kept trinkets worth $50 seized in the raid. One of the troopers is alleged to have appropriated an overcoat.

Immediately after the verdict against the "Three Toms" was returned in Criminal Court this morning, their counsel, Attorneys Al Oliver, John Duggan, Jr., and A. Lincoln Cohen, asked the court for four days' time in which to file a motion for a new trial.

Judge Thomas M. Marshall granted the request.

FACE LONG TERMS

The charges on which the "Toms" were convicted carry stiff penalties. For keeping a gambling house the law provides a maximum penalty of one year in jail and $500 fine and for being a common gambler, five years at labor and $500 fine.

Pending their motions for a new trial, the "Toms" will remain at liberty by renewing the $2,500 bonds under which they are now free.

JACKSON WINS PRAISE

Regarding the move for a new trial, District Attorney Andrew T. Park said:

"I don't think they have the slightest chance for getting a new trial."

Park praised the work of Assistant District Attorney Earle R.

VOTE LEAGUE DENOUNCES COUNCIL

Women Charge Waste, 'Quibbling;' Hit Salary Bill

The ladies of the League of Women Voters spoke out in scorching denunciation of City Council and its salary bill today, leaving these charges echoing through the Council chambers:

1—The payroll reeks with unnecessary jobs.

2—New taxes were imposed to continue extravagances of past administrations.

3—The stagger system will result in reduction of service, and is intended to enable Council to increase certain salaries and wages.

4—Council has failed to heed the lesson obtained in investigation of the Kline administration; it has failed to determine whether there are similar conditions which should be corrected.

The mouthpiece of the league was Mrs. J. C. Miller, sister of Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, league chairman and Mayor McNair's budget adviser.

QUIBBLING CHARGED

Not a word was minced as the city fathers were excoriated for "quibbling" for three months at the expense of the taxpayers. To cap it all, the maladministration of the Kline regime was dragged forth, with the league's part in compelling an investigation forcefully portrayed.

Mrs. Miller revealed she has trailed rubbish wagons through the streets in the wee hours of morning in pursuit of information regarding garbage collection, and told Council that by doing the same:

"You, too, might learn more than can be seen from the Council chambers."

With the prospect of the Mayor's veto of the salary bill being overridden by Council near, Mrs. Miller told the Councilmen:

"You have passed a salary ordinance imposing upon the taxpayers of this city a payroll reeking with unnecessary jobs, many of them with compensation entirely out of line with the present economic condition, and in many instances, positions that are entirely wasteful and not needed, particularly for a city which has not paid its current bills."

HELD 'UNBUSINESSLIKE'

The measure is unbusinesslike. Instead of saving the taxpayers' money, it calls for expenditures of practically as much money as the ordinance passed by the 1933 Council, Mrs. Miller said.

Mrs. Miller also disclosed she had obtained the latest figures on relief in the city, and said these disclosed that in the week of March 17 to 17, the county had the peak number of persons on public relief.

The Council room was crowded.

PROF 'FIRED,' STUDENTS STRIKE

Bentleyville Pupils Declare 'Holiday,' Stage Parade

BENTLEYVILLE, Pa., March 29.—Students of Bentleyville High School, in Washington County, declared a holiday this afternoon and staged a demonstration and parade in protest against the dismissal of R. D. Roche, French teacher, whose contract was not renewed by the Bentleyville School Board at a special meeting last night.

The school board, while dismissing Roche, announced the employment of Mrs. I. N. South, wife of the former Burgess of Bentleyville. Mrs. South, however, was not engaged to replace Roche, J. L. Brown, president of the school board, said.

The students, dismissed for the noon recess, quickly organized their demonstration, and refused to return for their class this afternoon after learning of Roche's dismissal.

FRENCH DISCONTINUED

Brown, asked why Roche had been dropped, said the board had decided to discontinue the French course and substitute a commercial course instead.

Miss Regina Kolonsky, the board president said, was promoted to teach the commercial course that will be substituted for the French course.

He was asked:

"What is Mrs. South going to teach?"

He replied:

"We haven't decided that yet."

Mrs. South was a member of the high school staff until last year when the board decided not to re-employ married women teachers.

ADMITS POLITICS

Brown was asked, in view of this action against married women last year, why they decided to re-employ her when they did not know what they would have her teach. The president of the board expostulated:

"Oh! I guess there's some politics here."

While Brown was conversing with the interviewer, the yells and shouts of the students could be heard outside. He was asked whether the board would re-engage Roche if the students persisted in their holiday. Brown replied:

"That will be decided later."

Roche has been a member of the faculty here for five years, and is highly popular with the students.

DOROTHY CARUSO HOLDER

SUIT INVOLVES MOORE GEM

International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 29.—Lillian Russell's famous $50,000 diamond and emerald ring will figure today in proceedings before Supreme Court Justice Philip J. McCook, where Mrs. Dorothy Russell Calvit, daughter of the famous actress, is seeking to regain the jewel from Mrs. Dorothy Caruso Holder, widow of the opera star.

Mrs. Calvit seeks to obtain permission to obtain the testimony of Mrs. Holder at Ury, France, where she now lives. She alleges that her stepfather, the late Alexander P. Moore, merely entrusted the ring to Mrs. Holder.

Mrs. Holder, however, asserts that it was given to her by Moore as an engagement ring and that he refused to allow her to return it when the engagement was broken.

VETO UPSET CREATES BIG DEFICIT

Bonus Fight Pushed Following 'Break' With Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP.)—The administration pondered without immediate answer today on where to get another $228,000,000 — the cost of a surprising overthrow of President Roosevent's first major veto.

"What'll we use for money?"

Representative Byrns, the Democratic leader, told newspapermen it was "entirely possible" that President Roosevelt would ask new taxes to meet expenditures caused by passage of the independent offices bill over his veto.

The measure, providing additional appropriations for war veterans and government employes, was enacted into law last night when the Senate joined the House in overriding President Roosevelt's wishes.

It was estimated by the President in his veto message that the expenditures authorized by the legislation would exceed budget estimates by $228,000,000.

Byrns added:

"I do not know the President's plans, but in view of the position he expressed in his veto message, it is entirely possible that he will ask Congress to provide additional revenue.

"If the Congress wants to help the President balance the budget, it would look as though it would have to raise additional taxes."

VOTERS ENROLL UNDER NEW LAW

The city's first registration under the new permanent registration act began this morning.

Registrars, 816 of them, sitting in 408 polling places, began the recording of potential voters starting at 9 o'clock.

Under the new act, naturalized citizens must present their naturalization papers, and, once registered, need not register again in their lifetime if they vote once every two years.

Registration Commissioner Jacob Frank announced the list of registrars, and explained that 75 originally scheduled were forced to resign party posts or candidacies for public office. Given the choice of relinquishing the registration job or the others, they dropped the others, he said. The

COUNCIL READY TO UPSET VETO

City Council was ready to override Mayor McNair's veto of the 1934 salary bill.

Support of the veto could muster but one vote a few hours before Council was scheduled to act on the measure, and that was Counciman William A. Magee's. Magee was the only member originally opposed to the salary bill.

Council was thus arrayed by a vote of 7 to 1 in favor of overriding the veto. Councilman William J. Soost was absent. John M. Huston postponed a trip out of town, for which he already had bought tickets, in order to record his position.

Council also was scheduled to confer with members of the Law Department and representatives of the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh Railways companies, in an attempt to agree on how the traction contract can be continued.

Councilman Magee warned earlier this week that unless Council signified its attitude on approval of the contract in a few days, the city would be left without any agreement.

Hotel Strikers' Parade Doused With Water

Seventy-five to 100 strikers parading around the William Penn Hotel this afternoon were doused by water hurled from windows in the hotel.

The demonstration was one of several which have taken place since the hotel employes called a strike.

Bonus No Offset To Veterans' Aid

HARRISBURG, March 29.—(AP.)—War veterans who receive bonus checks from the state need not fear that their names will be taken from the unemployment relief rolls.

The State Emergency Relief Board yesterday ruled that bonus money "is not to be considered" in connection with the giving of unemployment relief.

REGISTER TODAY!

Pittsburgh's first permanent registration day is today, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Other registration days are April 21 and May 2. No further registrations will be necessary, under the new law which affects only Pittsburgh in Allegheny County.

All voters, regardless of any previous registrations, must register at their usual polling places.

No tax receipt is necessary.

No matter how many times they have voted previously, naturalized citizens will not be registered unless they present naturalization papers or certified copy thereof.

A woman married to an American citizen prior to 1922 and naturalized through her husband must produce the birth certificate of her husband or her marriage certificate. If married since 1922 she must produce her naturalization papers.

Children naturalized through parents must have parents' naturalization papers.

Father Ryan Dies at 92, Oldest Priest in Diocese

The Right Rev. Msgr. Martin Ryan, pastor of St. Brigid's Church, Enoch street, died today.

Aged 92, he was the oldest Catholic priest in the Pittsburgh Diocese and known throughout Western Pennsylvania for his kindly nature and constant works of charity.

Msgr. Ryan came to this country from Ireland when he was 22, and eight years later, after his ordination at St. Michael's Seminary, in Glenwood, he was stationed as a curate at St. Bridget's, on the hill overlooking the then quiet little town of Pittsburgh.

His stay there was brief, and he was soon sent to develop various country pastorates. Among them was St. Michael's, at Loretto, where Charles M. Schwab, then a schoolboy in knee trousers, often served as an altar boy at the masses of the young Irish priest.

Returning to St. Brigid's as pastor in 1900, Father Ryan served there until his death today. Though passing years cut down his activities, he rose at 6 every morning and said mass daily until he was taken to Mercy Hospital with pneumonia Monday. On Sunday his parishioners saw him on the altar for the last time.

Father Ryan, who was made a monsignor in 1915, frequently crossed the ocean to visit his friends in Ireland. He leaves a brother, John, there, who is 80. When the World War broke out the priest was marooned in his homeland for two months, unable to get passage to the United States.

The ship which finally brought him to this country was the Lusitania, torpedoed two years later by a German submarine.

Twice in the course of his career, Msgr. Ryan was nominated for the position of bishop of the Pittsburgh Diocese, but on both occasions he refused the honor.

The Rev. D. J. Devlin, of St. Stephen's Church, Hazelwood, who was a seminary student with Msgr. Ryan, today remains the last surviving member of their class.

UPSET IGNORED BY ROOSEVELT

International News Service.

MIAMI, March 29.—Enjoying a seagoing vacation in the Bahamas, President Roosevelt today apparently was unmindful of the Senate's action in overriding his veto of the independent offices bill allowing increased benefits to veterans and restoring the pay cut to federal employes.

The yacht, Nourmahal, on which he is a guest, anchored off Sandy Cay, northwest of Settlement Point, and the yacht owner, Vincent Astor, telegraphed Col. Marvin H. McIntyre, the President's secretary, here that his distinguished guest had a fine night and planned to spend the day fishing and having a swim.

Tomorrow the Nourmahal is expected to put in at the quaint British possession, Nassau. Whether the President will go ashore is doubtful, however.

AIR MAIL 'BLACKLIST' MODIFIED IN NEW SENATE BILL

KELLY ASSAILS FARLEY PLAN AS ILLEGAL

Measure Before Senate With Approval of Postal Group

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Strengthened in some provisions and liberalized in a few others, the McKellar-Black bill embodying a proposed new policy for the air mail was before the Senate today on a favorable report from the Postoffice Committee.

The clause restricting the number of transcontinental air mail routes to four was removed. The requirement that companies submitting new bids should furnish a list of all stockholders was modified to include only stockholders with 5 per cent or more of the total stock.

Provisions forbidding interlocking directorates were redrawn and strengthened, along with the "blacklist" of officials who have "engaged in any unlawful combination or conspiracy to prevent bidding."

Under the modified bill, companies that had contracts annulled would be eligible to bid under reorganization.

The plan of Postmaster General Farley for immediate return of the air mail to private lines was assailed as illegal by Representative Clyde Kelly (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, member of the House Postoffice Committee.

Kelly said:

"The Postmaster General proposes to let temporary contracts under a star-route provision of the postal laws and to call for competitive bids.

"This provision was placed in the law to permit the Postoffice Department to give service in an emergency, and contemplated service without competitive bids."

Kelly, who fathered all airmail legislation up to time of passage of Watres Act which resulted in the present controversy, urged return of the air mail to lines having contracts pending enactment of permanent air mail legislation by Congress.

Farley Air Mail Proposal Called 'Insane' by Robbins

NEW YORK, March 29.—(INS.)—Richard W. Robbins, president of the Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., called Postmaster General James A. Farley's terms for new bidding on air mail contracts "insane" in a statement made public today.

Robbins is one of the executives and T. W. A. is one of the corporations excluded from the bidding by the Postmaster General. He said:

"The call for temporary bids by the private companies to carry the air mail represents the eighth distinct and conflicting policy adopted by the Postoffice Department within the short period of six weeks in relation to the vast and vital aviation industry.

"First came the startling cancellation of every existing air mail contract; then the ill-considered use of the Army to fly the mail; then the frantic retreat from that ghastly blunder; then the resumption by the Army of a curtailed service; then, after it had been doing it for some time, the passage queerly enough of a law authorizing the Army to fly the mail; then the introduction of a distorted bill to restore the air mail on a permanent basis to private companies and after that measure was demolished by the withering criticism of every expert called by the Senate Committee, the introduction of a different bill to accomplish the same purpose, and now the invitation to private companies to bid for temporary contracts, porary contracts.

"What a gorgeous comedy of public error and maladministration it would be were it not for such a tragic crippling of the air mail service and the aviation industry. One shudders to think what the condition of the aviation industry would be if the affairs of the companies were conducted in such an insane manner."

DEBTS CLAUSE WRITTEN INTO TARIFF BILL

Democrats Yield to G. O. P. Insistence On Guarantee

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee today agreed to limit the life of President Roosevelt's tariff bargaining bill to three years and write in a provision prohibiting revision or cancellation of European debts to the United States.

The amendments, which Republicans had planned to demand, were to be proposed before final action on the bill in the House today.

The debts amendment had previously been rejected by the Ways and Means Committee on a strict party vote when offered by Representative Frear (Rep.), of Wisconsin.

In proposing the amendment, Frear quoted witnesses as saying that debt settlements are bound up with the tariff trade agreements the President proposes to make.

The amendments agreed upon would provide that cancellation or revision should not be a part of any reciprocal trade agreement.

The three-year limitation on the life of the bill and also a three-year limitation upon trade agreements was said to have been approved to answer attacks on constitutionality of the measure.

The tariff bill was proposed by President Roosevelt as an emergency measure. In its original form agreements were limited to three years, but provision was made for continuance by mutual consent of the countries involved.

TOLD OF PROBE, WIRT ASSAILS LIBERTY PERIL

House to Consider Quiz on Brain Trust Charges

International News Service.

GARY, Ind., March 29.—Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary superintendent of schools, in a statement issued today, rapped National Recovery Administration codes, Washington Brain Trusters and various legislation pending in Congress.

Dr. Wirt's statement was released upon notification that a House committee had approved a resolution for an investigation of his charges that Brain Trusters are plotting to throw the government into Communism.

Speaking of pending legislation, Dr. Wirt said:

"I believe that the country must now be made aware that if present legislation in Congress is enacted, if measures we have been led to believe were temporary become permanent, we will have lost most of our liberty.

"Most NRA codes now take away two of our fundamental liberties.

"A hearing is not necessary before a conviction is ordered because the government can be judge, jury and prosecutor; and a man making an agreement can be ordered under threat of punishment to agree that he will give his consent to any regulations or decrees which the government decides is good for him.

"In the proposed bill for aviation companies is a threat to punish them if they enter the court of claims and attempt to sue for damages."

Dr. Wirt spoke of the Wagner bill, which purports to be a gift to labor, as "in reality a noose for labor."

Concluding he recalled that the demand to know the names of his informants:

"The usual move to distract attention from the real issue."

Committee Puts Case Up to House

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP.)—A congressional investigation of allegations by Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary (Ind.) educator, that "Brain Trusters" were seeking to cause a revolution was approved today by the House Rules Committee.

The proposal now has to be acted upon by the House.

Over protests of Republican members, the Democratic majority approved a new resolution by Representative Bulwinkle (Dem.), New York, limiting the investigation to Dr. Wirt's statements and the persons he names before the committee as those in the revolutionary group.

Representative Tansley (Rep.), Pennsylvania, ranking minority member, contended the projected inquiry "is not broad enough" and added:

"It ought to be broader in its scope if it's going to be an honest investigation."

The vote on reporting the bill was 5 to 4, on a strict party basis.

Acting Chairman O'Connor (Dem.), New York, said an effort would be made to have the resolution acted on today or tomorrow by the House.

GIANT HOUSING PROJECT NEXT FOR NRA

Part of Move to Lift Capital Goods Call For Labor

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP.)—A large-scale program to stimulate that branch of industry whose output is used for further production is being prepared by the administration.

Details likely will be announced within two or three weeks.

Included is a gigantic home renovation and building project. Federal loans to industry are contemplated.

Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, has been mentioned to head the program; there has been talk of his quitting his present post for the job, but so far only talk.

The program is said in authoritative quarters to be the government's recognition of industry's argument that stimulation of the capital goods industries furnishes the major opportunity for the absorption of those remaining unemployed, rather than through either so-called absorption by lowering hours, or the stimulation of the consumer goods industries.

While further new legislation may be necessary, it was suggested in official quarters that bills now before Congress provide the necessary authority in extending the powers of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation and of the Home Loan Banks, and the creation of lending agencies, either through the Federal Reserve System or a new set of industrial banks.

The verdict was reached at 11 o'clock last night after the jurors had taken only a few ballots, it was learned. The case had been given to the jury at 2:28 yesterday afternoon and the interim was taken up by the jury's deliberations.

The verdict was handed to Judge Marshall at 9:30 this morning when court reconvened.

DISCHARGE KEPT SECRET

The four state troopers dismissed were arraigned before a courtmartial in Greensburg about a month after the Monaca raid, but disclosures of their dismissal was not made until today by Maj. Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of state police.

Maj. Adams declared that the articles taken by the troopers from the Monaca Club consisted of trinkets given away as prizes on punch boards.

One trooper was said to have admitted taking a customer's coat from the club.

ARTICLES RETURNED

This trooper, according to Maj. Adams, said he was cold and put on the overcoat to keep warm. He wore it to Greensburg, and it was found hanging in his closet at the barracks.

All the articles subsequently were returned to District Attorney Park.

Tom Dolan, one of the "Three Toms" convicted today, is already under sentence to serve 18 months in a federal penitentiary in connection with a vote conspiracy. He has appealed his sentence.

RAILROADS LEARN that reducing fares increases not only travel, but also profits. It pays sometimes to charge less than "the traffic will bear," and get more traffic. The Southern Railways announce that reduced fares are to be a permanent institution. The elevated railroad in New York never earned a profit until the fare was reduced from ten cents to five. Then it became enormously profitable, until subway competition came.

IN MEMPHIS, Tenn., a lady of fifty-four owned five dogs. One bit a six-year-old child, sending her to the hospital with a lacerated ear, and scalp. The Humane Society took the five dogs. Their owner took poison, and will die. You don't know whether you should pity the owner of the dogs, the child, or the dogs sentenced to die.

IN ATLANTA, Judge Beckham, public school authority, urges that juvenile delinquency be diminished by teaching the Ten Commandments and the golden rule in schools. "Fundamental belief in a religion is paramount in preventing delinquency," says the judge.

If that were strictly true, there ought to be little delinquency. At least ninety per cent of public school children have some "fundamental belief in religion." The difficulty is to make the golden rule and Ten Commandments a reality to children, not merely words learned by heart.

VOTERS ENROLL UNDER NEW LAW

new law provides that no candidate or holder of public office or party office can serve on or in the employ of the commission.

Frank pointed out that a tax receipt was no longer necessary to registration.

The Commission office was jammed with registrars yesterday, as they were given final instructions and master and district books, the principal part of the new permanent system. The books are so provided that the records are never loose, and that registrations are recorded with the cards locked in the binders.

The personnel of the office has not as yet been selected, Frank said, with the exception of the chief clerk, Mrs. Sara Braun, and the solicitor, Edward C. Boyle. Boyle was a member of the old Commission and Mrs. Braun was former Commissioner.

The remainder of the employes, 22, were rated as extra clerks at $5 a day.

A number of new faces appeared in the extra clerk list, many of them friends of Judge Ralph H. Smith. Missing were a number of the appointees of County Commissioner C. C. McGovern, who formerly controlled the Registration Commission.

A reduction in salary appeared for Charles Ebeck, veteran cog in the registration machinery for 23 years, whose former salray of $175 a month was reduced to the $5 a day rate, which would total about $140 a month. The commission is empowered under the act to employ 52 employes.

2 COAL GROUPS FIGHT RAISE

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP.)—Redoubled efforts were made today to bring two groups of mine owners into line with the tentative agreement reached by a sub-committee of the major bituminous coal operators in the Appalachian region for a $5, seven-hour day.

The "holdouts" are the Smokeless Appalachian group of Southern West Virginia and the operators of the Fairmont region in the northern section of that state. The former have been negotiating separately with the United Mine Workers since the conference started, contending the industry can not bear increased production costs at this time.

The Fairmont group split with the rest of the Appalachian operators over elimination of the 24-cent wage differential they had enjoyed over the Pittsburgh district. Under the terms of the agreement reached by the subcommittee yesterday, the basic daily wage would be increased to $5 throughout the northern part of the region.

SENATE VOTES COTTON BILL

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP.)—The Senate today passed the Bankhead compulsory cotton control bill and returned it to the House for action on amendments.

The vote on final passage was 46 to 39.

The bill described by its supporters as having administration support, is designed to stabilize cotton prices by limiting production in the coming cotton year to 10,000,000 bales and levying a prohibitive tax on the staple produced in excess of quotas allocated to producers.

The House tax of 50 per cent of the market value, or not less than 5 cents a pound, was raised by the Senate to 75 per cent or not less than eight cents a pound.

Termed an emergency measure, the bill would apply for only one year as passed by the Senate.

VOTERS LEAGUE FLAYS COUNCIL

Applause greeted the speaker from time to time, and also the Councilmen when, later, some of them spoke up in reply to Mrs. Miller.

GARLAND REPLIES

Council President Robert Garland was the first to speak after Mrs. Miller finished. He said:

"We're deserving of a lot of what you say, there's no question about that; but at the same time we have our points."

He said the city's credit is good and that its bonds could be sold. He explained the city had to depend on collection of delinquent taxes, and said a special committee is working on that, adding:

"They are doing it in a quiet way, but it may be more drastic later."

MAGEE OPPOSES BILL

Mrs. Miller said she was talking about reducing expenditures, and Councilman William A. Magee, the lone opponent of the salary bill, insisted that President Garland stick to that point.

Garland said other cities weren't balancing their budgets, and the only way Pittsburgh could balance its was to cut people off the payroll; that, he said, would put more on relief.

Mrs. Miller replied:

"It would be a good deal better to put them on the welfare than keep them on the payroll destroying the morale of the force."

As the cross-fire neared an end, President Garland said that if any department director came to him and told him an employe was "no good," he would vote to put that employe off the payroll.

FASCIST, NAZI PROBE PUSHED

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—A sweeping investigation into Fascist propaganda in the United States, as well as exposure of German Nazi propaganda, was promised today by Representative Dickstein (Dem.), of New York, who is expected to head the special House investigating committee.

A resolution authorizing $10,000 for beginning the inquiry was to be reported to the House today. Speaker Rainey will name the inquisitors.

While not charging that the Italian government supports the propaganda, Dickstein said that "black shirt" organizations were active.

The special committee will have power to inquire into Communistic, Nazi or any other propaganda in this country.

Dickstein was prepared to urge the Nazi Committee to subpoena Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary (Ind.) educator, for investigation of his charges against the "brain trust" if the House failed to create a special body for that purpose.

SHANGHAI, March 29.—(AP.)—A British-conducted inquest into the death last Sunday of C. C. Julian, former Oklahoma oil operator, returned a verdict today of "death by narcotic poisoning, self-administered." Brief funeral rites were held yesterday for the Canadian-born former millionaire.

Child Labor Move Loses in S. Carolina

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 29.—(AP.)—Without debate, the South Carolina Senate today had passed a joint resolution rejecting the proposed child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution. The measure was sent to the House.

Several years ago an effort to have the Senate ratify the proposed amendment was voted down by an overwhelming margin.

Vienna Magazine Ban Hits Many From U. S.

VIENNA, March 29.—(AP.)—One hundred foreign publications were banned from newsstand sale today by a government order issued in a drive to sweep what the administration considers "immoral or otherwise objectionable newspapers and magazines" off Vienna's streets.

The list of prohibitions names the Saturday Evening Post, Variety, True Story Magazine, The American Magazine, Wide World, La Vie Parisienne, Paris Plaisirs, Pearson's Magazine, The Daily Sketch, The News Chronicle, and 90 other foreign publications.

The order becomes effective immediately.

It was not stated whether the American and British periodicals were considered offensive on moral or political grounds.

NEW YORK, March 29.—(AP.)—Editors chuckled today over word from Vienna that their publications had been banned.

Said Sid Silverman, editor of Variety, newspaper of the theater world:

"It's a gag."

Editor Sumner Blossom, of The American Magazine, said:

"It's silly!"

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—(AP.)—The reason why the Saturday Evening Post should be banned from the newsstands of Vienna is a puzzle to George Horace Lorimer, its editor, and president of the Curtis Publishing Company. He said:

"I do not know any reason why they should do it. I have heard no details of the action."

Ill Man Hangs Himself After Bullets Fail

Leaving a note complaining of ill health and asking forgiveness, Albert Immel, 65, of 1015 Portland street, hanged himself early today in the basement of his home.

It was the second attempt this month the aged man made to kill himself. On March 7, he fired several shots at his head, but the bullets only pierced his hat.

Robert Immel, son, with whom the father lived, found the body hanging from a pipe in the basement laundry. The man apparently had climbed upon a keg, fastened a sashcord around his neck, and then kicked the keg from under him.

The son summoned Dr. T. M. Redman and the police. Capt. Walter Kaiser found a note in the father's bedroom which read:

"To all it may concern: My health has gone bad and I do not care to live any longer. Forgive me for what I am doing. Love and good luck to all. Signed, Albert Immel."

MEASLES OUTBREAK HERE TAKES ONE LIFE, 575 ILL

CHILD BUREAU HEAD GIVES WARNING

Disease Has Rapid Growth; Infant First Victim

A widespread outbreak of measles, which has taken toll of one life and brought 575 cases of the disease to the city this month, was reported today by Dr. H. J. Benz, superintendent of the Bureau of Child Welfare.

Although stating the sickness had not reached the importance of an epidemic, Benz warned that no case of measles should be neglected. A physician should be consulted on the first suspicious sign—the disease being like a cold—Benz said, especially in the case of very young children.

BABY FIRST VICTIM

Nancy Joan Rafferty, 2, of 1733 Buena Vista street, died yesterday of measles with contributory broncho pneumonia, the first victim of the disease this month. One death was attributed to measles in February.

Dr. Benz said the rapid spread of the sickness was a seasonal occurrence coming about every three years, when it struck a group of children who had grown up without being immunized by having it previously. Similar outbreaks of measles have been reported recently in other cities.

MOYER WARNS

Dr. Ray P. Moyer, health director, issued a statement calling attention to the dangers of measles especially in young children. He said:

"The most serious dangers are from complications, particularly broncho-pneumonia and the added danger of inflammation of the middle ear. Parents should not take their children to any houses where there is illness."

Records of the Health Department show 62 cases in January, 209 cases in February, and 575 in March. In contrast only 223 cases of measles were recorded in all of 1933. But 1932's total was 5,112.

TURKEY DETAINS SHIP CARRYING INSULL

Action Reported Taken At Request of U. S. Government

International News Service.

ISTANBUL, March 29.—The Turkish government today ordered the detention of the Greek steamship Maiotis, with Samuel Insull, fugitive American financier, aboard.

The Maiotis arrived here at daybreak, 11 days after it left Athens when Insull fled Greece on the eve of his deportation.

POLICE BOARD SHIP

The ship was taking on supplies here and had been scheduled to leave for Rumania, at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon (6:30 a. m. eastern standard time).

Acting on instructions from the government at Angora, the capital, police boarded the Maiotis and served notice on the captain not to sail until he received further instructions.

It was explained the cabinet was now in session in Angora, to decide whether Insull would be permitted to proceed to Rumania or be summarily removed from the Maiotis and held at Istanbul.

U. S. HAND SEEN

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(INS.)—Detention by the Turkish authorities at Istanbul of the Greek steamer Maiotis, aboard which Samuel Insull is seeking to escape extradition to the United States, was made at the request of the American government, it was intimated in official circles here today.

Although still declining to name specific countries which have been requested to apprehend the Chicago financier, officials admitted that Turkey was among the nations which have been asked by this government to assist in effort to bring about his extradition.

The American extradition treaty with Turkey has not yet been ratified by the Turkish parliament but the latter now is in session and it is felt here that ratification could be effected quickly if the Turkish government wished to do so.

REITERATE BAN

BUCHAREST, March 29.—(INS.)—Rumanian authorities reiterated today that Samuel Insull would not be allowed to land at Constantza.

This attitude contradicted reports from Istanbul quoting the Rumanian consul here as stating Insull would be permitted to land in Rumania.

Martin Insull Freed On $50,000 Bond

CHICAGO, March 29.—(INS.)—Martin J. Insull, brother of the fugitive Samuel Insull, today was released from the county jail upon posting of $50,000 bond.

The one-time utility magnate, who is charged with embezzlement, was released after a five-minute appearance before Judge Michael Finnegan. Another appearance before Judge Fardy followed and April 6 was set as the date for a hearing on motions by Insull's attorney.

DR. WYNEKOOP OFF TO PRISON

CHICAGO, March 29.—(AP.)—Calm and dry-eyed, Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop began her trip to prison today to serve 25 years for the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta.

Still too feeble to walk, as a result of the heart attacks which once stopped her trial, Dr. Wynekoop was wheeled out of the county jail in an invalid's chair. She stepped from it into Bailiff Gabriel's big sedan.

Miss Mary Kennedy, chief matron of the jail and Dr. Wynekoop's friend, accompanied her to prison.

Dr. Wynekoop was to be driven 60 miles to the Illinois Women's Prison at Dwight, a new "cottage prison" representing the most advanced theories of penology.

Her daughter, Dr. Catherine Wynekoop, and her elder son, Walker, followed their mother in another car.

MISSING CO-ED SPURS PROBE AT CAMPUS

Sorority Life Called 'High Society Scale;' Governor Acts

International News Service.

MADISON, Wis., March 29.—The grandiose sorority system, blamed for the self-imposed exile of pretty Eunice Pollock and her disappearance from the University of Wisconsin campus 12 days ago, was under investigation today as authorities searched for the missing co-ed.

Miss Pollock disappeared after she was expelled by fellow members of the Alpha Chi Omega Sorority.

Gov. M. G. Schmedeman promised to open an investigation in order "to prevent this thing from occurring again." The Governor said he would ask the missing girl's father, John Pollock, of Manitowoc, Wis., to tell his story.

LAVISH STYLE CHARGED

At a meeting with Miss Susan B. Davis, acting dean of women, Pollock charged that the girls in the sorority were living on a "grand society scale" and Eunice was banished because she could not maintain their style of living.

Miss Pollock was said to have been depriving herself of food to meet the expenses of a magnificent sorority house, periodical parties and a staff of house servants.

Parents of other students joined Pollock in his charges, first written in a farewell note by Eunice, that life at the university was "based on money alone and a poor girl couldn't have fun unless she were a bad girl."

STUDENTS IN REVOLT

A student revolt against the competitive and costly activities of rival sororities likewise was gaining momentum. Pollock declared:

"Dean Anderson called Eunice half jokingly a 'Campus Cinderella.' But there is much truth in that phrase. Her sorority sisters treated her as the 'step sisters' did the real Cinderella.

"It just happened that Eunice didn't have a fairy godmother. You'd think the other girls, with their expensive automobiles and new fur coats, could have helped her get food."

At the spacious Alpha Chi Omega house Miss Charlotte Turner, president of the organization said:

"We have the right to ask a member to leave our group. Inasmuch as this was a temporary suspension and that all our dealings with her were fair and perfectly understood by her, we cannot feel responsible for her disappearance.

"If we had known she would run away we wouldn't have done it."

MODERN PORTIA IN HIGH COURT

A modern Portia has appeared before the courts here to fight her own legal battles without the advice of lawyers.

Sedate jurists of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, sitting here yesterday, rubbed their eyes when Mrs. Catherine Brandt came before them with an appeal against a lower court ruling, claiming an error in the lower court.

Not a lawyer, Mrs. Brandt had brought an equity action against her sister, Mrs. Ann Hoffman, and her brother-in-law, Richard Hoffman, to have set aside a transfer of property made to them by her mother, Johanna Schmidtner.

She claimed her mother, who died in August, 1932, was incompetent at the time the transfer was made. Judge William H. McNaugher, of the lower court, threw out the proceeding, but, undaunted, Mrs. Brandt took an appeal on the ground that the court had erred in dismissing her petition.

The Supreme Court will hand down a decision later. Meanwhile, Mrs. Brandt will return to her home in St. Louis.

DILLINGER PAL'S ESCAPE FOILED

LIMA, O., March 29.—(AP.)—Evidence that Harry Pierpont, Dillinger mobster and convicted slayer of Sheriff Jess L. Sarber, made painstaking but fruitless plans for a "break" while on trial here was discovered today by county authorities.

Deputy Sheriff W. L. Sharp, witness of the sheriff's slaying, today found what was described as a crudely fashioned but efficient key to the handcuffs that Pierpont wore in his journeys between the jail and the courtroom. It had been made out of a toothbrush handle.

The key, Sheriff Don Sarber son of the slain official, said, easily served to unlatch the shackles Pierpont wore. What prevented an attempt to use it, officials did not know, unless it was the machine guns placed about the jail.

Dillinger Reported In Lehigh County

A warning that John Dillinger, bandit, who brought Crown Point, Ind., into nation-wide prominence by his escape, was seen in an automobile in Lehigh County, was flashed to all parts of Pennsylvania last night by the police teletype system. Two other men were in the automobile, said to have been used by Dillinger. It bore New Jersey license plates.

Couple Injured In Car-Pole Crash

'DON'T DISTURB' SAYS HEPBURN

PLYMOUTH, England, March 29.—(AP.)—Katharine Hepburn, American screen star, was on her way back to New York today on the liner Paris, her projected vacation on the Riviera cut short.

Miss Hepburn motored from Paris to Havre yesterday and boarded the liner just before sailing, shutting herself in her cabin with orders not to be disturbed. She told questioners through a door:

"I am distressingly tired. I am sorry, I cannot receive anybody."

When she sailed from New York March 17 she had planned to spend several weeks in Europe.

It was announced in Paris that Miss Hepburn's departure followed cabled instructions to return because the film version of Mark Twain's "Joan of Arc" was being held up.

ARTISTS SELECT HELEN HAYES

NEW YORK, March 29.—(AP.)—Helen Hayes, the actress, was told last night at the municipal art exhibition at Rockefeller Center that there was "character" in her "beauty-less" face.

She replied to the committee which had chosen her as one of the three models to pose at a demonstration of the naricuturist's art:

"That is why I have been selected."

William Auerbach-Levy, the artist, who was to do the sketching, replied:

"It is."

She asked smilingly:

"Do you think that is flattering?"

The artist answered:

"Very. You have more than beauty in your face. Yours is the face of a great actress."

Sighing, Miss Hayes told him:

"That's the story of my life. Always I am being picked for caricaturing. Wherever virtue and not beauty is the quality—there I shine."

Cigaret Lighter Sets Drug Store Bunnies Afire

An automatic cigaret lighter slipped out of the hands of a customer in Dow's Drug Store at Fifth avenue and Grant street this morning and fell among the Easter baskets in a display window.

In an instant, the window was a mass of flames as Easter bunnies, baskets of eggs and candy and other Easter decorations quickly caught fire.

Firemen responded to emergency alarms, smashed the window and put out the fire before it spread to any other part of the store. Several customers had an exciting few minutes watching the blaze. Fire officials estimated the loss would not exceed $200.

JEAN NASH SON HELD 'DRUNK'

International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 29.—Andrew Donaldson Kirwan, Jean Nash Dubonnet's son, who is accused of murder on the high seas, was "imbecile drunk" shortly after a scuffle in which Gilliam Sessoms was stabbed to death, it was testified today by Capt. Gregory Cullen, skipper of the President Garfield.

Mme. Dubonnet, sitting behind her son since she was ordered by Federal Judge Inch not to pat his hand in the presence of the jurors, listened to every word tensely.

The "best-dressed woman in the world" wore a black wool dress, tailored in style, with large white collar and cuffs and a black straw tam that showed off her deeply-waved blonde hair.

Capt. Cullen, relating how he had been called to Kirwan's cabin the night of February 15, asserted:

"Not knowing whether he had gone suddenly insane from drink and might become a menace to himself and others on the ship, I ordered the irons put on him."

He added that Sessoms, whom he did not think seriously hurt at the time, was "stupidly drunk." Sessoms and Kirwan had engaged in a religious argument previous to the stabbing, previous testimony had revealed.

RESCUE 4 FROM BURNING AUTO

Four men were saved from burning to death today when a county policeman rescued them from an automobile which had plunged from the highway near Bettis Field and caught fire.

The victims were Michael D'Amico, Joseph Freise, Milas Lavada and Stephen Shaster, all of Midland, Pa.

They were rescued by County Patrolman Walter Fennel. The policeman saw the car plunge off the highway on Lebanon road near the airport and catch fire as it turned over. Braving the flames, Patrolman Fennel freed the imprisoned occupants and rushed them to the McKeesport Hospital. They were treated for cuts, bruises and slight burns.

Fennel said the men were unfamiliar with the highway and in the fog they drove off the road.

PLOT TO SHOOT LINDY TOLD

International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 29.—A story of an attempt to assassinate Charles A. Lindbergh in Paris after he landed at Le Bourget in his epoch making flight of 1927 is told in a book published today entitled "Crime Reporter" by George Du Parcq, described by the publishers as a "veteran Paris police reporter."

The plot, according to Du Parcq, was to shoot Lindbergh from the roof of the American embassy with a specially constructed air rifle.

Paris police foiled the plot, he says, acting on an underworld tip they arrested a French Apache, known only as "Armand," and a Russian anarchist whose name is not given.

Armand confessed that he had agreed to shoot Lindbergh for 10,000 francs. Du Parcq says that the incident was interpreted by the Surete Generale, the French secret police, as a deliberate attempt to embarrass Franco-American relations and that it was hushed up at the time.

Holy Thursday Marked In Rome's Cathedrals

ROME, March 29.—(AP.)—In Rome's many cathedrals and churches this morning a brief period of religious ecstasy held sway as devoted Catholics from many nations flocked to Holy Thursday services commemorating the anniversary of Christ's institution of the Eucharist.

During the "Gloria in Excelsis" climax of the commemorative reverence, Rome re-echoed with the clanging of church bells and the temples resounded with hymns of glorification.

Then the bells were silenced suddenly. Music of the swelling organs was stilled. At that moment Rome began to mourn the passion and death of Christ.

No church bells will be heard until Saturday noon and only the mourning chants of the choirs will be permitted in the temples.

Observing an old custom, priests who wish to summon the faithful to church must resort to the "troccole," a sort of large rattle in which metal strips are brought to play on wood.

Thousands of pilgrims, including many Americans, went to St. John Lateran to venerate the table which is believed to have been used at the Lord's last supper.

The pontifical mass in Vatican City was conducted by Cardinal Granito, head of the Sacred College. Fifteen cardinals and a dozen princes were present. Pope Pius attended mass in the Pauline Chapel.

SENATE UPSETS VETERAN VETO BY 3-VOTE MARGIN

ACTION MARKS BREAK WITH PRESIDENT

might be added to the tax bill already passed by the House and now pending in the Senate.

Byrns lauched at Republican statements that President Roosevelt has suffered the "worst defeat in recent years" on the Independent offices bill. He asserted:

"Why, only four years ago last June, the House passed, 290 to 14, a Spanish War veterans' pension bill over President Hoover's veto.

"President Hoover got only 14 votes; President Roosevelt got 72."

PUSH BONUS FIGHT

Now that Congress has gone contrary to the President on disability compensation, leaders of the veterans' bloc hope to push to a Senate decision the House-approved bill to pay the $2,200,000,000 soldiers' bonus with new currency.

The measure is before the Senate Finance Committee. Chairman Harrison, who has been busy getting out the new tax bill, has given no indication when the committee might take up the bonus proposal.

The $228,000,000 voted by Congress will be felt by the Treasury most heavily in the next fiscal year and the year after.

In the current fiscal year which ends June 30, Mr. Roosevelt has estimated a deficit exceeding $7,000,000,000. A slackening rate of emergency spending however, indicates a deficit far below estimates.

THREE-VOTE MARGIN

The Senate's action last night, after seven hours of furious debate, did not cause quite the surprise engendered when the overwhelmingly Democratic House defeated the veto.

By a three-vote margin of 63 to 27, the Senate engraved on the statute books the $830,000,000 independent offices appropriation bill.

In it were the increased payments for veterans and government employes which had been the bone of contention.

Republicans—33 in all—stood in solid phalanx for the bill. They were joined by 29 Democrats and the lone Farmer-Labor member, Shipstead, of Minnesota. All 27 voting to sustain the President came from the Democratic side.

Stirring scenes accompanied the vote. Opponents of the veto ignored all pleas by the Democratic leaders that such action might shake confidence in President Roosevelt at a time when it was needed.

WASHINGTON EXCITED

Announcement of the vote by Vice President Garner brought cheers, shouts and applause from the crowded galleries. Despite warnings from the chair, there had been previous outbursts both on the Senate floor and in the crowds above.

Washington received the news with some excitement. It meant that $26,000,000 extra would be given federal employes between now and July 1, part of it retroactive until February 1. In addition to this 5 per cent restoration of the government pay cut, another 5 per cent, adding another $26,000,000, will go into effect July 1. Much of this money will be spent in the capital.

While official Washington listened for Mr. Roosevelt's answer it recalled that he declared the bill went $228,000,000 beyond his budget estimates, with no provisions as to how this sum would be obtained.

IT WAS TO LAUGH!

A roar of laughter broke out both from the floor and the galleries when Senator Robinson, Indiana Republican, said that so far as he was concerned there was "not a scintilla of evidence of politics in this."

When quiet was restored he explained that he didn't care whether veterans were Republicans or Democrats, that he was "simply fighting for them all."

There was complete silence when Carter Glass, the Virginia Democrat, who has opposed the money policies of the President, took the floor.

He declared the President was correct in vetoing the bill, and that he had never wavered from the principles he thought right in his dealings with the veterans' question.

Then, his voice trembling, Glass said he had two boys "over there." He added:

"I'd disinherit them if they ever accepted a dollar from the government although they were in the front line trenches."

Senator Cutting (Rep.), of New Mexico; Senator Robinson (Rep.), of Indiana, and Steiwer (Rep.), of Oregon, led the fight for overriding the veto.

Senators Cutting and Costigan asserted the President's leadership was not involved; that Mr. Roosevelt was doing his duty as he saw it and Senators were doing their duty as they saw it.

Although the veterans and federal pay sectio involve close to $250,000,000, the other $580,000,000 included in the law will go to various independent agencies of the government to carry on a far-flung series of activities, including the Veterans Administration, Interstate Commerce and Federal Trade Commissions.

SENATE ROLL CALL

The roll call on the motion to override the veto follows:

REPUBLICANS—Austin, Barbour, Borah, Capper, Carey, Couzens, Cutting, Davis, Dickinson, Fess, Frazier, Gibson, Goldsborough, Hale, Hastings, Hatfield, Johnson, Kean, Keyes, LaFollette, McNary, Norbeck, Norris, Nye, Patterson, Reed, Robinson (Ind.), Schall, Steiwer, Townsend, Vandenberg, Walcott and White—total 33.

DEMOCRATS—Adams, Ashurst, Bachman, Bone, Bulow, Caraway, Clark, Copeland, Costigan, Dill, Duffy, George, Hatch, Hayden, Lonergan, Long, McAdoo, McCarran, McGill, McKellar, Neely, Overton, Reynoids, Russell, Smith, Thomas (Okla.), Thomas (Utah), Walsh and Wheeler—total 29.

FARMER-LABOR—Shipstead.

To sustain the President:

DEMOCRATS—Bailey, Bankhead, Barkley, Black, Brown, Bulkley, Byrd, Byrnes, Connally, Coolidge, Dieterich, Fletcher, Glass, Gore, Harrison, King, Logan, Murphy, O'Mahoney, Pope, Robinson (Ark.), Sheppard, Stephens, Thompson, Tydings, Van Nuys and Wagner—total 27.

Highlights of Senate Views in Vet Veto Upset

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP.)—Some of the arguments in Senate debate on the motion to override the President's veto of veterans benefit and federal pay legislation were:

CUTTING (Rep.), of New Mexico, veterans leader—It has been apparent since the Economy Act was passed that justice for disabled ex-service men could be obtained only by a two-thirds vote in both Houses. (Two-thirds being necessary to override a veto.)

ROBINSON (Dem.), of Arkansas, Administration floor leader—Every citizen is expected to yield his service to his country when it is imperiled. One who went to a concentration camp to prepare for service at the front is not to be discriminated against, but is not to get any privileges denied to any other citizen who did his part but did not wear a uniform.

ROBINSON (Rep.), of Indiana—This should be too sacred for politics. I don't care whether the veterans are Democrats or Republicans. I'm simply fighting for them all.

DAVIS (Rep.), of Pennsylvania—I have voted to reduce my own salary, but I kept faith with the low-salaried government workers and the disabled veterans.

HARRISON (Dem.), of Mississippi, chairman of the Finance Committee—Asked the Senate not to "endanger prosperity and destroy the President's influence."

COSTIGAN (Dem.), of Colorado—President Roosevelt's leadership is not involved. As Chief Executive he is doing his duty as he sees it; as Senators we are called on to do our duty as we see it.

GLASS (Dem.), of Virginia—Suggested that House members had "masqueraded behind the veterans" to eliminate an amendment which would have continued the pay cut for Congress members. He said that "in this time of desperate distress no man should be on the pension roll who isn't entitled to be there; every unworthy man on the pension roll makes it impossible to that extent for the Treasury to reward every worthy man."

LONG (Dem.), of Louisiana—Sandwiching in a remark during debate between Robinson, of Indiana, and Harrison, of Mississippi. "They're trying to start a bull fight."

BAILEY (Dem.), of North Carolina—Presented figures to show veterans' benefits by this country during 1931 and 1932 were more than the combined payments by Great Britain, France and Germany. Cautioning against undue expenditure, he said that "the American people haven't a ray of chance to get out of this depression until the government balances the budget."

29,000 World War Vets Restored to Relief Roll

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Here's what the new Independent Offices Law means to veterans and federal employes compared with the previous law and regulations:

Twenty-nine thousand World War veterans are restored to the rolls permanently at 75 per cent of what they were getting prior to the Economy Act of 1933. The compensation will depend on the degree of disability presumed to have had service origin. Review boards, acting under regulations issued after the economy law, had stricken these men from the lists because of lack of proof that their injuries or diseases were the result of war duty.

Permanently disabled World War veterans will get $100 a month instead of $90 as at present.

An unestimated number of Spanish-American War veterans are restored to the rolls at 75 per cent of their old pensions. Review boards also had eliminated this group because they could not prove service origin for their disabilities. Widows and dependents also are restored at 75 per cent. Federal employes who are now working at 15 per cent less than they were getting prior to the Economy Act will gt back one-third of this cut as of February 1 this year and another third July 1.

NEWSBOY DIES OF WOUND

Joseph Vargo

His family today mourned the death of 14-year-old Joseph Vargo, Sun-Telegraph carrier boy, who accidentally shot himself in front of his Logan's Ferry home Saturday.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Vargo. Friends say that he started to tuck his rifle under his arm, and that it fired a bullet into his head when it slipped out of his hands. He was rushed to the Citizens' General Hospital, New Kensington, where he died yesterday.

Requiem high mass will be sung in SS. Peter and Paul Church, New Kensington, at 9 a. m. Saturday.

Chinese 'New Deal' Puts Ban on English

SHANGHAI, March 29.—(AP.)—As the latest step in his "new deal" for China, Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek today turned thumbs down on the English language. Chiang ordered Chinese publications to cease carrying titles in English in conjunction with Chinese.

Pinchot Man Quits; Says 'Faith Lost'

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—(AP.)—William Langton Rubin, counsel for depositors in a closed bank, yesterday wrote to Gov. Gifford Pinchot that he was resigning as Pinchot leader in the Twenty-ninth Ward. His reason:

"Certain events have caused me to lose faith in you."

Rubin wrote the chief executive that he should have ordered the State Banking Department to take action to prevent "dissipation of depositors' funds."

2 YOUTHS HELD CHARGED WITH EXTORTION

Frank Starr, 20, of 825 Fineview street, and Jacob Bonn, 24, of 17 Mercer street, were held for court today under $1,000 bond each on charges of extortion at a hearing before Alderman A. M. Maloney.

They are alleged to have attempted to extort $100 from Joseph Schwartz, proprietor of a restaurant at 1900 Center avenue.

Meanwhile, county detectives are searching for Deputy Constable Tony Davis, attached to the offices of Justice of the Peace Richard Lloyd, of Munhall, and of Justice of the Peace Ira H. Edmundson, of Mt. Lebanon, following testimony by Schwartz that Davis had telephoned him in an effort "to fix" the cases against Starr and Bonn.

Starr attempted to elude detectives yesterday at Fifth and Wylie avenues, but ran into the arms of Hal (Happy) Solomon, department store detective, and was captured. Bonn was arrested later.

According to the information, Starr contacted Schwartz a week ago, impersonating himself as a constable from the office of Justice of the Peace Edmundson.

He is alleged to have told Schwartz three charges were against him in Edmundson's office and that they could be "fixed" for $100, $50 of which was to go to another constable.

Schwartz, according to the report, went to District Attorney Andrew T. Park with the report. Park assigned two county detectives to the case.

Township Dispute Now Up to Court

Baldwin Township Commissioners were to appear before Judge W. Heber Dithrich today following their failure yesterday to agree on an election of officers and township reorganization. The four holdover Commissioners were to present a petition to the court to oust the four new Commissioners.

At the same time the court was expected to hand down a decision on the petition presented by the new Commissioners to oust the old members. At a hearing before Judge Dithrich March 14 the court gave the Commissioners until today to settle their differences.

STATE FACES NEW RELIEF CRISIS

HARRISBURG, March 29 (AP).—Fear that another special Legislative session may be necessary in the near future unless the federal government shoulders Pennsylvania's relief burden was expressed today by Auditor General Frank E. Baldwin.

The plight of the state's relief coffers was disclosed yesterday at a meeting of the Emergency Relief Board which found itself limited to appropriations for only the first half of April.

Theoretically the state has another 20 million dollars, an amount earmarked from liquor store profits by the Legislature, Baldwin said.

"But we all know it isn't there."

FUND REPORTED LOW

He pointed out that the Legislature, in addition to the 20 million dollars for relief, appropriated four millions for old age assistance and $1,300,000 for pensions to the blind from liquor revenues, a total of more than 25 million dollars.

Baldwin asserted:

"If this money is to be provided as appropriated, it will be necessary to call another special session before January, 1935. Right now it looks as though it would be necessary by May 15."

The state's general fund also is reported at a low mark.

OFFERS TO QUIT

Gov. Pinchot is expected to attend the next relief board meeting, called for April 11.

Meanwhile, criticized for his administrative program and his prophecy that the relief burden will continue another year, Eric H. Biddle has offered to resign as director of the State Emergency Relief Board.

In a fiery verbal clash yesterday he told Grover C. Talbot, Speaker of the House, and Baldwin:

"Gentlemen, my resignation is on the table any time you want it."

DELAY LOOMS IN RELIEF WORK

Possibility of a delay in resumption of Civil Works projects after the CWA has been supplanted by the new Relief Work Division loomed today following receipt of a bulletin from CWA authorities at Harrisburg.

According to the order, which was issued yesterday, no job can proceed under the RWD until state officials have approved the transfer from the CWA and assigned a new controller's number to the project.

Substituting for James L. Stuart, county CWA head, Philip A. Lantz, assistant administrator, and Charles A. Mayfield, chief CWA engineer here, are in Harrisburg today with a list of local projects which they will attempt to have sanctioned before their return.

Though the RWD becomes operative Monday, Mayfield said the number of employes who go to work on that day will depend on the action of Harrisburg authorities. Previous orders had indicated that all CWA jobs would proceed under the RWD with no interruption in the program.

BIDDLE ORDERS PARING OF CIVIL WORKS PAYROLLS

HARRISBURG, March 29 (AP).—Wholesale dismissal of Civil Works employes who are not eligible for state relief was ordered today by Eric H. Biddle, executive director of the State Emergency Relief Board.

Biddle issued the instructions at a meeting of county executives of the relief board and the New Work division which will replace the Civil Works Administration Monday.

The new arrangement technically means the termination of CWA activities and the transfer of projects and supervisory staffs to state jurisdiction.

Biddle, who is federal CWA administrator for Pennsylvania, will become executive director of the work division.

He said that grants for food and fuel relief by the state board yesterday cover only the first half of April because funds are "very limited."

He warned that, if funds are to cover relief needs for the entire month:

"It is absolutely necessary that persons ineligible for relief and now working on CWA projects be replaced as rapidly as possible by persons on the relief rolls.

"Unless such replacement is accomplished very rapidly, the funds not available will not be sufficient to carry the relief program through April, and it will be necessary to drastically curtail the program of the work division during the second half of April."

Biddle said "desirable" projects under the CWA will be transferred to the work division.

To be "desirable," he said, projects must:

"Be for the benefit of governmental units or for publicly-owned and controlled institutions. This will exclude state-aided institutions. Projects of this nature now under way, however, may be continued to April 30.

"Be of economic and social benefit to the general public.

"Not be encouraged where there is clearly a substitution for the normal responsibility of the local or state government.

"Be undertaken independently of work under a contract, or for which an annual appropriation has been made, and must be, in general, apart from normal governmental enterprises. Projects such as garbage collections, snow removal, street cleaning, and lawn maintenance in parks are absolutely ineligible.

"Projects which will improve the health and recreational facilities of the community are especially desirable."

More than 300 members of county supervisory staffs attended the meeting at the capitol.

STEEL PAYROLL ADDS MILLIONS IN DISTRICT

Steel company payrolls for the Pittsburgh district boosted 10 per cent in line with the policy of leading manufacturers of the nation, are expected to bring an extra $1,250,000 into the district beginning April 1.

More than 125,000 steel workers will benefit by the increase, according to estimates here. Already, the pay raise has been announced by the Carnegie Steel Company, with plants in Homestead, Braddock, Duquense and other sections of the Pittsburgh district.

Other large independent producers and fabricators of steel are expected to follow suit within the next few days.

Among the firms announcing the increase in addition to the Carnegie company are the Empire Sheet and Tube Company, of Mansfield, O.; Sharon Steel Hoop Company, of Sharon, Pa., and Lowellville, O.; the Youngstown Pressed Steel Company, of Warren, O.; the Timken Steel and Tube Company, of Canton, O., and the Bethlehem Steel Company, with plants at Johnstown, Pa.

GREEN FAVORS JOB SURETY

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP.)—Contending that society must assume its obligation and put into effect a public policy for insurance against suffering during emergencies, President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, urged Congress to enact the Wagner-Lewis unemployment insurance measure indorsed by President Roosevelt.

Green, with other witnesses, including Father Francis J. Haas, of the NRA Labor Advisory Board and Father John A. Ryan, of Catholic University, Washington, appeared before a House Ways and Means sub-committee headed by Representative Lewis, of Maryland, who is co-author of the bill with Senator Wagner.

The measure would levy a five per cent excise tax on the payrolls of employers of 1 or more persons against which they would be credited with what they paid out through the state unemployment insurance systems it is hoped will be set up.

BETHLEHEM, March 29.—(AP.)—Approximately 60,000 employes in all the plants of the Bethlehem Steel Company will benefit by a 10 per cent wage increase to become effective April 1.

Announcement of the increase was made at the company's Bethlehem office last night after a meeting of workers' representatives.

ASK WEIRTON PROSECUTOR

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—A bill was introduced in the House today at the request of Attorney General Cummings which would permit the employment of Frank Nebeker, Washington attorney, to represent the government in its suit against the Weirton Steel Company for alleged violation of the labor provision of the NRA code.

Special legislation is necessary in Nebeker's case because of a law which prohibits employing an attorney who represents clients who have claims against the government. Nebeker has some income tax cases pending.

CODE VIOLATION CHARGES FEW

Indications that Pittsburgh is a code-abiding city or that knowledge or interest in operations of the retail code are lacking, were seen today by the Retail Code Authority in the small number of code violations charged in the Pittsburgh district.

Only 85 complaints of violations of the fair trade practice and labor provisions of the retail code have been received since January 16, James H. Greene, secretary of the Authority, announced. Investigation, the announcement said, disclosed nine were unjustified and of 76 justifiable complaints, 71 were against misrepresentation in advertising copy or on display cards.

One complaint charged failure to pay the minimum wages prescribed in the code and four alleged the maximum hours provision of the code was being violated. There were eight complaints of selling below cost.

Greene said:

"There is a very decided improvement in the tone of retail advertising in the Pittsburgh district since the retail code became effective. This should be of considerable interest and value to consumers."

HARRIMAN SEES DISASTER IN WAGNER BILL

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP.)—Calling the Wagner Labor Board bill "probably unconstitutional," Henry I. Harriman, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, today predicted it would have a "disastrous effect upon the economic life of the country." He said at a hearing before the Senate Labor Committee:

"I fear it will undo much of the good which the Recovery Act has brought about."

Harriman was one of a number of industrialists who appeared in the committee room, armed with statements in opposition to the bill, which would make the National Labor Board a permanent institution and outlaw company unions.

Launching out at the important Section 5 of the bill, Harriman contended:

"It is an obvious attempt to amplify the provisions of Section 7A of the Industrial Recovery Act.

"In view, however, of the very broad interpretation of that section, recently made by the President in his settlement of the threatened automobile strike, I see no reason for any further amplification of that section, except to carry out the thought of the President.

"Under Section 7A, the employe is protected from interference, restraint or coercion of the employer of labor, or his agent; but it is equally important, as the President points out, that the employer be protected from interference, restraint, or coercion on the part of labor organizations, or any other parties."

3,200 Miners Get Jobs at Charleroi

CHARLEROI, Pa., March 29.—(AP.)—Back-to-work news was heard today by approximately 1,000 unemployed miners with the announcement by Supt. J. J. McCune that the Bethlehem Steel Company's Ellsworth and Marianna mines will reopen April 3.

Yesterday, the Ontario and Cokeburg Junction mines resumed operations. It was estimated that with reopening of the four properties the total number of men back in the pits in this district will be about 3,200.

Russian Princess Divorced by Mate

LONDON, March 29.—(INS.)—Sholto Douglas Vickers was granted a decree nisi yesterday from the former Russian Princess Olga Galatzin. His complaint alleged his wife had confessed unfaithfulness.

Johnson Draws Curtain on NRA 'Goldfish Bowl'

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, whose favorite observation used to be that NRA activities were conducted "in a goldfish bowl," so that all could see, apparently has changed his mind.

In any event, a new order was out today instructing division heads of the NRA not to impart information on recovery activities to the press. Considerable secrecy surrounded the order. No announcement was made concerning it and no explanation offered as to the reason for it.

Only a few copies of the order were issued, but division heads passed the word along orally to assistants.

The copy of the order read:

"This is a reminder that information to the press (other than that issued from the administrator's office) should go out through the public relations department and not direct to reporters.

"Will you please convey this information verbally to all in your division whom it might affect."

The order was signed by Alvin Brown, one of the legal counsel.

UNION TO BARE SECRET LISTS

DETROIT, March 29.—(AP.)—The secret membership lists of the Michigan Automobile Workers' Unions were prepared today for submission to President Roosevelt's special labor board.

The submission of the lists to the board for its use in investigating charges of discrimination and discharge involving union workers marks the first time this information has been made available outside the American Federation of Labor.

Dr. Leo Wolman, chairman of the board, was expected here this morning to open the first meeting. The meeting, scheduled for Wedneshday, was postponed when Dr. Wolman made a trip to Washington before leaving for Detroit. The other members of the board are Richard L. Byrd, of Pontiac, representing labor, and Nicholas Kelly, of New York, representing the automobile manufacturers.

Car Firm to Reopen Cleveland Plant

CLEVELAND, March 29.—(AP.)—Officials of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation today had announced its branch plant in Cleveland will be reopened within two weeks with from 350 to 500 men employed. It has been idle since last December.

CODED TRADES OPPOSE CUT IN HOURS

WASHINGTON, March 29. —(AP.)—Spokesmen for a major division of coded business today advised Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, against a blanket reduction of working hours and corresponding wage increases.

Retailers, wholesalers and consumers' service representatives told the NRA chieftain that increased employment could be expected from further trial and "proper enforcement" of present codes. They said:

"Any 'arbitrary edict' imposing shorter hours and higher wages would be violative of the spirit of the partnership arrangement in which business and government have engaged.

"The principle of self government by business would be seriously jeopardized."

The report was made by the distribution and consumer trades committee, selected to comment on recovery weaknesses which Johnson pointed out to the recent conference of code authorities here.

The committee said prices should be filed with the Recovery Administration as well as with code authorities. It held that price increases "resulting from the elimination of predatory and cut-throat competition," or because of increased labor and material costs, were fully justified, but that all substantial price increases filed should be accompanied by an explanation.

Code authorities represented on the committee included: national retail, retail drug, food and grocery, wholesale dry goods, wholesale hardware, wholesale druggists, laundry, restaurants, cleaning and dyeing and hotel.

700 Machinists Join Akron Strike

AKRON, O., March 29.—(AP.)—Walkout of more than 700 machinists from eight shops today nearly doubled the number of workers on strike in the Akron district.

All shops making tire molds and doing other machine work for the rubber industry are closed by the strike, union leaders claim. The machinists are asking union recognition and wage increases averaging 10 per cent.

Coast Steel Firm Joins in Pay Boost

SEATTLE, March 29.—(AP.)—A wage increase of 10 per cent will be given the 500 employes of the Pacific Coast Steel Company here April 1, affecting every employe in the plant, officials announced today.

More than 250 men have been added to the plant in the last three months.

I'LL BET YOU'VE NEVER TRIED THIS.. OR YOU'D HAVE YOUR LINE OUT IN THE SUN RIGHT NOW!
OXYDOL? NO I HAVEN'T TRIED IT. BUT I KNOW FROM EXPERIENCE YOU CAN'T EXPECT A SOAP TO MAKE MUCH DIFFERENCE!
COME ON! TRY IT ON THIS BATCH ANYWAY. I'LL BET YOU A MOVIE THEY'RE SOAKED SPOTLESSLY CLEAN IN 15 MINUTES!
ALL RIGHT— BUT YOU'LL NEVER GET THOSE SHEETS WHITE THAT WAY!
GRACIOUS! I MUST ADMIT I NEVER SAW SUCH THICK, CREAMY SUDS!
PUT THAT WASHBOARD AWAY! YOU DON'T SCRUB THE CLOTHES WHEN YOU USE OXYDOL. LOOK.. THEY'RE WHITER THAN IF YOU'D BOILED THEM.
THERE! THE MOST SPARKLING LINE ON THE BLOCK! AND YOU'RE COLORED THINGS ARE BRIGHT AS NEW! ... YOU'LL FIND EVERYTHING LASTS AGES LONGER, TOO.
I WOULDN'T HAVE BELIEVED IT POSSIBLE! HOW SWEET THEY SMELL! AND IMAGINE GETTING THROUGH BY NOON! I'M NOT THE LEAST BIT TIRED, EITHER.

(AN ACTUAL EXPERIENCE FROM REAL LIFE)

Towels, Linen Sparkling White Now

Colored Clothes Unfaded—Thanks to Oxydol!

THIS IS THE FIFTH MOVIE I'VE WON BY BETTING ON OXYDOL.
I T'S WORTH IT! I'LL NEVER GO BACK TO OLD-STYLE SOAP AGAIN. NO MORE BOILING OR HARD RUBBING FOR ME!
READ MRS. GUDGER'S LETTER

Mrs. J. D. Gudger, Minneapolis, Minn.

"I used to hang my wash in the basement so no one could see it, until one day I heard about Oxydol. Now you couldn't get me to use anything else and my dish towels and hand towels are as white as my lovely table linen. My colored clothes, too, may fade from the sun, but never from Oxydol."

IF you, too, want the far faster, far whiter way in washing that Mrs. Gudger has found—then you are urged to try this latest discovery of the Procter & Gamble experts, makers of famous Ivory—the New and Improved OXYDOL!

It does 3 things no other soap can do or has ever done:

Cuts washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine. Hence, gives you your afternoon free!

Gets clothes 4 to 5 shades WHITER, by the scientific whiteness-measuring Tintometer test. Whiter EVEN than other granulated soaps (heretofore considered "whitest washing") can do in TWO washings!

Yet, due to its utterly new and improved formula, colors won't fade; fabric won't wear out! Even cotton prints and children's dainty frocks are safe. Yet, despite its amazing cleaning power, it leaves hands soft, finger nails lustrous and uncracked.

It works without back-breaking rubbing. For it works by dissolving dirt. OXYDOL SOAKS dirt out in 15 minutes. So you never have to scrub and boil clothes clean.

Thick 3-inch Suds in Any Water

The New and Improved OXYDOL will make thick "soft water suds" in any water, hard or soft. Without added "softener" or washing preparations. This is why:

It is specially fitted to water conditions in each district where it's sold.

Water in this district, for example, has been tested for "hardness" by expert chemists. And the OXYDOL you get here contains just the right amount of softener to fit it.

You can see the results in the suds. OXYDOL multiplies 500 TIMES in suds—suds as rich as whipped dairy cream! Which means at least twice as much "soap action" as from old-style soaps.

Equally important is the fact that OXYDOL, by dissolving completely, rinses out completely. Thus banishes "soap streaks" from ironing.

And OXYDOL is economical. In buying many ordinary granulated or flake soaps you may have to spend as much as 8⅓ to 30% more to get the same amount of soap. By buying OXYDOL, you get, in some cases, as much as one-third more soap for the same money.

Make This Test

Get OXYDOL today from your grocer and make this two-way test: (1) With a ruler measure OXYDOL's thick suds and compare with the suds made by your usual soap—note how long they last; (2) watch the clock to prove to yourself that OXYDOL does soak out the dirt in 15 minutes!

CHURCHES PLAN GOOD FRIDAY SERVICES

Twenty-five members of the First Unitarian Church, Morewood and Ellsworth avenues, will take part in the "Consecration of Sir Galahad," a pageant to be presented under the direction of Mrs. Archibald J. Sprague at 8 p. m. tomorrow.

The pageant is part of a Good Friday evening service which will include an organ recital by Mathew Frey, sentences by the minister, and a number of hymns.

In Epiphany Catholic Church, Washington place, the impressive services of the Tenebrae, the service of darkness, will be held tonight and tomorrow. Typifying the growing darkness of the earth at the time of the death of Christ, 12 of 13 lighted candles are put out one by one during the singing of the psalms. The unextinguished candle signifies that death could not really obtain dominion over Christ.

Pre-Easter services of the First Primitive Methodist Church, Holmes street, will include at 7:30 this evening a sermon of "The Verdict of the Cross," and communion. In the Third Presbyterian Church, Fifth and S. Negley avenues, Dr. William L. McEwan will speak at 5 p. m.

Communion services will be held at both the Bellefield Presbyterian Church, Fifth and Bellefield avenues, and at St. Peter's Episcopal Church at 8 o'clock tonight, in commemoration of the institution of the Lord's Supper.

CUPID SKATES IN ROMANCE

SALT LAKE CITY, March 29.—(AP.)—A "roller skate romance" has culminated in the marriage of Maurice Hasson, 22, Los Angeles, and Virginia Lambert, 20, Salt Lake City.

A month ago a New York company offered Hasson and his friend, Richard Burfield, 26, New York, $5,000 to roller skate from Oakland, Cal., to New York in 50 "working days."

Hasson's fiancee (not Miss Lambert) had already gone to New York. Eighteen days of skating brought Hasson and Burfield to this city, where they met Miss Lambert.

A brief romance followed, ending in the marriage Saturday.

After another week's rest, Burfield, Hasson and Mrs. Hasson will resume the roller skate trip to New York, all three confident of winning the $5,000.

The Postoffice Department plans to print 200,000,000 of the stamps within the next few days for sale at 3 cents each. The first day's sale will take place at the philatelic agency here May 1. Sales at post offices throughout the country will take place the following day.

DENVER, March 29.—(AP.)—For the first time in five years, E. J. Timbers, bottling company official, counted his money without a bodyguard of employes around him—and bandits came.

Tax Hero Fails To Force $20 On U. S.

ATLANTA, March 29.—A resident of Dalton, Ga., sought to pay the government $20 income tax which he didn't owe. He wrote to the tax bureau:

"I just naturally want to pay something and am inclosing my check for $20. I pay state and county taxes and see no reason why I should not pay some government tax. I am proud of our government and feel we should all put our shoulders to the wheel."

The check was returned. The government is not permitted to accept such donations.

West Virginian Fined On Liquor Charge

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 29.—(AP.)—Possession of legally-acquired liquor for personal use is all right, says Municipal Judge Boone Dawson, but he can't conceive of anybody needing 30 quarts at one time, so he fined Herb Hannigan, of Charleston, $104 yesterday for possession of that much liquor, purchased in a nearby wet state.

Watchman Thinks Theft Alarm's Clock

CASHMERE, Wash., March 29.—(AP.)—Well-timed was the burglary of the Cashmere Tire Shop. A bank watchman and a baker heard the burglar alarm but as it was 6:30 a. m. they thought it an alarm clock.

Police Tag Good Despite Nice Easter Card

NEW YORK, March 29.—(AP.)—A policeman tagged an automobile owned by Gus Defur for illegal parking. He didn't appear in court today, but the West 20th Street Police Station received this Easter message signed by Mrs. Truitt Defur of the same address:

"May Easter bring its blessings,
And keep your spirits high;
And Springtime add its glories
As it goes marching by."

A summons was issued for Defur.

Boys Sought As Purse Snatchers

Police today were searching for a group of small boys who for several nights have been grabbing purses from women on dark streets in Homestead and Munhall. Women report that they have been seized upon by boys who leap from dark hallways and behind trees.

'Storm Over Asia' Film to Be Shown

Plans Buggy Ride From Louisiana To Washington

EARTH, La., March 29.—(AP.)—The motor car, the Pullman or the airplane hold no charm for Nicholas Broussard when he plans to take a trip to Washington to see the President.

"Nich," 75 years old, likes the stage coach days better. He is planning to begin a buggy ride from Abbeville, La., to Washington on April 18, dedicated to the 159th anniversary of the ride of Paul Revere. Broussard said he would carry along two white roosters to present to President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner.

Pirate Pheasant Raids City Market

SEATTLE, March 29.—(AP.)—A wild Chinese peasant, beautifully marked, swooped down out of the sky and began gobbling cabbages, onions and lettuce in the stalls of the public market, in the heat of the city. It was captured and will be turned over to a zoo.

A Personal Message from the McCreery Management to All Pittsburgh

Please Accept Our Most Heartfelt Thanks and Appreciation for Your Sympathetic Understanding and Sincere Spirit of Helpfulness During the Trying and Most Distressing Recent Experience

The spontaneous and genuine spirit of helpfulness on the part of the thousands of loyal McCreery customers, friends of the store and fellow merchants during the recent parrot fever epidemic with which our city was stricken and by a stroke of fate singled out our store, is most sincerely and gratefully appreciated.

Many interested and sympathetic people from all walks of life have come to our store, phoned and written us, counseling, advising and even urging us to make a public announcement in the best interest of the business.

This concern on the part of our friends for the welfare of McCreery's and all that our store has stood for over the years, has been a most inspiring thing to the management. The tradition back of McCreery's, these many years, now flowers into a very real and human understanding between the store and the community. This fine spirit is greatly valued. However, following the usual, expected and traditional conservative policy pursued by the store since its inception almost thirty years ago, we purposely withheld making this further statement until the health department could make a complete investigation.

This old McCreery policy of guarding the public's best interest first, last and always guided us, even in face of inevitable, yet temporary loss in business.

This was a McCreery problem . . . we faced it alone . . . and baffling as it was, we have taken the course expected of us . . . that of making whatever sacrifice of the moment that was necessary in the best interest of the community.

This we have done.

For those who may not have had the full facts, and for those who may still fear, the following statement is made:

When conjecture or question first pointed to our pet shop as a possible source of parrot fever contamination, every precaution was taken immediately and all birds of the parrot family were immediately destroyed. As a further precautionary step, we eliminated our pet shop altogether. All possible sources of the disease were carefully investigated and it was found that the health of our employes and the public had been fully protected in every known way.

To further satisfy ourselves, we asked Dr. Moyer, Director of Public Health, and Dr. Badger, of the U. S. Health Department at Washington, to visit our store and make a thorough investigation of the entire premises. This they did on March 16th and authorized a statement at once to the press that McCreery's Store was safe in every way and that the public might shop here without any danger whatsoever.

Further assurance was given the public in this statement to the effect that the disease could not be contracted except through contact with an afflicted bird.

To allay the fears of those who may not have had all the facts, and as an assurance that there can be no possible danger of any kind whatsoever in shopping in our store, we have asked Dr. Moyer, who has been in constant touch with the situation from the start, doing everything humanly possible to protect the public health, to make a statement at this time as a part of this announcement. We quote him as of Wednesday, March 28th:

"In the interest of the public health and the customers of McCreery's, a complete and thorough inspection of the McCreery Store and premises was made on March 16th and no possible further source of psittacosis (parrot fever) contamination was found. It is therefore perfectly safe in every way for the public to trade in the store."

DR. RAY P. MOYER,
Director of Public Health, Pittsburgh.

Again may we say to all Pittsburgh . . . Thanks most sincerely for your sympathetic spirit of helpfulness . . . we are humbly conscious of the fine faith and general public interest in our store. Your help during our recent dark days has made us fully mindful and most appreciative of the many warm friendships so deeply cherished by McCreery's, which, over the years, have been a very real and tangible part of the success of this business.

REDS IN U. S. REGARD RUSSIA AS FATHERLAND

Documents Show Their Loyalty To Stalin

By RALPH M. EASLEY
Chairman Executive Council, the National Civic Federation
As Told To EARL REEVES

The Red International of Moscow, through its "thesis" for the coming year's operations on January 13, gave orders to the Communist Party, U. S. A., on "preparing to go underground" and on "tightening up discipline and fighting fitness."

Since that time there has been increased activity in "secret fractions" of the party. Many metings of the type formerly held in local headquarters now are being held secretly in homes of party members.

An intensive check-up is in process, not alone on the party membership, but throughout Communistic "mass organization;" in which, for every party member there are 10 to 20 aspirants to party membership.

Striking evidence regarding the tactics of Communism is the United States will be given in this article—FROM DOCUMENTS OF THE COMMUNISTS THEMSELVES.

COMMUNISTS IN U. S. RUSSIAN SUBJECTS

Communists recently held "Lenin Memorial" mass meetings. One was held at Ninth and Grand avenues, Los Angeles. Joseph Branch, director of the Communist party school at San Francisco, spoke. He indicated that COMMUNISTS WITHIN THE UNITED STATES CONSIDER THEMSELVES RUSSIAN SUBJECTS. He said:

"Manchuria is one of the danger spots of the world—for you here in California, fellow comrades.

"A most important point is that Manchuria borders upon OUR OWN LAND, our own country; it borders for approximately 2,000 miles on OUR country; a 2,000-mile line of the heroic Red army.

"The Japanese militarists are not going to hesitate forever. At some point the clash will come.

"At that point we will have to take very serious measures TO DEFEND OUR COUNTRY, OUR FATHERLAND."

Communism now is seeking out and publishing to its membership name and location of factories within the United States making war supplies. In the event of a Russo-Japanese war, if any of these supplies are destined for Japan, the plants manufacturing them become, in the minds of the Communists, "enemies of their Fatherland."

REDS FORM ARMY OF FOES IN U. S.

Many types of local citizens unwittingly co-operate with Communists. ON NO ACCOUNT SHOULD LOYAL CITIZENS EVER DO SO.

Communism is AN ENEMY ARMY OF OCCUPATION within the United States.

Moscow ordered the building of THE SECRET MACHINERY WHICH IS NOW CAUSING STRIKES, RIOTS AND DEMONSTRATION. IT IS STRIVING TO CRIPPLE OUR NATIONAL DEFENSE, AND SEEKING A STRANGLE HOLD ON VITAL SOURCES OF WAR SUPPLY.

The Red International has ordered such things as:

Training of small groups for strike and fight leadership, maintenance of secret organizations, tactics in street fighting, methods of arming mobs, and use of barricades—such as appeared in the streets of Paris recently.

MOSCOW COMMANDS SECRET MACHINE

Excerpts from a Moscow document, published in six languages, with the United States heading the distribution list, follow:

SECRECY "the question of an illegal organization must occupy the center of attention of all Communist parties of the capitalist countries without exception.

"It is necessary to create illegal machinery immediately parallel to the legal machinery of the party. Addresses and places must be arranged for secret correspondence and secret meetings; and also for lodging illegal militants of the party. All the militants of the party should know what are the documents which should remain secret. There shall be no document left in the legal premises of the party which may give cause for (police) repression.

"As regards these premises it should be the general rule that THE MILITANT LEADERS SHOULD AVOID BEING FOUND THERE."

"The factory cells ABSOLUTELY MUST organize themselves immediately as ILLEGAL organizations and work with ILLEGAL methods."

These "cells" now cause "mystery strikes," and block settlements, spread unrest—and Communism.

SPY SYSTEM WORKS WITHIN INDUSTRY

These "cells" also constitute Communism's SPY SYSTEM within American industry.

In the event of revolution, "cell members" expect to be appointed SOVIET DIRECTORS of the plants in which they now are employed.

RIOTS—"It must be recalled that while, at the time of armed insurrection, the watchword is, 'the offensive at all costs, revolutionary demonstrations are only TRAINING FOR WAR,' and not real war.

"To publish in advance the watchword 'armed demonstration' is to play at insurrection in an abused fashion. Those who demand arms of the Communist party are simply INCAPABLE OF ARMING THEMSELVES.

"There is nothing against the spontaneous arming of demonstrators, but only against their general arming as the result of a watchword launched in advance AND IN THE COURSE OF A PERIOD NOT YET RIPE FOR ARMED INSURRECTION . . .

"Non-resistence (against police) amounts to a betrayal of the principles of CLASS WAR."

TACTICS — "Organize marches of workers and starving poor in quarters inhabited by the rich."

TACTICS USED IN U. S. BY DEMONSTRATORS

"Communist demonstrators in America have used these tactics.

Such Moscow instructions should convince any reader of the true revolutionary nature of Communism.

DUPES — the present Communist campaign is one of CONCENTRATION ON VITAL SPOTS. The "extraordinary conference" held in New York last July ordered "concentration on special factories, districts and sections," and on "factory nuclei, local organizations and street nuclei."

Except where Communism has revolutionary unions of its own it seeks strategic control at vital points, where the nation can be crippled, through OTHER ELEMENTS OF THE POPULATION, these being disaffected.

The sole objective of the Communists who use these groups is revolution and Soviet power in America.

CAPTURE OF REFORM MOVEMENTS URGED

In other words, secretly penetrate and CAPTURE any movement which aims at reform or betterment of conditions. Turn it into channels of disrupting, destructive criticism and agitation.

AGAIN AND AGAIN, the Communists have done this very thing; and thus loyal citizens by hundreds of thousands have been made the unconscious tools of revolutionary Communism.

Ready to Cripple America If War Comes

Many have been bewildered by a polite fiction that the "Third International" has existed merely as a propaganda organization.

It is untrue. Stalin directs both the Soviet government and the Communist International. The latter is not merely a propaganda organization, BUT THE ACTIVELY FUNCTIONING, FIGHTING HEAD AND MASTER OF COMMUNISM THROUGHOUT THE ENTIRE WORLD.

Its orders are obeyed by the Communist Party of America.

THE DIRECTORS OF THE SOVIET ARE THE DIRECTORS OF THE RECENTLY SPEEDED UP EFFORT TO BRING ABOUT REVOLUTION IN AMERICA.

(This is the fourth of a series of articles on the startling progress of industrial Communism in the United States. The fifth will appear in an early issue of this newspaper, probably tomorrow.)

THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH WANT-ADS BRING RESULTS

STUDENT CLUB OPENS DRIVE ON REDS

Determined to stamp out Communism in Pittsburgh's schools, 200 members of the Inter-Club are on record today pledged to bend every effort to eradicate "the revolutionary student movement by the Communists."

The club is an organization of boys and girls in the city's high and preparatory schools.

Action was taken in the form of a resolution which condemned the Communist movement in schools and colleges as "efforts to cripple national defense, to stir up race hatred and to organize the masses against the present government."

David B. Ludwig, Jr., of 6231 Wellesley avenue, East End, chairman of the recent Charity Ball, offered the resolution. He said:

"If Communism is allowed to go on and grow unchecked by those of us who should stand between it and the foundations of our social organization, in a very few years there would be no use for social organizations.

"Social activities would not be in the hands of boys and girls. Instead we would be entertained in black shirts, our individualities gone. We would be at the command of a Red dictator. Over all would wave a red flag, emblematic of our failure to keep faith with our fathers whose lives were spent and given to make our country a great nation for us."

GARAGE BLAST ROUTS THREE

An explosion in the garage adjoining the home of Dr. F. T. Nason, on the Pittsburgh-McKeesport boulevard, near Bettis Field, forced three persons to flee early today.

They were Mrs. Margaret Dolcke, wife of Albert Dolcke, gardener in Dr. Nason's employ, and her two children, Sonny, 6, and Dolores, 3.

The Dolcke family lives in an apartment above the garage.

Firemen were called from Dravosburg and succeeded in driving four automobiles from the garage and extinguishing the flames before much damage was done.

Cause of the explosion was undetermined.

LADY FINGER SANDWICHES

Finely chop candied cherries, oranges, pineapple, apricots, pears and layer raisins, seeded. There should be one cup when chopped. Add one-half cup finely shredded, blanched almonds. Moisten with orange or grapefruit marmalade (chopped if materials were sliced) to the consistency to spread. Have ready fresh lady fingers. Split apart and spread half the fingers with prepared fruit, set remaining halves above, press lightly together and insert a few shreds of salted almonds on the top of each sandwich. Arrange them in a fancy sandwich basket or plate and serve with hot or iced tea, hot cocoa or chocolate.

MRS. HARRY E. HARGER,
Newell.
VANILLA CARAMELS

Two and three-quarters cups white sugar.
One cup white syrup.
One and one-half cups canned milk.
One-half cup water.
Two large level tablespoons cornstarch.
Two large level tablespoons butter.

Mix and cook, stirring frequently, until a firm soft ball results when tested in cold water. Add one teaspoon of vanilla and nut meats if desired before removing from fire. Pour into buttered pan, quickly, being careful neither to stir or scrape as this causes caramels to become creamy rather than chewy.

MRS. ANNE W. BROWN,
R. D. No. 1, Venetia.
MANY-IN-ONE CAKE

One scant cup butter.
One and one-half cups sugar (sifted once).
Three eggs.
Three and one-fourth cups cake flour (sifted once before measuring four times after measuring).
Four teaspoons baking powder.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One and one-fourth cups milk (canned or fresh).
Two teaspoons vanilla (or any flavor desired).

Cream butter thoroughly, adding sugar gradually, beating all the while. Add one whole egg at a time, beating vigorously after each addition. Add vanilla (or any flavor desired). Add one cup of the flour alternately with a little of the milk at a time. Add the second cup of flour, to which the baking powder and salt have been added, alternately with more of the milk. Add balance of flour and balance of milk alternately, beating very thoroughly. Vigorous beating is the secret of success with this cake, using large wooden spoon. Do not stir, but beat hard to insure fineness and texture. Bake in a good-sized loaf pan at 300 degrees, about 45 minutes, or in two large layer cake pans, at 350 degrees, about 35 minutes. (To test whether cake is done, touch very lightly on top with finger tips.)

For chocolate loaf or chocolate layer cake, add to above batter just before turning into pan or pans: Three one-ounce square chocolate, melted and beat thoroughly. Bake as desired in loaf or layer pans at above temperatures.

For marble cake, add one one-ounce square of chocolate, melted to about one-third of above batter, beating in thoroughly in separate bowl. Put in loaf pan by spoonfuls, alternating with light and dark batter till all is filled into pan. Bake as above at 300 degrees about 45 minutes.

For Easter cake, color several portions of above cake batter, in separate bowls, with fruit colors (pink, orange, green, blue, yellow or any desired pasted shade combination desired). Bake 45 minutes in loaf pan at 300 degrees, putting the different colors of batter in pan by spoonfuls. Ice with white or any color icing and decorate top of cake with tiy jelly beans in different colors. (Other cake combinations may be worked out with above batter, such as checker board cake, light and dark layer cake, etc. For the checkerboard cake, a regular set of checkerboard cake pans would be necessary, using three colors in the cake, such as chocolate, rose and yellow, baking in three layers at 350 degrees for about 35 minutes.

Only the Center Leaves... they are the Mildest Leaves

Luckies are All-Ways kind to your throat

WHEREVER the finest tobaccos grow—in our own Southland, in Turkey, in Greece—all over the world, we gather the very Cream of the tobacco Crops for Lucky Strike. And that means only the center leaves. Not the top leaves—because those are under-developed—not ripe. Not the bottom leaves—because those are inferior in quality—they grow close to the ground, are coarse, dirt-covered, sandy.

The center leaves are the mildest leaves—they taste better and farmers are paid higher prices for them. These center leaves are the only ones used in making Luckies. Then "It's toasted"—for throat protection. And every Lucky is fully packed with these choice tobaccos—made round and firm, free from loose ends—that's why Luckies do not dry out. Naturally, Luckies are all-ways kind to your throat.

STRANGE WILL BARES MAN'S EMOTIONS

A strange story of human emotions—the devotion of a mature man for an aged aunt who had been the only mother he ever knew; his attachment to her favorite dog, his gratitude to a kindly neighbor who attended her in her last illness—unfolded today as terms of a will made by Harry E. Woodside, 35-year-old Penn Township suicide, were made public.

The will, probated more than a week ago, leaves the bulk of an $8,000 estate and an insurance policy to Mrs. Loretta Byrnes, of Hulton road, R. F. D. No. 1, good Samaritan neighbor, while to his brother, Robert R. Woodside, the deceased man bequeathed $2. His father and a step-brother are to get $300 each.

At a preliminary hearing several days ago, Joseph N. Mackrell, Registrar of Wills, told relatives there were no grounds for contesting the will, which includes a phrase:

"This will to stand as I have made it, and not to be broken."

MOTHERLESS AT TWO

The beginning of the strange story which surrounds the will dates back more than 30 years when Sarah B. McCalla took Harry, age 2, into her home when his mother died. According to Mrs. Byrnes, he loved his aunt above anyone else on earth. She said:

"When she died last November after being confined to bed for 10 weeks, he did not seem to find life worth living. Boy and man he had looked to her for all his decisions. After her death, he seemed lost without her kindly companionship. One night last February he took carbolic acid in his room. My husband and I heard him moaning.

"We administered antidotes and called a doctor, but it was too late. He left notes telling us to take care of 'Pal,' his aunt's favorite dog. He was always a quiet sort. He missed only two days' work in the 20 years he was a brake inspector at North Bessemer and that was when his uncle and aunt died.

"He had been judge of elections eight years, a good worker in the church and kept a diary of many details, such as every pay check he ever had, and what the preacher would say on Sundays. I guess he couldn't bear to face life without his aunt."

ESTATE SUBSTANTIAL

Mrs. Byrnes evinces interest in the possibility of Woodside's relatives contesting the will, which names her as executor of the estate, including 20 shares of United States Steel and two shares of First National Bank of Verona stock, oil rights on the Woodside farm, and two properties comprising 22¾ acres of land and two dwellings.

Woodside stipulated in his will that Mrs. Byrnes dispose of the property within a year and pay $300 to Stanley A. Woodside, a stepbrother, and $300 to his father, Robert H. Woodside. The remainder of the $8,000 estate accrues to Mrs. Byrnes, the will reads:

"For caring and nursing my aunt when none of her relatives would care for her."

In return, Woodside requests that Mrs. Byrnes visit and place flowers on his grave and the grave of his uncle and aunt at least three times a year, and take care of the dog, "Pal" as long as it lives.

Gasoline Explosion Fatal to Garageman

Burned in an explosion of gasoline, James Lindsay, 26, of Mt. Royal boulevard, Glenshaw, died early today in Pittsburgh Hospital. Lindsay was showered with the flaming fluid when gasoline he was using to clean an automobile motor in a garage in the rear of 6936 Greenwood street, splashed into an open gas fire, late yesterday.

Harry Miller, 26, of 1809 Morningside avenue, working with him, was burned on the hands and face trying to save Lindsay.

SEES CITY PLAN CENTER HERE

A world center for scientific industrial research, Pittsburgh would be the ideal location for an institution of research into the principles of city planning, according to Dr. Carol Aronovici, international housing expert.

Speaking in the last of three lectures at Carnegie Institute, Dr. Aronovici said:

"We have been unwilling to bring the technical skill of building into partnership with the science of communal living.

"Would it not be consistent if, in this center of research, an institution were set up to discover facts and formulate principles to guide our cities in reorganizing and rebuilding themselves?"

Earlier in the day, Dr. Aronovici had told City Council that the best housing plan for Pittsburgh would be to build houses of the lowest rent scale in unified areas. This would mean getting cheap land, he said, but it could be found in walking distance of the main industries.

Colorful Meteor Found in Alberta

Prize Fowls Stolen From Chicken Coop

Joseph Wadowski returned to his home at 2841 Sumner street, last night to find his chicken coop had been entered and 25 prize fowls stolen. Wadowski said the theft occured while he was attending church services.

BOWMAN LAUDS FOSTER OPERA PROJECT

Chancellor John G. Bowman, of the University of Pittsburgh, expressed his pleasure today that a new American opera, based on the life of Stephen Collins Foster, will have its world premiere here.

John Erskine will write the book and Albert Stoessel, conductor of the New York Oratorio Society, and head of the orchestra department of the Juilliard School of Music, is arranging the music from Foster melodies, according to a New York report yesterday. Charles L. Wagner has commissioned the piece, which will be more like opera comique than grand opera.

Pittsburgh has been chosen as the first city to see the new production, the report states, because a Stephen Collins Foster memorial building is under construction here. Correcting this impression, Dr. Bowman said:

BUILDING DELAYED

"I think we can break ground for the Foster shrine before June 1. We are asking the architect to hurry the plans, but he has had some of the Cathedral plans to finish up too, and both buildings at once have been a big job.

"I had heard the rumor that there was to be a Foster drama of some kind, and I am happy to hear it confirmed. It is a very appropriate thing that it should open in Pittsburgh.

WEALTH OF MATERIAL

"There is a wealth of Foster material. Of course, there can be only one theme for such a work, the love of home. Foster's songs are really hymns dedicated to the love of home.

"Erskine is an able and distinguished writer, and I believe he will produce good work."

The Foster memorial will be erected on the Forbes street and Bigelow boulevard corner of the Cathedral of Learning quadrangle. The main building will house a university little theater and music hall and the shrine will guard the family Lilly collection of original Foster manuscripts and Fosteriana.

It is to cost approximately $500,000.

SINCLAIR FREE IN BANK CASE

TULSA, Okla., March 29.—(AP.)—Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate, and 27 other former directors of the Exchange Trust Company of Tulsa, were cleared of all embezzlement charges against them here yesterday.

Judge Bradford Williams dismissed the 10 remaining counts after more than two weeks' preliminary hearing. Seven other counts were dismissed last Friday.

The directors had been accused of juggling accounts illegally, but the state disclaimed any attempt to prove that the $200,000 involved had been appropriated for their own use.

The defense contention was that the directors operated under state laws not tested in any court and were justified by the instructions of a state bank examiner.

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Here is another story from Wilkinsburg, the locale of which is the Pennsylvania Station.

A youth in a hurry to get downtown stood on the station platform impatiently awaiting the arrival of the local; it wasn't due for about six minutes.

An express hove into view approaching the station. The young man, perilously close to the edge of the platform, to make himself as conspicuous as possible to the engineer, waved his thumb in the most approved "hitch hike" manner.

The motion wasn't altogether lost on the trainman. The engineer gave him a hand wave and whistle blast in recognition, but kept thundering on towards town.

A former student of the John M. Conroy School, Margaret Folmer, tells of the origin of the Safety Patrol.

There has been for the past 10 years a safety patrol at the Conroy school and to her knowledge it was the first organization of its kind in the city.

It was organized by Miss Marion, a teacher, and the idea spread to several of the other public schools.

Safety patrols, where older students are made responsible for youngsters crossing streets, seem like a good idea and one that might be adopted in other schools.

REFUSES DRINK, LOSES BRIDE

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—(AP.)—David Savadove, who affirms that he lost his bride of a day because he is a teetotaler, is suing his father-in-law for $150,000 for alienation of her affections.

The 26-year-old partner in a catering firm, filing his complaint against Harry Kerstine, jeweler, says that he and Miriam Kerstine were married after a three-week courtship in 1932.

It was a complete surprise to the girl's parents, Savadove states, but they gave their blessing and arranged a party for the couple.

At the party Kerstine passed drinks and the bridegroom refused to drink, he says. And so, affirms Savadove, the father ruled his son-in-law socially unfit and the plaintiff has not seen his bride since then.

Radio Writer Gets New Name

By "AIR CASTLE"

Ruth E. Lewis, up Webster avenue way, is one of scores of listeners who have written to ask for more of Frank Smith's deep-sea-diving stories on the 6:30 p. m. Aircaster program.

She addressed her post card to "Air Castle," which is where I live most of the time, but not my name.

One who has never received so much as an Indian or Lincoln penny for a radio broadcast finds some satisfaction in the response from listeners, when one is pulling an oar for a friend.

An old friend of mine in North Carolina . . . a shipmate with whom I sailed the seven seas . . . who is retired from the Navy but not from the sea . . . is operating a fleet of oyster boats down off the Carolina coast, and delivering his crustaceans throughout the state by truck.

Recently, I mentioned his name over the air . . . told a story of which he was the hero. And he writes to say that it was the best advertising he had ever had . . . that his business had increased immensely among people who had heard the story down that way.

And the deluge or mail that listeners have sent in, asking for more of Smitty's diving stories, indicates that he is on his way to radio fame . . . and, let us hope, fortune.

So far, Bob can ask the question in Italian, Spanish, Swedish, German, Japanese, Chinese, Russian, Polish and Pittsburghesque—"Have you GOT mom's pen?"

Be as good friends as you can, fellows!

A wise man, Samuel Johnson, once said: "Keep your friendships in constant repair." That's mighty good advice. A boy or girl who doesn't have any friends is usually pretty lonely. Sometimes, if a man is wealthy, he can buy "friends" to flatter him and keep him company, but they are not real friends.

Real friendship can't be bought. And each boy or girl has to make his own. We all know, too, that the best way to have friends is to be a good friend. When your friends are ill, go visit them. Let them know you remember them. It's hard to make people believe you are their friend if you only let them hear from you when you want something from them. Or when you accidentally meet them on the street.

When you go away on a vacation, send them friendly letters and cards. Go to see them and have good times together at a party with them. Talk things over with them.

First letter today is a dandy from Gladys Joyce, of 221 North Second avenue, Jeannette, Pa. She writes:

"I have read very much about you and thought I would very much like to have mates as kind and nice as you and the rest of the mates. There was a code in the paper that I forgot to get a copy of so will you please send me a copy of the letters and the code alphabet?"

Sure we will, Gladys. Of course, Gladys' letter is to Junior, but we didn't think she would mind if we printed it in the Mail Box. Write again.

Rhymes for a School of Journalism

New Deal or Old Deal he's out for the story,
He'll take the news beats—and you take the glory.
The entire world is his laboratory
He is a newspaperman!

He "takes it" he loves it he dishes it out,
He covers a drama—a fire—or bout,
He goes right back in after they've tossed him out
He is a newspaperman!

He'll drink down your lager—but "Please make it rye,"
And answer his queries when he asks you "Why?"
His poor wife's a widow her life is a sigh
She married a newspaperman!

He shuffles the cards and he bets on the races,
He knows all the alleys and out-of-way places,
And sometimes it isn't just news that he chases
For he is a newspaperman!

Always an Actress

When Olga Petrova appeared in "The White Peacock" she had a scene with an actor named Perkins. In one town during rehearsal Olga was warned that the audience would laugh at one stagy bit of emoting.

In spite of the warnings Petrova did the scene on the premiere night and the audience howled. A moment later she came off stage and stormed to the stage manager:

"Don't bring up the curtain for bows," she emoted, "I will punish them!"

In Fewer Words

Last week's drama menu included two plays by the same author, John Howard Lawson. Both shows were panned hard.

Which inspired Louis Sobol to observe that the theatrical week was a "total Lawson."

The Retort Ouch!

Alexander Woollcott via his "While Rome Burns" tells how nobody may publish letters (in a book) without the sender's permission. Mrs. Patrick Campbell, it appears, tried to get George Bernard Shaw to agree to the publication of his letters to her. But he stubbornly refuses.

His last message on the subject read something like this:

"No, Stella, I will not play horse to your Lady Godiva."

Satiate

Movies bore me, cafes annoy.
Dances floor me, concerts cloy.
Love intrigues me, passion too,
But fatigues me—so do you.
—Dora Maugham.

Quietso, Quietso

George P. Mayhew of Pitman, N. J., offers this definition of love:

"Love is an inward indescribableness and an outward all overishness."

Lambpoon

Don Allen relays this Charles Lamb squelch swelegant. Lamb was giving a talk at a mixed gathering and someone hissed. A stunned silence followed. Then Lamb calmly said:

"There are only three things that hiss—a snake—a goose and a fool—come forth and be identified."

Recipe for Novel Writing

By Tracy D. Mygatt. Take care not to put the same ideas in the heads of different persons . . . Don't explain too much . . . Try to make the very best of your own style and don't imitate any person whatsoever . . . Give no hint of what is coming by word or deed . . . . Make the heroine over 20 when she falls in love and let her have had plenty of experience. Never describe a person in detail, mention a few salient features and leave the rest to the imagination . . . Avoid all slang and Americanisms and bring in as many nationalities as possible. Never write anything in disparagement of a woman—even if it is true.

Don't Get Personal!

A sign on a private dump in Shrewsbury, Mass., reads:

"We take rubbish. Come in."

Night Club Vignette

The other dinner-time at the Casino de Paree a no-couvert charge night club, two young Alabama boys dined. They wondered if they could get two of the pretties in the chorus to join them. The manager found two girls who would sit with anybody for a good meal, so famished were they.

"Have a drink?" asked one of the chaps. "I'll have a bacardi," said one of the dolls.

"Oh, no, you won't!" ejaculated Alabama's gift to New York, "you'll take ginger ale—we brought our own gin!"

The girls told them how cheap they were, left the table, and returned back stage where they sent out for a pair of cheese sandwiches.

The Poo-Poolitzer Prizes

The drama pages of P. Hammond and R. Watts, Jr., last Sunday were dulled a little by the comments of this undistinguished colleague. Mr. Hammond, frinstance, remarked that the Pulitzer Prize committee was seriously considering "Mary of Scotland" for the blue ribbon, and that we had so informed him. Mr. Hammond, who writes more gracefully than any of the drama arsonists, however, omitted why we suspected that "Mary of Scotland" was the outstanding candidate for the prize.

We did it via arithmetic. Walter Pritchard Eaton, one of the board, we said, had written a piece (about that play) for Hammond's own newspaper recently. It was crowded with sugary wordage. Clayton Hamilton, another member of the board of three, we added, had done a similar article for the Theater Guild's playbills. Therefore, two out of three were of the opinion that "Mary of Scotland" was a swell show. All of which probably will result in handing the prize to "The Pure in Heart," which lasted a week.

So Watts!

In the same gazette Mr. Watts, Jr., the noted movie actor murderer, disagrees with a recent yip from this controversy-maker, who charged the jurors with being baddies. Besides calling it "nonsense," Mr. Watts calls us a glasshouse dweller.

"Certainly," he continues, "Mr. Winchell hasn't suddenly burst forth as the new apostle of 'sweetness and light?' I wonder how he omitted to add that criticism should be constructive, not destructive, as a producer once said to him, I believe."

Mr. Watts obviously perjures himself. At any rate, I refuse to believe a producer used "constructive" or "destructive," which are three-syllable words.

Knife Tossing Cuts Matrimonial Ties

SAN JOSE, Cal., March 29.—(AP.)—Matrimonial ties were asked cut here because of the alleged ambition of a husband to become an accurate knife thrower.

A divorce complaint filed by Mrs. Enis Della Maggiore declared her husband compelled her to stand against the wall while he sent knives hurtling across the room to embed themselves in the wood beside her.

Torches Burn In a Blaze Of Glory

By GEORGE SEIBEL

No one who did not see the performance of "The Torch-Bearers" at the Y. W. & W. H. A. auditorium last night would believe that any amateur performance could be so smooth and joyous. The Pitt Players and Carl B. Cass garnered a cartload of laurels for the university and started an earthquake of laughter for George Kelly's exciting comedy. Half a dozen of the players distinguished themselves by character work bubbling over with natural fun. They all seemed at home on the stage—they all spoke their lines instead of swallowing them—they all carried their torches with a difference. It was the best amateur acting the critic had seen in a long time.

Mr. Seibel

If in the remarkably well cast and well drilled group there was one that showed a little more luminous than the others, it was Carolyn Hall as Mrs. Nellie Fell. Her tinkling laugh and coquetry were irresistible. She made the audience believe in all three of her husbands. Helen Rose Gibson as Paula Ritter also distinguished herself both in her happier moods and in her woebegone last act. As for William Pigott, who played the unfeeling husband, his frank brutality was a matrimonial masterpiece. Marquis Patterson clicked perfectly as Mr. Spindler, and Betty Quarrie gave superb assurance to the role of la Pampinelli.

To forget Alice Elson as Jenny would be an affront to the whole tribe of maids, while all the widows of the world wept with Fern Wolf as Mrs. Clara Sheppard. Barbara Mateer, Nelson Mills, Ben Struble, Charles Blaker and Forrest Alter were the other members of a well-rounded and well-grounded cast. Carl B. Cass has been mentioned above, but "The Torch-Bearers" was so satisfying an achievement that he well deserves to be mentioned again. And the scenic artists—Alice Elson and Charles Foreman—had created just the proper milieu for this riotously funny farce of the Little Theater movement.

Nobody will believe these critical raptures unless he saw the performance. The critic saw it and enjoyed it, so he will not withhold his plaudits just to save his reputation for veracity. These amateur players must be encouraged. Not long ago the lioness in one of our large zoos fell ill because the lion house was being repaired and she missed the admiration of her public. The Pitt Players all roared royally last night—so let them shake their manes today with all due pride!

Do You Remember?

'Member when Lizzie Wilson, who introduced "Schnitzelbank," looked like this? She will be among the old-time artists coming to the Pitt Friday in "Memory Lane," headed by Joe Laurie, Jr.

Casting Telescope Mirror In Hearst News

Pictures of the moulding of the world's biggest telescope mirror, 17-feet in diameter, are contained in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. Some 4,000 spectators at the glass plant in Corning, N. Y., to see the pouring of the glass. It is for a telescope expected to give astronomers a vision of stars never before seen.

Commemorating the entrance of the United States into the World War, a realistic sham battle is staged at Fort Meade, Md. The Globe Trotter describes the maneuvers.

The spectacle of Bobby Jones, ex-king of golf, finishing thirteenth in the masters tournament, at Augusta, Ga., is presented. His four-year layoff is plainly evident.

William Merringer, the chef, whose hassenpfeffer won him a tip of two tickets in the Irish sweepstakes, one of which won $133,000, is shown with his family in New York.

Pictures from Lynchburg, Va., show the ruins of a Federal Transient Relief Bureau where 17 jobless men perished by fire.

Nila Cram Cook, daughter of an American poet, who became the disciple of Mahatma Gandhi, and then tired of her job, is shown as she returns from India with her little son.

Bathing girls in Seattle storm the only roller-bearing locomotive in the world and show how easily it moves, by pulling it along the tracks.

NOTE—Owing to the necessity upon theater managers to arrange their programs in time schedule, it is possible some of the subjects of the above issue of Hearst Metrotone News may not be shown in your theater.

Autographs by Stars Cut Because of Racket

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, March 29.—Hello! Hollywood declared war on a new brand of signature-grabbers, put its fountain pen back in its pocket and broke the end off of its pencil. All of which, it was predicted, will make it tough on the well-meaning autograph-seeker.

But Hollywood has been made the "Patsy" for so many gags, that it would rather take the chance on making a few disgruntled former admirers than to be made the "Fall Guy" for further signature sharpsshooting. At the same time, it was learned, portals of the studios have been slammed shut to all visitors.

The general alarm and warning came when it was revealed that original signatures of several stars had been forged on "releases" for the use of their names and pictures as indorsements of a hosiery firm.

Mae West, Colleen Moore, Claudette Colbert, Myrna Loy, Irene Dunne and Sylvia Sidney are up in arms over the hoax. "I've got something to fill a stocking, but I am not signing it away" cracked Mae West.

Besides the hosiery plan, Miss Colbert is ready to battle, a firm which printed her picture and a supposed indorsement of a brand of whisky. Claudette has ordered her New York attorney to sue the whisky makers.

Most of the stars, however, have been able to avoid name traps by signing pictures and autograph books with one signature, employing another style for "legal" use.

Indicating that the depression is practically over, Maury Cohen, the independent producer, has discovered that outboard motor manufacturers say their orders have considerably increased.

Cohen remarked that the industry will probably show a greater output this year!

Odds and Ends

FRANK AND JIM, reports Julie Brady, had been business partners for many a long year. They had gone to college together, and they had been pals ever since they could recall. Frank was married; Jim was single. And the only one who ever came between them was Frank's wife.

She was a shrew if ever there was one. She held the non-stop record for long-distance talking, and she never ceased making life miserable for Frank. The poor man was henpecked in every direction, and the only thing he could call his own was the nose on his face. If it were possible, his wife would have had that, too.

Jim attempted to talk to his partner about the situation once—but only once. Frank stopped him immediately.

"My wife is my own business, Jim," he said. "I know she has many faults and I know that she talks entirely too much. But she is, after all, my wife. And that is exactly what she is going to remain."

So the years drifted on with Frank being henpecked with the same dreadful frequency. Since he was single, and because Frank's wife refused to let her husband out of her sight, Jim did all the traveling for the firm. And it was some two months ago, while Jim was down in Mexico City, that he received the sad news that Frank had passed away.

Broken-hearted, he wired his secretary immediately for additional information.

"Leaving immediately for New York," he telegraphed. "Send me further news. What were poor Frank's last words?"

A short time later, he had his secretary's reply.

"Frank had no last words," the wire read. "His wife was with him until the end."

WE were discussing poker stories the other night and Fred Kaplan recalled the story of the two stews, who were playing stud together. Neither man had a picture nor a pair showing when the five cards were out, but both of them kept betting and raising.

They had bet all the money in front of them when the first stew called a halt.

"I call," he announced. "What you got?"

The second man exposed his hole card.

"I got a jack," he announced triumphantly. "What you got?"

The first one looked very sad.

"You win," he replied. "I thought you was bluffing!" . . .

THE cheerful Patsy Flick wonders if you have heard the tale of the very dumb cop who could never get his beat straight in his mind. He was always wandering away from where he was supposed to be.

Finally the sergeant, in exasperation, took him by the arm one night and guided him to his territory.

"Now look, Jones," he commanded, "and get this through your skull. Your beat is along these two blocks. Between this light here and"—he pointed to another light two blocks away—"that light there. All you have to do is to keep walking between them. That's all."

That night, the cop disappeared. He was gone for three days, and then returned to the station house as thought nothing had happened. The sergeant leaped up.

"So you're back eh?" he roared. "What happened to you, you dope? Didn't I tell you to keep between those two lights?"

The cop nodded.

"That's just what I done, sergeant," he replied. "I followed your orders. But you see, that light you pointed out two blocks away, was on the back of a truck from Boston!" . . .

MY recent comments on Bermuda, although offered in a very friendly spirit, seem to have irked a number of residents of that beautiful island. Constructive criticism is, as usual, unwanted.

I received one kick recently, however, that made the whole thing more than worthwhile. The kick arrived in the form of clipping from the Bermuda "Mid-Ocean," in which an anonymous writer tells me just how wrong I am. Ladies and gentlemen, his final paragraphs:

"But what alarms us most is the threat Mark Hellinger cautiously whispers in our ears that he is going back to Bali—Goona-Goona land—to find out whether he can crack his jokes down there without the risk of being forestalled by a gentleman he fears named Winchell.

"And, by the way, pray who is Mr. Winchell?"

A BROADWAY cafe man who enjoys a late drink with his pals every now and then, recently became a father. It was a new experience for him and—like all fathers—he talks about the baby incessantly.

"I suppose you've changed your old habits quite a bit, Nick," observed a friend the other night. "Nuts about the kid, aren't you?"

The cafe man nodded vigorously.

"You betcha," he replied quite seriously. "No matter where I am at six in the morning, I rush right home to see my kid!" . . .

Building Shifted By Gales Replaced

OCEAN CITY, N. J., March 29.—(AP.)—By seven months of ceaseless effort, man has replaced a building which Atlantic gales moved in two days.

The Kassab Building, on the beachfront, stands on piles which were pushed 20 inches out of line. Since the storms last August, cables, pulleys and winches have been straining to pull the piling back. Now the job is done.

Jurors Summoned By Federal Court

Judge Nelson McVicar signed an order for summoning 375 petit jurors and 23 grand jurors for duty at the next term of Federal Court, which will convene May 7. The number of petit jurors to be called indicates at least a six-week session.

Prosecution of defendants under indictments for alleged vote frauds at the general election in November, 1932, will be resumed. Neither Earl F. Reed, special government prosecutor, or First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Reed, in charge of the prosecution of the vote cases, have announced dates for the trials.

BOY, PETRIFYING BY INCHES, SMILES

By JOHN M'SWEENEY
Universal Service.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., March 29. — Seven-year-old Benjamin Hendrick, of Larksville, whose small body is gradually turning into bone, today appeared philosophically inclined to leave his plight in the hands of puzzling physicians who have thus far been unable to halt the rare disease which they say will eventually claim the boy's life.

To visitors at the Wilkes-Barre General Hospital where Benny sat propped up very stiffly in a chair, he spoke cheerily, reassuringly:

"I'm getting better."

But physicians, while admiring his bravery, shook their heads sadly.

Benny's thin white arms, from shoulder to elbow, were hard as stone. The muscles throughout most of his back had solidified, as had the flesh on his thighs. It was only a matter of months until the petrification process would reach a vital organ, according to the doctors.

Benny's ailment is known to the medical profession as "myositis ossificans progressiva" or a progressive ossification of the body tissues. The disease results in the deposition of calcium in the tissues, which gradually harden.

Benny was not the pathetic figure one might imagine. A sandy-haired lad, attired in blue play clothes, he was sitting on a chair in the playroom with three other boys.

To prove that he really was "getting better" he bent his thin arms at the elbow several times. He said he could walk, but he did not appear inclined to try. He assured his questioner:

"No, I don't have any pain. The nurse rubs my back all the time."

Benny did not want to talk much about his illness. He said he didn't know how long he had been ill, what caused his condition or how long he would be in the hospital.

MONMOUTH, Ill., March 29. —(AP.)—"Baby Hoot," 28-year-old horned owl owned by Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Walters, is falling down on the job.

For years the owl, acting as a hen, has been hatching chicken eggs, with a high record of 35 in one batch. On the last occasion, however, only four chicks were hatched.

Holdups Net Small Loot to Robbers

As he neared his home early today John Geisler, of 235 Marshall avenue, was held up and robbed of $2 by two armed robbers.

Eighty-five cents and an overcoat was the loot of another pair of robbers who held up John Kelly, of 5880 Birchfield avenue, in Darlington road.

GARBAGE FIRM SUIT ANSWERED

An answer was on file today in Common Pleas Court, in which the County Commissioners denied they exercised high-handed or arbitrary methods in refusing to grant the Spiniello Construction Company, Inc., a permit to collect garbage.

The Spiniello concern recently brought a mandamus action against the Commissioners to force issuance of the permit. The company was the lowest bidder for the collection of garbage on the North Side.

The Commissioners contended that the plaintiffs have not presented to the Commissioners sufficient data to move them to grant the application in the exercise of sound discretion.

BOSTON, March 29.—(AP.)—A 12-year fight of Governor's Councillor Daniel H. Coakley for the right to resume practice of law ended in defeat yesterday as Supreme Court Justice Fred T. Field handed down a decision denying the 68-year-old politician's petition for reinstatement to the Massachusetts bar.

Alfred E. Smith, William Cardinal O'Connell, James Roosevelt son of the President; Gov. Joseph B. Ely and a host of others had indorsed his petition. Coakley, who was disbarred in 1922 on charges of conspiracy, may appeal.

VOTERS URGED TO DEMAND TAX RELIEF

People of Pennsylvania must elect state officials who are committed to rigid economy in government, if any relief from the tax burden is to be obtained, State Treasurer Charles A. Waters has declared. This statement was made immediately following his withdrawal from gubernatorial consideration.

The State Treasurer called for election in November of candidates who are "committed in no uncertain manner to a rigid economy in government."

In an address before members of the Lions Club of York, Pa., Waters declared that economy in government was to be his entire political creed. He declared that even though he would not be a candidate for office he would have much to say on the subject of governmental economies during the campaign.

SUB-DIVISIONS RAPPED

In a number of addresses during the last few months, Waters called for abolition of second-class townships, consolidation of counties and school districts and similar governmental reorganization.

In his address in York, Waters said:

"What is demanded of the people of Pennsylvania—now—this year—is to see to it that their representatives elected either to legislative or administrative offices are committed in no uncertain terms to a rigid program of government economy. They should be committed especially to a scientific reconstruction of our governmental and fiscal structures, both state and local, as will not only give all that is demanded of government, but cut out the frills and relieve the tremendous tax burden under which we are all suffering."

In an address a short time ago Treasurer Waters said that logically, a revision of the state Constitution is the real problem ahead of the people of Pennsylvania.

SYSTEM OLD-FASHIONED

The state official has declared from time to time that the present makeup of the various state governments is old-fashioned and insufficient. In Pennsylvania, he said, the people are staggering along under a top-heavy, clumsy and thoroughly inefficient system, which includes in the state government itself, much that is useless, overlapping and extravagantly expensive. In county governments, he said, an assortment of functions that should be cut in half, have caused local taxes to rise to create the biggest tax bill the nation has ever felt.

Treasurer Waters has stated that it is impossible to continue dragging a Twentieth Century burden with a Seventeenth Century team.

As an example he said:

"We cannot get along any better with a governmental set-up devised for our great grandfathers than we can progress with their methods of transportation or manner of living."

FORMER U. S. AIDE FAVORS SALES TAX

Benefits to Be Told By Evans at Club Luncheon

The benefits of the proposed manufacturers' sales tax will be discussed by Attorney Raymond D. Evans, at a luncheon meeting of the Henry George Club in the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow. Mr. Evans, former assistant United States attorney, will speak in favor of the sales tax as a substitute for the income tax.

A manufacturers' sales tax is being urged by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers in place of the income tax, believeing that the sales tax is fundamental for permanent economic recovery.

Advocates of a sales tax have pointed out that the vast majority of the people in the United States pay no income tax whatever and another considerable percentage evade the payment of the tax through investment in tax-free securities or other loopholes. A sales tax, it is pointed out, is easy to collect and difficult to evade.

The Woman's Progressive Club of Lincoln place, today added its endorsement to the long list of organizations and individuals favoring a sales tax. Mrs. James Hillman, president of the club, announced that the organization had adopted resolutions at a recent meeting advocating such a measure.

A similar resolution was also adopted at a meeting of the Wednesday Afternoon Club of Wilkinsburg. Mrs. J. S. Hooper, president of the club, announced the organization had approved such a tax, believeing it more beneficial to the average citizen than the present income tax.

SCULLY ASSAILS JUDGE'S CRITICISM OF SUIT

POLITICS

Conferences Fail to Clear G. O. P. Fog

By MARK SHIELDS

Indications today were that it would require the last minute, up to 5 o'clock next Monday to finally determine which Republicans actually would have their names on the primary ballot as candidates for nomination as Governor and Lieutenant Governor. That is the final hour to withdraw.

Mr. Shields

Philadelphia conferences on the subject appeared to be making little definite progress in clarifying the muddle into which the regular organization has been plunged through the filing of 18 tentative candidates.

Gen. Edward Martin may help the situation somewhat by getting out of the way soon, with a gesture of support for Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon. Philadelphia reports had the state chairman ready to make some friendly statement for his fellow-soldier.

Even should this occur, it cannot be accepted as concrete evidence that the organization has approved Gen. Shannon above Judge Robert E. Lamberton, of Philadelphia, or Attorney General William A. Schnader. Martin will be acting as a soldier and not as party leader in any friendliness shown Shannon at this time.

The only advantage immediately to Shannon would be that his lieutenants would be free to work in the soldier groups which so far have leaned to Martin.

Some Leaders Raising Barriers to Shannon

At the moment there is some serious objection to Shannon within the higher ranks of the Republican organization, and leading it are former Senator Joseph R. Grundy and friends of Gen. W. W. Atterbury, former national committeeman. They prefer Lamberton and are pushing him strong.

Had not a split developed in the Pinchot ranks, showing the opposition in the Governor's camp to Schnader, Grundy would be backing the Attorney General rather than Judge Lamberton. Schnader's friends are reported to have asked Gov. Pinchot, convalescing in Florida, to use his influence to bring about the retirement of Edward J. Hunter, member of the Workmen's Compensation Board, and loyal Pinchot follower.

Hunter's candidacy is a direct threat to Schnader, and offers a rallying ground for the Pinchotites who do not like Schnader yet would hesitate to vote for an organization choice. So far no success has attended these efforts.

Had the Governor been at home, with his hand on the helm, the war in his camp might have been averted.

Meanwhile former Congressman Thomas W. Phillips, of Butler; Charles J. Margiotti, of Pittsburgh; Congressman Edward Lowber Stokes and some others are making their own arrangements, determined to run. Margiotti today said his name would be on the ballot May 15, and Stokes said no one could force him from the race.

Herron a Candidate If East Gets Top Place

The Lieutenant Governor fog is deep as that surrounding first place. The organization will try to make up a geogrphical ticket, with former Mayor John S. Herron a real probability if an eastern man is approved for Governor.

In the Democratic camp harmony seems far away. Judge Charles D. Copeland, of Westmoreland County, seeking the gubernatorial nomination on an anti-Guffey slate, has suggested that he, George H. Earle, the Guffey candidate; Judge E. C. Bonniwell, of Philadelphia, Charles Alvin Jones and Mayor McNair all withdraw. He then would have a committee of five "impartial" Democrats select a complete harmony ticket.

Even if five "impartial" Democrats could be found, the plan would not be feasible in the primary, as the date for filing candidates is past.

Senator James J. Coyne returned from the Philadelphia front today to look over the situation in the Thirty-second Congressional District, where his friend, Congressman M. J. Muldowney, is threatened by a coalition of opposition candidates.

Representatives of six Republicans seeking the nomination against Muldowney met in the office of Alderman F. J. Holleran, Ninth Ward, Tuesday night, and agreed to another meeting Saturday afternoon. Each candidate, according to Holleran, will have four representatives in the meeting, with Holleran the twenty-fifth man. There is an implied agreement that five will retire to support the man believed to rate the strongest against Muldowney.

Women Are Planning to Get Jobs in Ballots

An organization of women, which probably will take a Democratic slant, is being formed under the direction of Mrs. Lillian Morgart, former vice chairman of the Republican City Committee, but who switched to the Democrats last fall. A mass meeting is planned for Saturday night, at which a declaration of principles will be suggested.

The ladies are practical, according to Mrs. Morgart. All candidates indorsed will be required to sign a contract, she said, promising patronage, and legislators will be required to guarantee that out of their salaries they will support one laborig man for 12 months. The women's organization will name the laborer to get such assistance.

Those who participate militantly in the organization will be asked not to register until they know which way the land lies, indicating they will be either Republican or Democratic, as seems most advisable. There is a registration day in May, and something should be known by then.

VIRGINIA L. MENGEL

Miss Mengel, Freedom, Pa., elected May Queen at the College of Wooster, Wooster, O. She'll be crowned May 12, the thirtieth Queen of Wooster.

SCHWARTZ CASE PERILS SMITH

The discharge of Assistant Building Inspection Engineer Louis A. Schwartz loomed today as another threat against the unsteady office tenure of Public Safety Director Ralph E. Smith.

Councilman William A. Magee yesterday told Council that the facts of the case should be brought before them, and if the dismissal were illegal, Director Smith should reinstate Schwartz. If the dismissal were illegal and Smith refused to go along with reinstatement, Magee suggested Smith himself should be discharged.

Schwartz's case was brought before Council by Attorney Benjamin L. Steinberg. Asked why he didn't take it up with the Civil Service Commission, he said they wouldn't hear him further. He said:

"Their attitude was—you'd better drop this case or it might cause trouble for somebody."

Steinberg contended that Schwartz had a regular appointment to his job and that this was proved by the fact that since 1930 he had been paid by the city as a regular employe. The Civil Service Commission only has a record of a provisional appointment for Schwartz.

Council will take up the matter in committee.

SUBWAY NEED DENIED BY PHILLIPS

City Cannot Afford System, Declares Utilities Head

Pittsburgh does not need a subway and cannot afford one, in the opinion of F. R. Phillips, president of the Philadelphia Company.

Speaking before the Allied Boards of Trade at the Congress of Women's Clubs last night on "Utilities and the Public," he said:

"The Pittsburgh Railways favors a subway and if the city builds it—it will operate it.

"But I don't think the city can afford or needs a subway."

CHARGES PASS ABUSE

Questioned as to whether the weekly pass will return, Phillips explained that he was "not opposed" to the pass, but that it had been "subjected to cheating and abuse."

The utility head defended the operations of the Pittsburgh public utilities, denied they charged high rates, and asserted the light, gas and street railway companies have not been earning their legal rate of return.

To the Allied Boards men who have on several occasions been among the most severe critics of utilities rates and earnings, he said a five-cent street car fare is "out of the question" under present conditions.

CITES REVENUE DROP

Phillips said the revenues of the Pittsburgh Railways Company have dropped nearly 50 per cent since 1922, its peak year.

He declared utilities in Pennsylvania pay a fair share of taxes to the state and that he is in "sympathy with the cities and boroughs which have not probably received a just amount of the tax from the state."

Taking the Philadelphia Company as a whole and its three principal services, gas, electricity and transportation, Phillips told that in 1933, the combined net return of these services was 4.77 per cent, as against a usual rate of 7 per cent allowed by law.

He denied that holding companies such as the Philadelphia Company "milk" the operating utilities for their own profit and called such an expression a "hackney term."

STATE CHANGES SOUGHT

The board approved three resolutions presented by E. H. Wicks, of the legislative committee, and proposes to sponsor them at the next session of Legislature.

The first would secure necessary legislation to provide second-class cities with the power to construct and purchase city-owned utilities; the second, to have the state pay the campaign funds for officeseekers, and the third, to consolidate Pennsylvania's 67 counties to between 15 and 20.

Possibility that City Council may repeal the $6,000,000 in subway bonds has again cropped up in that body's unsympathetic attitude toward continuing the transit commission.

PETITION AGAINST PARTICIPATION In the LEAGUE OF NATIONS and World Court

If you want to save America from European entanglements and keep your country out of foreign wars, and foreign wars out of your country, sign this petition.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

We protest AGAINST the United States participating in the League of Nations or in the World Court of the League of Nations, with or without "reservations."

We petition our Federal Government to keep our United States "free from foreign affairs," as the Father of Our Country wisely enjoined.

We urge our Congress at Washington to keep our government from meddling in foreign affairs, and to keep foreign nations from meddling in our American affairs.

As loyal American citizens, we ask our loyal representatives to keep our country out of foreign conflicts and complications and to keep foreign conflicts and complications out of our country.

Judge, Military Leader Sound Warnings to U. S. Against War Dangers in League Entanglement

Addresses by Mehard, Patterson Point Out Peril to Nation

Two prominent speakers, a judge and military leader, were expected to add their warnings against the entrance of the United States into any foreign entanglements through the League Court and the League of Nations, in addresses today.

Gen. Churchill B. Mehard, of the Pennsylvania National Guard and a veteran of the World War, is scheduled to address a general meeting of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce at noon today. He will discuss the problem of adequate national defense. Gen. Mehard's subject was scheduled to be "The Vital Problem of National Defense."

For years Gen. Mehard has been an advocate of a strong Army, Navy and air force to defend the United States in case of war. He also has stated that he favors this country remaining out of any foreign entanglements which might draw the United States into foreign conflict.

RADIO TALK SCHEDULED

The second speaker is Common Pleas Judge Frank P. Patterson, who will be heard over the Sun-Telegraph radio station WCAE from 5:25 to 5:30 p. m. today. He will point out the lessons of the World War as reasons for remaining out of entanglements which might draw this country into another war.

Two more posts of Veterans of Foreign Wars added their support today to efforts of the Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers to battle the attempts of international propagandists to force this country into the League of Nations and the League Court.

Thomas A. Mullee, adjutant of Trees-Carlisle Post No. 166, sent to the Sun-Telegraph four petitions bearing more than 150 names of veterans, their wives and friends, who join in the protest against attempts to force this nation into any agreement which may result in a repetition of the World War.

STAND GIVEN PRAISE

In his letter to the Sun-Telegraph, Adjt. Mullee said:

"I can assure you that the membership of the Trees-Carlisle Post No. 166, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and their Ladies' Auxiliary, almost without exception, are heartily in favor of keeping the United States free from foreign entanglements."

And from Holliday's Cove, W. Va., came petitions from the Pan Handle Post No. 2716, Veterans of Foreign Wars, bearing a similar message. This post sent in one petition bearing more than a score of names of veterans of that community.

R. R. McKowen, commander of Chestnut Ridge Post No. 444, Veterans of Foreign Wars, sent in a petition from Derry, Pa., home of the veterans' organization. The petition contained 108 names.

EX-SOLDIERS ACTIVE

A brief note from Commander McKowen stated:

"Enclosed please find our second petition, with 108 names."

And while the veterans are active in obtaining signatures for the gigantic petition which is to be presented to the Senate, the members of various auxiliaries are not to be outdone. Mrs. M. M. Palmer, secretary of the American Legion Auxiliary at Homer City, sends in two petitions and requests additional blanks.

Two More Petitions Received From Veteran Posts

SOLICITOR ASKS COURT RECORD BE ALTERED

Blames Ex-Assistant He Fired for Defection

Hotly attacking Judge Elder W. Marshall's suggestion of politics in the City Law Department, City Solicitor C. D. Scully said today he would move to have certain of the judge's remarks stricken from the court record.

His ire aroused by an opinion of Judge Marshall in granting the city's motion for a new trial in a suit brought by the Pittsburgh Terminal Warehouse and Transfer Company, Scully stated:

"Judge Marshall in his opinion is unfair to Assistant City Solicitor James L. O'Toole and it amounts to a misstatement of facts surrounding the case.

"We appreciate the fact a new trial was granted, but the judge has been entirely unfair to a competent lawyer.

"I am going to ask the court to correct the record."

PREPARATION RAPPED

Judge Marshall's opinion held that it was evident the city's case had been inadequately prepared, and that due consideration for the interest of the citizens should have dictated the employment of counsel thoroughly trained in the preparation of suits of such character. The opinion continued:

"Political exigencies seem to have caused the removal from office of every solicitor skilled in the trial of cases of eminent domain save Mr. Benner and Mr. Diamond."

Marshall added that for "some unknown reason" neither of these attorneys were directed to try or assist in the case.

Scully explained that the case was pending when the present administration came into office, with Assistant City Solicitor Benjamin Steinberg handling it. Steinberg, Scully said, was requested to stay in office until the case was finished, but wouldn't try it unless assured he would be kept permanently. Thereupon, Scully said, he fired him.

DEFENDS O'TOOLE

Scully stated he then had no one to put on the case but O'Toole, whom he characterized as "an extremely competent attorney."

Scully went on:

"Mr. Steinberg presumably made some kind of statement to the court, because, when a request was made for a short continuance to give Mr. O'Toole time to familiarize himself with the suit, Judge Harry H. Rowand, in the assignment room, made the statement that this department was wrecking itself by discharging its personnel—a statement which could only have been made on information.

"The court refused to grant the courtesy of a reasonable delay."

STEINBERG ANSWERS

Replying to Scully's remarks, Steinberg said:

"I never was asked and never refused to remain to try any particular case, particularly the case of the warehouse company against the city.

"Furthermore, after my dismissal, I not only suggested to Mr. Scully that I would do anything to assist the department at any time, but particularly told Mr. O'Toole, my successor, that he could call on me for any advice or suggestions that he saw fit.

"At no time did he ever ask or call on me for any suggestion."

The suit involves land acquired by the city for the approach to the Boulevard of the Allies and the Liberty Bridge. Awarded $66,646 by the Board of Viewers, the warehouse company got a verdict for $151,355.17 in court.

Mayor McNair declined to comment upon the ruling until he had seen the written opinion. He added:

"Anyhow, what should I bother about a little judge of the Common Pleas Court?"

Well, Nellie the Cow Had Twins Down on the Farm!

M'NAIR SEEKS TAX SUPPORT

Mayor McNair was in Philadelphia today to try to get backing for legislation on a graded school tax and learn something about sinking funds.

McNair was to address the Penn Athletic Club at noon, presumably on his drive to get Philadelphians to support the graded school tax for first-class districts.

He said he would also consult with his friend, S. Davis Wilson, Philadelphia Controller, in an effort to find whether it was possible for Pittsburgh to buy its own bonds with three-quarters of a million dollars he said was lying uselessly in the sinking fund.

He will stop in Middletown to see his brother, the Burgess, on his way back, and be in Pittsburgh tomorrow.

Congress Isn't Fighting But It Can Throw Hooks

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

The President is fishing. But Congress seems to have the hooks in its thumbs.

The boys hived yesterday in an old-fashioned voting bee. Party lines were split like chapped lips.

All was confusion. Democratic strays got mixed with the Republicans. Before they stopped choosing up sides there were two Republicans over with the Democrats

Nobody knows how they got there. It must have been centrifugal force.

The cherry blossoms are in bloom on the Potomac. But the voting is way past the horticultural stage now.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 29.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph.

Well, Congress thought they knew more about how to run the country than the President, so the President decided to go fishing. The trouble is the wrong one went fishing.

Will Rogers.

Say, if they bring each one of the brain trusters up to ask 'em questions, and them being all college men, those Congressmen that ask 'em the questions will have to do it through an interpreter.

We will see now what those Florida fish bite for a Democrat. Mr. Hoover went down there one time and they wouldn't come to the polls at all.

Yours, WILL.

Lindbergh's Flying Teacher Dying Broke

CHICAGO, March 29.—(Universal.)—Ira Biffle, who taught Col. Charles Lindbergh how to fly, is dying here in the County Hospital, penniless and nearly blind.

Biffle was at one time a corporal in the Army Air Corps. Lindbergh was his most famous of thousands of pupils.

Unbalanced Teachers Barred by Tests Here

Pittsburgh schools guard against mentally unfit teachers by requiring every teacher to submit a doctor's health certificate before their reappointment each year, Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of schools, said today.

Explaining the routine which quietly weeds such extraordinary cases from school staffs, Dr. Graham said:

"Before a teacher is reappointed, he or she must submit a health certificate. Our own staff of physicians examine these confidential reports. Throughout the year, principals and supervisors provide another check.

"When such cases arise, they are given immediate consideration and the proper measures are taken."

Dr. Graham declined to discuss the charge hurled by Dr. Emil Altman, chief medical examiner of the New York City Board of Education, that 1,500 New York teachers are suffering from mental derangement.

EINSTEIN OUT FOR STATE SENATE

Stressing his sponsorship of the bill to repeal the four-mill tax on savings bank deposits, Senator Morris Einstein, Forty-second District, comprising the North Side wards, today announced as a candidate for re-election.

Senator Einstein, reciting that he had served 15 years in the Senate, declared that examination of his record would show a consistent effort for "the forward-looking movements that have been aimed to help the rank and file of our people," and added that "the expressions of trust and confidence that have come to me in the past few weeks lead me to believe that the people of my district are satisfied with the service I have rendered."

Senator Einstein said he had voted against increases in drivers' license and motor license fees and would work for a reduction in these fees and the gasoline tax. He pledged support for a movement to secure return to Pittsburgh of a portion of the motor license fund either for street maintenance or direct relief for the needy.

OUTLINES RECORD

In outlining some of his record, Senator Einstein's statement said:

"I have consistently supported and voted for workmen's compensation, old age pensions, mothers' assistance, election reforms including permanent registration, the abolition of child labor, the establishing of a minimum wage, the welfare of our soldiers in general and the passage of the state soldier bonus bill in particular, abolition of the poll tax, and sponsored the $35,000,000 employment fund under the new Allegheny County Authority Board.

"I sponsored repeal of the four-mill tax on savings deposits to eliminate the penalty which was placed on thrift.

"I have lent every effort to relieve the burden on home owners and am pledged to relieve them from the payment of the entire school tax.

"I have stood by the recovery policies of President Roosevelt and all other principles designed for the restoration of prosperity."

LAWYER FREED IN FISTICUFFS

Having tearfully and publicly apologized before Judge Ralph H. Smith, Attorney Arthur I. Zeiger today was free on a contempt of court citation for striking a witness on the nose Monday.

Zeiger, his voice quavering with emotion, stood before Judge Smith yesterday afternoon and expressed his "deep regret." He broke down and could say no more.

Judge Smith, who had fined the lawyer $250 and sentenced him to 15 days in jail, vacated the jail term but instructed Zeiger to pay the fine, $100 at once and the balance within 30 days.

During a court recess Monday, the lawyer struck Koleman Kovacs, of Duquesne, on the nose after Kovacs had testified in a hearing that the lawyer offered him a bribe.

NEEDY OBSERVE PASSOVER

Hundreds of needy Jews in all parts of Pittsburgh today prepared for the Feast of the Passover, with larders well stocked by the Lechem Aniyum (Bread for the Poor) Society.

Organized by charitable Jewish women of the city in 1917, the society has headquarters in the Beth Jacob Synagogue in the Hill district, from which it distributes food to the destitute.

In accordance with an annual custom, needy Jews throughout the district have been supplied with everything necessary to the proper celebration of the feast.

This year's provisions, costing about $1,000, included tons of meat and groceries and more than 50 gallons of wine. Donations of food and money were solicited by the officers of the society, Mrs. Lopis Backer, Mrs. William Feldman, Mrs. Louis Schwartz and Mrs. Herman Rosenblum.

Observance of the Passover, which begins at sundown tomorrow, dates back to the early history of the Jewish people in Palestine. Originally a nature festival of welcome to spring, it has since come to be associated with the deliverance of the race from bondage in Egypt. It is celebrated for seven days by reform Jews and for eight days by orthodox Jews.

Beechview Asks New Playground

Beechview may get a playground in the vicinity of Pauline avenue and Broadway if negotiations of the City Law Department with the Renziehausen estate are successful.

Council yesterday instructed the department to see if about $13,000 needed for the playground could be obtained from the estate in which there is a $100,000 bequest for play centers. The motion was adopted after a plea by Beechview citizens.

RECORD NUMBER OF CANDIDATES ON BALLOTS

Preparation for the printing of ballots, on today in the county elections department, faced a record number of candidates for Congress, the State Senate and the Legislature, according to a check up made in Harrisburg.

The Twelfth Legislative District leads with the number of candidates—131—but the Sixth District runs a close second with 128.

The Thirty-second, Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth Congressional Districts are tied, each having 27 candidates. The Thirty-eighth Senatorial District has the highest of this group, with 33.

While some withdrawals are expected, the ballots will be large, department officials said.

One candidate to file, John J. Lardo, lives at 717 Wylie avenue, which officials said was in the First Legislative District. But he filed from the Second District, they said, and if elected, cannot serve. His name will have to be printed on the ballot, however, unless he withdraws.

John A. Hernon and Vincent Neeson, of the elections department, checked the lists in Harrisburg.

Edgeworth Home Swept By Fire

Attorney R. T. McCready's home in Edgeworth was swept by a blaze yesterday that caused a loss estimated at $6,000. According to firemen, the blaze was confined to the roof and upstairs rooms. Firemen said most of the damage was by smoke and water.

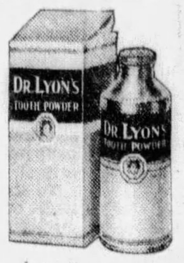
POWDER CLEANS AND WHITENS TEETH—as nothing else can

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER—just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.



Dentists everywhere recommend Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, because—teeth simply cannot remain dull and film coated when it is used.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cleans off all stains and tartar, and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter. Free from all grit or pumice, Dr. Lyon's cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums and the least possible tooth decay.

Powder leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Once you use powder you will never go back to tooth paste. People by the thousands are changing daily.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

"DODGING TRAFFIC TAKES HEALTHY NERVES, TOO, MR. HOCKEY PLAYER—"

Miss Ruth Dodd of New York City speaks with authority on the perils of a pedestrian. She says:

"Of course it takes healthy nerves to lead a championship hockey team. But let me say a word about healthy nerves in behalf of those millions of us who do our walking along city streets. People rushing madly by—trolleys clanging—traffic whistles shrilling—huge trucks bearing down on you at every crossing—it's enough to make nerves jump and quiver! I enjoy a smoke any time—and smoke steadily, too. My cigarette? Camels. They're milder, taste marvelously—and don't interfere with healthy nerves."

Captain "Bill" Cook of the New York Rangers, 1933 Champion Hockey Team, says:

"A hockey player can't afford to have 'nerves.' The way I guard my nerves and yet smoke all I want is to smoke only Camels. They have a taste that sure hits the spot. I smoke a lot and I find that Camels never get on my nerves or tire my taste."

How Are YOUR Nerves?

Few are those today who have not been face to face with the "jangled nerves" that our modern, high-speed life is blamed for!

You know the signs of nerves that flinch—tenseness, irritability. Fussy little habits like key-rattling...pencil-tapping.

Check up now on your habits. Eating. Sleeping. Your work and play. And get a fresh slant on smoking by starting on Camels.

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS than any other popular brand.

You'll find Camels rich in flavor—yet mild and delicate. Smoking will have a new zest. And each Camel renews the enjoyment...the pleasure of smoking at its best!

DEFENSE GROUP 'INVESTIGATES' WORKHOUSE

Headed by an ex-Methodist minister who was a World War pilot and who now corresponds on pink paper, a delegation of 13 persons yesterday visited the Allegheny County Workhouse at Blawnox.

The visit was the first move made by the local branch of the National Committee for the Defense of Political Prisoners, of which the former parson, William Gilbert Nowell, of 28 Oakland square, is secretary.

The group had determined to find out why the "Daily Worker" and other radical publications could not enter the prison walls, and were chagrined to learn that one of their letters on the pink stationery failed to reach a prisoner.

SIDESTEP 'JINX'

This was but one of the difficulties encountered during the trip. The first occurred when a Sun-Telegraph reporter joined the group and made 13 people, which, of course, is an unlucky number. Going into a huddle, the others decided that he was an "outsider."

Just as they were ready to go inside the prison, James Egan, Communist candidate for Mayor last fall, joined the group.

Warden Robert H. Braun refused to permit the entire group to see the prisoners, since the laws of the institution forbid.

The 13 decided a conference was in order. There was no room for conferences except the warden's office and Warden Braun was "ousted" from his own quarters while the committee of 13 went into another huddle.

EYE SPECIALIST NEEDED

The committee elected Nowell chairman and decided to ask if one man could see each of the prisoners.

The warden agreed that the prisoners might be interviewed separately.

The interviews developed these facts:

Eddie Sherwood, coal mine organizer, sentenced to three to six years during the 1931 coal strike, couldn't read the letter on pink paper sent by the N. C. for the D. of P. P. His glasses were bad.

Sam Jessop, coal miner and member of the Unemployed Council, sentenced to a year, couldn't read the pink letter because he didn't receive it and because he didn't have any glasses.

Warden Braun promised to get the optometrist busy. He also promised to read several radical publications and decide if he would permit the "boys" to read them.

BARBARA STANWYCK

ASKS PROBE OF FAY CHARGE

LOS ANGELES, March 29.—(AP.)—Holding that serious charges made and repudiated in the civil suit of Mrs. Elizabeth Curtis against Barbara Stanwyck, screen actress, should be investigated at once, Superior Judge Frank C. Collier yesterday ordered the case referred both to the District Attorney and the state bar.

Mrs. Curtis charged in the original complaint of her suit for $3,500 back wages as housekeeper for Miss Stanwyck's father-in-law, William Fay, that the actress induced her to live as wife with Fay. This was one of the charges eliminated in an amended complaint. Said the judge:

"There were serious charges made in this complaint which Mrs. Curtis now says she did not state to her counsel. Either she made those statements or she didn't make them, and the matter should be investigated further."

Appearing today, Mrs. Curtis said she was employed as a housekeeper for Fay and that her relations with him were at all times proper.

blood will tell—

ONE of the mysteries of life is how much care a man will take of thoroughbred animals—noting when they are "off"...and toning them back to the "pink of condition" to increase their daily usefulness—yet will shamefully neglect his own run-down condition.

Certainly, there is a pardonable pride in an animal's healthy appearance...but human beings are more important than animals. Yet some people just hope when "run-down" that they will "come around."

It is just good "horse-sense" to reflect and reason that your so-called "tired feeling" may come from a lowered red-blood-cell count and the hemo-glo-bin in these cells.

There is a remedy specially designed to bring back strength to weakened blood...and no one can be strong, healthy, happy, and full of vitality when in a run-down condition.

S.S.S. Blood Tonic is a time-tested remedy for restoring deficient red-blood-cells and a low hemo-glo-bin content.

If you suspect an organic disease consult your physician...if you feel weak...lack a keen appetite...if your skin is pale and off-color...try S.S.S. as a part of your regular daily diet. Take it just before meals. Unless your case is exceptional, you should soon notice a pick-up in your appetite...your color and skin should improve with increased strength and energy.

S.S.S. is not just a so-called tonic but a tonic specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions, and also having the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying hemo-glo-bin of the blood to enable you to "carry on" without exhaustion as you should naturally.

S.S.S. value has been proven by generations of use, as well as by modern scientific appraisal. It is truly a blood and body tonic. You will find it at all drug stores in two convenient sizes...the larger size is more economical.

Edgeworth Club Scene Of Easter Celebrations

To celebrate the Easter season, young married folks, debs and post-debs and their escorts will gather at the attractive Edgeworth Club, Sewickley Valley, for a dance Easter Monday night.

At least one of the country clubs—Longue Vue—will celebrate the Easter season earlier. There'll be a dinner dance at Longue Vue Country Club Saturday night. And celebrators there will not be "breaking" Lent, for Lent ends officially at noon on Saturday.

Speaking of Easter reminds me—saw pretty young Betty Bughman downtown yesterday. Betty, who is the daughter of the Henry Clay Bughmans, of Sewickley, is home for the holidays from Miss Walker's School, Simsbury, Conn.

Department Added to League

MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Painting aprons with capacious pockets holding paints, brushes and color books, carpenter aprons with such an array of rules, hammers, nails, pencils and screwdrivers as would be the answer to many an active small boy's dream, are to be found in the new department of the Industrial League, conducted by Pittsburgh Section, National Council of Jewish Women. Under the supervision of Mrs. Ralph M. Morganstern, a children's department has just been added to the grown-up dress shop featuring this Forbes street project of Council.

The new department has been added that the shop may further give employment to those handicapped women who have been taught to do exquisite work at home, hundreds of whom have been added since the shop was opened five years ago. Not only does the league teach the women what to do, but it furnishes them with the material and pays them for their work even before the articles are sold.

In addition to the more unusual "wares" of painting and carpenter aprons, the new "line" includes dresses, pajamas, negligees and underwear for children from 2 to 12 years. Pique bathrobes with initials and monogrammed wear (or full names embroidered for camp and travel), are shown for the older child.

Mrs. Oscar W. Oppenheimer is chairman of the Industrial League and is assisted by Mrs. Herbert G. Wertheimer.

American Legion Auxiliary Plans Membership Campaign

Plans for an intensive membership campaign during April as a tribute to the national president of the American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. William H. Biester, Jr., were outlined to the Western Pennsylvania units yesterday at the luncheon of 400 covers in the William Penn Hotel. Mrs. Erm R. Beadle, of Shamokin, state president, who shared luncheon honors with Mrs. Biester, announced the campaign in which the legion will co-operate to the extent of having an auxiliary day in each of its units. The drive will aim for the largest membership in the history of Pennsylvania. Even now the membership is 5,000 more than it was at this time last year.

In her informal talk Mrs. Biester spoke of the rehabilitation and child welfare work of the national organization, citing specific cases which have exemplified the auxiliary's creed that the best material from which to develop a citizen of the future is the child of a man who gave his life for his country. She mentioned Poppy Day, too, commenting on the fact that the disabled soldiers in 52 government hospitals and auxiliary workrooms in 40 different states are making the poppies, which in some cases provide complete maintenance for the veterans' families.

J. E. Isherwood, western vice commander of the Legion, also spoke, and the Tiny Tots Drum Corps, of Punxsutawney, Florence Fisher Parry, who read, and Melissa Snyder Knowles, who sang, also contributed to the program.

The route will be from Edmonton, Alberta to Fort St. John, thence across the Rockies to Telegraph Creek and down the Stikine River to Wrangell, Alaska.

B. P. W. Officer Urges 'World Neighborhood'

NEW YORK, March 29.—(AP.)—Instead of "high-flown talk about international peace," women should get down to brass tacks and help establish "a world economic neighborhood," Miss Emily Kneubuhl, executive secretary of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, said yesterday.

Women should be alert and ready to understand that right relationships between countries are established on an economic basis rather than on the number of battleships or on the old, traditional basis of competition, she asserted.

She urged women's organizations to start at home, tackling local economic problems and cooperating with other groups regardless of sex.

Women will play a big part in this world economic neighborhood which is to come because they are new and less fearful, Miss Kneubuhl said.

THROUGH THE SPYGLASS

Viewing the New

You little shoppers who want to learn the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column day by day . . . call GRant 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or send in a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply. THE SPYGLASS is always on the alert, peering out new "finds" . . . and you will be answered promptly.

Weaving in the news that the . . . stamps have led us of late . . . we pause to draw a breath and to draw a few items that, while not distinctly Easter-ish are certainly notable.

One, none other than the new spinet grand piano that has made an appearance in the homes of many apartment dwellers where space is not all it should be, and every inch counts. These dainty little reminders of the past days of minuets prove musical joys as well as living room beauties.

We sat down and plinked away at one . . . a lovely soft tone for so small an instrument. We turned our eagle eye on the wood . . . brown mahogany you can have it in walnut also . . . finished and finished with a fineness that this shop is famous for. And if space you can't vitalize a spinet piano . . . remember those sewing desks your grandmother had. This is almost identical! Hail to the conserver of wall space!

* * *

Maybe we don't feel smart! For it's not often one finds anything like this waiting patiently to be bought . . . for 50c!

A whole armful of toiletries . . . including a large box of bath powder . . . a can of talcum . . . a large powder puff . . . and a jar of bath salts. Carnation . . . lavender . . . and rose. Now you can smell sweetly, little children!

* * *

Then of course there are whole scads of you who are going to come in the door Easter Day brandishing a flower . . . or pot of flowers. So for you we have done a little intensive research . . . to find—

That one of the flower shops is doing well by all of us and featuring pots of lilies as low as $1 (3 and 4 blooms). Not to mention the bushy loveliness of pink or blue hydrangeas at $1 (these to be planted in the yard afterwards). And nice fussy rose bushes if you'd like to play Easter bunny with them!

* * *

How about a muddler with which to muddle up your glassful? Much has been said in favor of non-chippable ones, and we have the prize winner we think! Made of birch or solid walnut . . . nicely shaped . . . and only 20c each! And oh, how they can muddle!

Holy Week Sermonette

"At the Table With Jesus" is Rev. E. Corman's subject for today's Lenten sermonette. The Rev. Corman, pastor of the Trinity Reformed Church, Wilkinsburg, is one of a number of representative ministers selected by the Pittsburgh Council of Churches to write a special Lenten sermonette for the Sun-Telegraph.

"AT THE TABLE WITH JESUS"

"I have longed eagerly to eat this passover with you."

Luke 22: 15.

As Jesus reclines at the table with His disciples, His love for others blossoms like a rose among thorns. Our tendencies to sin, as we see them revealed in the disciples, we despise when contrasted with such beauty and sweetness.

There is no haughtiness in Him; no dignity to be preserved. He stoops to do that menial task for the others which they could not do with their superiority complexes. Their self-evaluation would not permit it. Jesus' love for them was so pure that it made a menial act an exalted service. Love carries its own dignity.

He did not avoid the issue before Him. His sense of God's way was clear and He did not try to bend it. His loyal love for God and for men pointed to the deceitfulness of Judas, the unsteadfastness of Peter and the shallowness of faith on the part of all, with a revealing light. Men avoid but His love bears the cross.

Time nor conditions can blot out such love. "This do in remembrance of me" is the deepest sacrament of the Christian Church. Herein men again and again see the beauty of the love of Jesus and repent of their own sin. This arises anew in us every Easter—death cannot hold it. Civilization moves forward on this faith.

This same loving, living, spiritual Christ eagerly longs to eat every dinner with you. He is man's truest friend.

KNITTED FROCKS GOING FORMAL FOR THE SPRING

By PRUNELLA WOOD

COTTON FABRICS made the grade to high society in a single, unexpected leap, quite a few years back. But it has taken much longer for knitted things to go high-hat. Last year France suggested Irish crochet for evening gowns, and there were a few models knitted from other materials to be had, notably a fish net chemille effect that looked somewhat seer-ish.

But the ice has broken apparently. The new spring knits, though they are not in the glittering tradition of full evening toilette, are deuced smart for the semi-formalities of late afternoon, now such an important part of sophisticated pleasures.

* * *

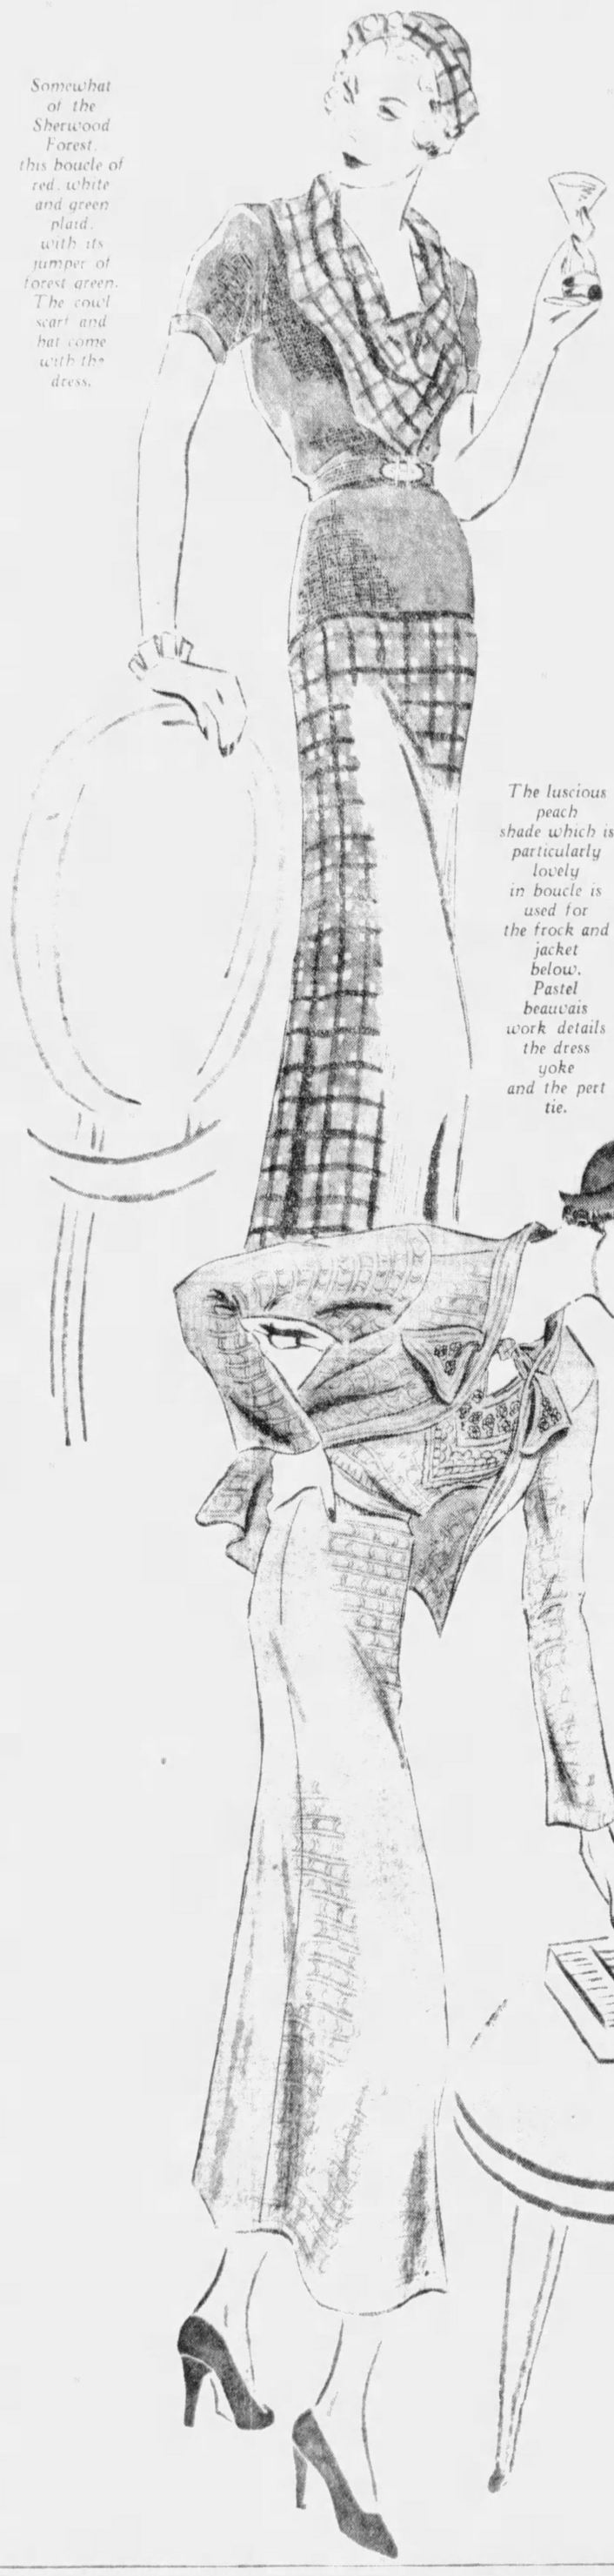
ANY WOMAN who takes her budget seriously might take a peek at the afternoon jacket-frock suits, or the three-piece models offered right and left for general dress-up utility dresses, if one may coin a phrase. In one of the well-made boucles, which are always modestly priced even though they may not be cheap, she will find a friend that is good to the last stitch.

Not the last dropped stitch, mind you—boucles today do not go around snagging themselves into dropped stitches, because they are woven with fine, firm back. Lacy weaves are reserved for blouses, for as in the combining of different materials in other models for contrast, plain and lacy stitches are combined in knitted dresses for the same accent.

THE DELICATE petit point effect of beauvais work is an old-timer in the annals of swell knitted frocks. On dark or light shades, and of dark or light tints itself, it gives a dressmaker, hand-made look to a machine-made garment.

As the sketches on this page demonstrate, it is possible to be really dressy in a knitted frock, and to look one's years smartly, whether maid or matron. The soignee creature at the table has found a flattering rever neckline to help out her mature figure; the other two models show the sporting and the townish influences in their costumes respectively.

Many ingenious women have discovered that a redingote looks very kippy over a knitted frock, and these newer and dressier models now to the fore will be especially amenable to this two-timing way of the wardrobe.



Somewhat of the Sherwood Forest, this boucle of red, white and green plaid, with its jumper of forest green. The cowl scarf and hat come with the dress.

The luscious peach shade which is particularly lovely in boucle is used for the frock and jacket below. Pastel beauvais work details the dress yoke and the pert tie.

Engadine green boucle in a lacy weave makes the blouse of this three-piece ensemble, while the jacket and skirt are the same shade in a closer weave. There are beauvais touches on the blouse collar.

Tri-States' Entries Busy

America's most historical episodes were being lived in the minds of millions of persons throughout the country today as men, women and children strived to write the 600-word epic that will stir the imaginations of generations through a million years from the heights of the Mount Rushmore National Memorial.

Thousands of these millions are your neighbors—maybe you are included among them—through Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia. Their enthusiasm has been stirred by the opportunity being offered by the Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers that maybe one of them will write the simple words that will clearly tell the nation's history.

Some person's efforts will become the basis of the final text that will be selected by the national committee of which President Roosevelt is chairman. Gutzon Borglum, famous sculptor, will carve the inscription in the South Dakota mountainside where four figures, each 450 feet high, will reveal Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt.

13-FOOT LETTERS

The 600-word text will be cut in letters 13 feet high.

Students or adults competing for the cash and other prizes being offered by the Hearst newspapers must remember to have the 600 words of text that they submit deal with the nine specific episodes in American history.

These include:

1—The signing of the Declaration of Independence.

2—The drafting of the Constitution.

3—The Louisiana Purchase.

4—The entry of Texas into the Union.

5—The ceding of Florida to the United States.

6—The acquisition of California.

7—The settlement of the Oregon Boundary dispute.

8—The Alaska Purchase.

9—The cutting of the Panama Canal.

INCLUDED IN TEXT

All these events must be incorporated in the 600 words of text that will be cut into the granite of Mount Rushmore as records for ages.

There is plenty of time for you to enter. No fancy wording is necessary. Simple words that are written from the heart with pride for the achievements of the nations is all that need compose the text. There are helpful articles to be found daily in the Sun-Telegraph for every participant. The third of a series of articles on the nine points of history appears in an adjoining column today. Rules and list of awards appear every Sunday.

And remember, the awards are based upon separate groups. The school child does not compete against the older participants. The awards are grouped for adults, college students, high school students and grade school pupils. One of the latter, enthused with the pride of his country's historical achievements, might write the simple text that clearly outlines the nation's progress that will stir the visitors to the colossal monument through the ages.

LOUISIANA PURCHASE EPIC IN U. S. HISTORY

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a series of articles by Mr. Woodhouse on the nine episodes in American history that are to be recounted on the Mt. Rushmore Memorial.)

By HENRY WOODHOUSE

A glance at a map of the United States, showing the vast area of the Louisiana Purchase makes it easy to understand why the Purchase deserves the honor of being recorded in the rock of the United States, in the 600 words inscription being secured by the nation-wide Hearst newspapers competition, to be carved on the entablature of Mount Rushmore, as part of the epoch-making national memorial.

The historic records back of the Louisiana Purchase fully support the statement made by President Roosevelt to Gutzon Borglum upon accepting the chairmanship of the national committee, that prime factors in the development of the nation were:

"The pioneer spirit, the creative urge, which led our people to populate the various areas which from time to time came into their nation."

A look at the map of the United States with the territory of the Louisiana Purchase blocked out supplies indisputable proof that the Louisiana territory was and is indispensable to the greatness of the United States.

When the Louisiana Purchase was accomplished on April 30, 1803, the territory of the United States aggregated only 892,135 square miles.

VAST LANDS ADDED

The Louisiana Purchase added the enormous territory west of the Mississippi River where are now the states of Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, part of Colorado, Wyoming, Montana!

The acreage of the Louisiana territory acquired 924,279 square miles—or more than doubled the size of the United States!

Until the United States purchased that territory, its ownership by European nations represented a source of great concern to the United States.

George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, James Monroe and other distinguished founders of the United States expressed their concern over conditions arising from foreign control of Mississippi navigation which Jefferson clearly defined as early as 1790 as follows:

"The navigation of the Mississippi is necessary to us. More than half the territory of the United States is on waters of that river.

"Two hundred thousands of our citizens are settled on them, of whom forty thousand bear arms. These have no other outlet for their tobacco, rice, corn, hemp, lumber, house timber, ship timber.

"We have hitherto respected the indecision of Spain, because we wish peace;—because our western citizens have had vent at home for their productions. A surplus of production begins now to demand foreign markets.

"Whenever they shall say, 'We cannot, we will not, be longer shut up,' the United States will be reduced to the following dilemma: "1. To force them to acquiescense. 2. To separate from them, rather than take part in a war against Spain. 3. or to preserve them in our union, by joining them in the war.

JEFFERSON'S VIEWS

"The first is neither in our principles, nor in our power. A multitude of reasons decide against the second. It may suffice to speak but one: were we to give up half our territory rather than engage in a just war to preserve it, we should not keep the other half long. The third is the alternative we must adopt."

The dominant European nations used the Louisiana territory as pawn in a huge political chess game.

France held the Louisiana territory until October 31, 1764, when the King of France ordered that all French possessions in North America not ceded to Great Britain should be delivered to Spain.

Two years before, on November 3, 1762, France had enacted that

"The whole country known as Louisiana, together with New Orleans, and the island on which the said city is situated," should be ceded to the King of Spain and his successors. The King of Spain accepted the cession, which extended the Spanish empire from the Mississippi to and including South America.

NAPOLEON'S PLANS

When the French monarchy was abolished and after the French Republic was established, in the years 1800-1801 Napoleon planned to send an armed force to Louisiana to recover the vast territory.

That threatened to bring a European war on the American continent, threatening American independence and welfare.

The United States protested and soon after his election, President Thomas Jefferson ably represented by Robert R. Livingston and James Monroe, obtained Napoleon's consent to the cession to the United States of the Louisiana territory for a consideration of only 75,000,000 francs.

The taxable property on that territory today aggregates over $75,000,000,000!

We cannot conceive today of the United States without that territory, its vast wealth, its huge population. It is plain that the Louisiana Purchase was indispensable to the future greatness of the United States!

Gold and Jewels Found in River

CANON CITY, Col.—(INS.)—Tom McDowell, a prospector, struck gold in paying quantities in the Arkansas River near here. Not only gold, but 15 jewels and a quantity of fine works as well, were included in his find. While panning in the mud along the river bottom he found a valuable ladies' watch.

Women Seeking Comfort No Longer Wear 4-B Shoes

What are beautiful feet?

The Frenchman evidently knows, for he has had a caucus of opinion over there in Paris, and has given the palm to 12 American women.

These women no doubt have paced the Rue de la Pais. Have traipsed the Rue de Rivoli, And have driven up the Champs Elysees and on through the Bois.

Otherwise the astute Frenchman would not have been able to measure their pedal extremities. He never heard of you and me, sisters.

The women of the U. S. A. have always been noted for their exquisite legs. Choruses such as the Vanities and other similar ones, have been formed to exploit this attribute of physical charm. But now we have the new honor of the most lovely feet!

I recall a discussion in my sun parlor at Provincetown, Mass. Two women were resting pleasantly until the storm broke. The one was a Polish musician. The other a Rumanian, the wife of a Spanish diplomat. The siege of the tootsies waxed warm. For it was a national issue.

Which had the most beautiful feet? The Polish women, or the Rumanian women? And each was sure she was right. For each had a very good-looking foot of her own.

Yet in the general reckoning of feet does size and shape count? I wonder if we were to have all the successful women, social, professional, business, walk before us, if we could discover their feet had contributed much toward their prowess?

FEET LARGER NOW

I am told by a local shoe man that the younger generation of Pittsburghers have much larger feet than their mothers. "Without batting an eye they come in here and are measured for 7 Bs," he said. "And I can remember when every woman who thought anything at all of her appearance was positive she would be lost in any shoe which was longer than a 4-B."

"It's the out-of-door living," he said. "People want to be comfortable, even girls, nowadays."

And he sighed. As if he felt all the dreams that walk were dead ones.

There was a little roly-poly old maid lived at the same hotel where I spent a winter. She had plenty of the long green and paid well for her going. After eating a satisfying dinner she always seated herself in the foyer of the hotel and had a page bring a certain cushion for her feet. There she sat as if waiting for her Prince Charming, her dainty pedal extremities done in high-heeled, narrow-toed, painfully small shoes.

And I wouldn't have been that woman for all her wealth. She was suffering in her vanity. She was dreaming dreams about those feet that would end her in the grave, and find them unmaterialized.

Our feet are to walk on. They are to carry us gracefully down the path of endeavor. They are not supposed to give us pain when we least want it.

They are to be well fitted and well shod when we can afford it. Bathed and clean, and stockinged in the sheerest silk if we so fancy. But then their place is filled. They won't get us a good husband. They won't assure us a seat with the mighty. They won't do anything for us at all beyond keeping right down below our skirts and going with us to the six feet of ground which we are all likely to occupy.

PECULIAR PREDICAMENT

Dear Miss Brunot:

I am one of a set of twins, and am in a very peculiar predicament. I understand that the girl I go with also goes with another fellow. He has dates with her every Sunday, and I usually have dates with her on Saturday. Should I tell her that I know about the other fellow?

I have tried going out with other girls, but am not interested. My mind is ALWAYS ON HER. I did tell her that I heard she had another boy friend and she said she merely went with him because he showed her a good time.

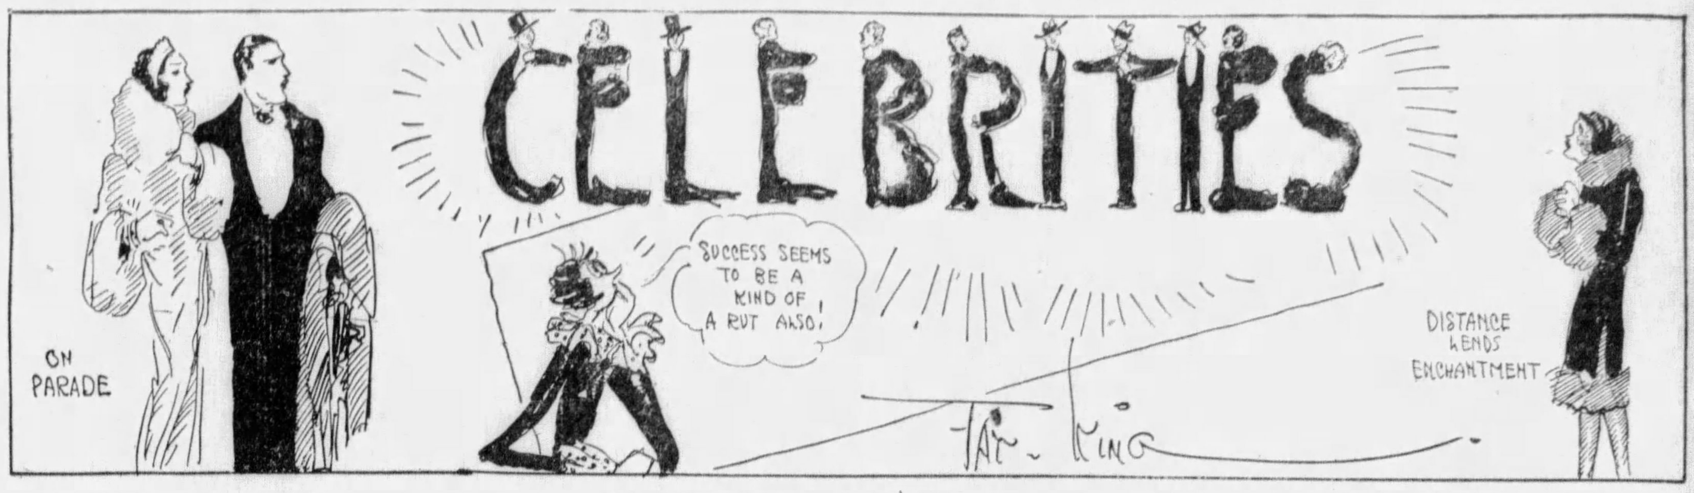
Can you advise me?

DON R.

Unless you are ready to propose marriage to this girl, and can arrange for a day to make her your wife, you are scarcely in a position to object to her going with another fellow.

I believe she likes you Don R., or she would not have tried to explain her going with the other young man. Be very patient and kind and entertaining, and I am sure you will win out. Of course Sunday night does seem to be the "pick" of dates.

Celebrities Too Often Disappointing, Says Fay King



By FAY KING

Celebrities do not interest me as such.

They are all so much alike when one meets them casually on parade, varying only in a degree of modesty, conceit, cordiality or reticence as the case may be.

Unless one is a personal friend, one sees only their surface gestures.

If one is privileged to penetrate a little further into their personalities in passing it is sometimes disappointing.

I admired a certain celebrity from a distance very much. On the one and only occasion in which we met, our conversation turned to a friend we had in common.

So ungenerous was a careless remark this well-known person made, I have never since been able to regard him as I once did.

Distance lends that enchantment flattering imagination creates.

A Sequel to Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge's Father Tells Her Story of Quaint Ring

My father's voice was almost a paean as he told me of his conviction that my mother's love for him had not been wholly killed, as he had thought, by his dastardly desertion of her, but that through the years she not only had forgiven him, but had kept alive in her heart her great love of him. But almost on the moment a mournful note marred that triumphant tenderness.

"Oh, the wasted years!" he exclaimed. "You know, for I have told you, how short a time that madness of mine continued, and how many years I tried in vain to appeal to her. If I only had dreamed that she still loved me, I would have taken her by storm—by force, if necessary—swept you and her away with me, and kept you both until I was able to win back her trust in me."

He paused, straightened his shoulders and shook them, as if he were shrugging off a burden to which they had long been accustomed.

"There is no use wasting time in futile regrets," he said. "I must not think of what might have been. I must be grateful for the blessed happiness which you have brought to me tonight. Shall we put back the letter, now, in the little secret place in which your mother left it? And can you guess the boon I wish to ask of you?"

"You would like to have this box for your own," I said softly.

He bent and kissed me.

REVEALS RING'S STORY

"You have your mother's own true intuition," he said. "Yes, I should like to keep it close to me, until I go to join her. After that, everything I have is yours, of course. Now let me tell you about this ring."

He took the quaint old ring, with its beautiful blue sapphire, and held it up before my eyes.

"This was first my grandmother's ring," he said, "then my mother's, and when you were born I took it from the bank where it had lain since my mother's death with the injunction that it be given to my wife upon the birth of my first daughter, and then kept in trust for that daughter."

He turned the ring so that the facets of it caught fire, but they were not more aflame than my own imagination. This old ring was now mine! More—it would sometime belong to my own little daughter!

"I had no sister," my father went on. "If I had had one, of course the ring would have gone to her. But I never shall forget your mother's wild delight when I brought the ring to her. You were just a week old, and she first put the ring on a ribbon and hung it around your neck for a little while; then she put it on her own finger. There it stayed until the night when she took it off and handed it to me, saying that she would keep her wedding ring on your account, 'for the speech of people,' but that she wanted nothing else of mine.

SENT RING BACK

"I refused to take it, and afterward she sent it to me in the care of my attorney. Six months later I had the attorney forward it to her with a letter couched in legal terms, in which he stated that I had left the country, leaving no address, and that I had given him instructions to forward the ring to my infant daughter, to whom it belonged. The attorney made it clear to her that it was a legal obligation on her part to take care of the ring, and that he could not accept the care of it.

"She must have believed what he told her. She was not much versed in legal or business phraseology — my Faith" — my father's voice held infinite tenderness—"for she did not return the ring again. And in this letter she tells me that sometimes, when she was alone, she wore it, and that she wishes me to give it to you—if I have found you—upon the birth of your first daughter."

"So, my darling, hold out your right hand."

I held out my hand, trying in vain to still its trembling. And as my father tenderly pressed the ring upon my finger, I felt again that sense of another presence, and could have sworn I heard a gentle sigh of satisfaction.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Maid of Honor

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Miss Brown is to be married at the rectory. She would like to have her close girl friend as her only attendant. A claims this is correct, as her girl friend is much closer to her than her own sister. B claims that to be socially correct she must have her sister. Please tell me who is right. G.

It is usually taken for granted that, if the bride has a sister, that sister will be her maid of honor, or, if married, her matron of honor. And even if her girl friend is much closer to her than her sister, she usually invites her sister to be her attendant. And her sister will expect this honor. However, the final choice rests with the bride, and if she doesn't mind going against this tradition, and also possibly hurting the feelings of her sister, she may, of course,

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Elimination Play

A forced lead or end-play is based upon the elimination of one or more suits from the hand of the opponent to be given the lead. An elimination play, on the other hand, which is possible only at a suit declaration, is based on the elimination of all but two suits—the trump suit and one other—from the closed hand and the Dummy. Its purpose is to force a lead which will either give Declarer an extra high-card trick or permit a ruff in one hand and a discard in the other.

In the hand which is the subject of discussion today, the Declarer, in order to fulfill his contract, not only had to eliminate two suits from his own hand and Dummy, but also had to place the lead with the opponent who had the high honors in the remaining suit. However, the method of play adopted was the one that promised the greatest chance of success and the Declarer was therefore fully justified in choosing it.

West, Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ 8 7 5 ♡ 9 8 4 2 ◇ K Q J 6 ♣ 8 3
♠ J 4 3 ♡ A K 6 ◇ 5 ♣ A Q J 10 7 2	West North East South	♠ A 6 2 ♡ 7 5 3 ◇ A 8 4 2 ♣ K 9 5
	♠ K Q 10 9 ♡ Q J 10 ◇ 10 9 7 3 ♣ 6 4

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	Pass	2 N T (1)	Pass
4 ♣ (2)	Pass	5 ♣	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—East has 2½ honor-tricks and a fit with partner's bid suit. He has not sufficient playing-tricks for a Raise and it too strong to bid only one notrump.

2—West when he saw the Dummy regretted that he had not permitted the hand to play at notrump. At this time, however, he thought there was a possibility of a Slam.

The Opening lead was the diamond King and West at once saw that he must not only play accurately but as well be favored by fate if he was to fulfill his contract. The first trick was won with the Ace in Dummy and the diamond 2 returned and ruffed with the club 10 in the closed hand. The club 2 was now led and overtaken with the nine, and the diamond 4 led and ruffed with the Knave. The Dummy was re-entered by leading the club 7 and overtaking with the King. Now Dummy's last diamond was led and ruffed, and not only the Dummy, but all the hands, were voided of that suit. The Declarer's next three leads were the Ace, King and six of hearts, the last trick being won by South.

Unhappily for South, but fortunately for the Declarer, he held the three adverse spade honors. The King was led and allowed to hold the trick, but the continuation of the suit was won by West's Knave and the contract fulfilled.

Brush Eyebrows

What is left of normal eyebrows must be brushed. If brilliantine is used, so much the better. The delicate fluff that composes eyebrows is improved by grooming. Brushing removes dust. Brush upward, then run the brush lightly along the top line to give a sleek, smooth, even edge. No hairs out of step then.

There is little excuse, these days, for "regular" pain—or even being uncomfortable at this time. Every girl who hasn't learned how she can keep her dates, and keep comfortable, should read this:

Watch the calendar. Just before your time, take a Midol tablet and drink a glass of water, and you may escape the expected pain entirely. If not, a second tablet should relieve it in seven to ten minutes. That is how rapidly this remedy works!

Midol relieves even those who have always had a difficult time. Relief is such that two tablets should see you through the worst day. Yet they contain no narcotic, nothing injurious. They're as harmless as the aspirin you take for an ordinary headache. But don't be fooled by ordinary pain tablets offered as a specific for such suffering! Midol is a special medicine, for this special purpose. Your druggist has it on the counter—or just ask for Midol.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

The Value of 'Old Wives' Remedies

To many the sight of blood is alarming. To the average individual, nothing is more distressing than to witness a severe nose bleed. The sight of a lot of blood usually causes undue excitement on the part of the victim and that causes delay in control of the hemorrhage.

Dr. Copeland

On the other hand, there are many who are rarely, if ever, frightened by the sight of blood. In emergencies, such a one is the first to apply some well known measure of help.

Nose bleed can be controlled in many ways. Some of the methods have been handed down through the centuries. They are a part of our traditions. In truth many of the "old wives" methods of controlling nasal bleeding are efficient and beneficial. They are really based on scientific fact, and long experience has proved their value.

The first thing to do to check nose bleed, is to so place the sufferer that he is half lying down. Put him on a bed or couch with the shoulders and head slightly elevated.

Insert under the upper lip a flexible roll of newspaper or muslin about two inches long and one-third of an inch thick. Force this pad well up between the gum and the lip. This makes pressure on the blood vessels and that helps to stop the bleeding.

Another good plan is to apply ice to the back of the neck. When ice is not available you can resort to the old plan of putting a cold key down the back of the neck. These old methods may help to control the bleeding.

If the bleeding continues in spite of these efforts, it is imperative that a physician be called immediately. Until the physician arrives, keep the patient as quiet as possible. Bear in mind that exertion and the mental activity given by fear will increase the bleeding.

In children, nose bleed can often be controlled by simply pressing the soft parts of the nose together. Place the thumb and forefinger right under the boney part of the nose and exert gentle pressure. If necessary, apply ice to the back of the neck, keeping the child in a sitting position and not lying down.

Bear in mind, that frequent nose bleed in children requires attention. In adults, it may be a sign of high blood pressure.

Even though nose bleeds are easily controlled, I would advise the frequent sufferer to consult with his doctor. Early recognition and prompt attention to the underlying cause will save much unnecessary suffering and anxiety.

TEXT OF LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS LETTER

The text of the speech of Mrs J. O. Miller of the League of Woman Voters to Council today follows:

When this Council organized in January of this year, it was well known that the former administration had left unpaid bills and appropriations that had been encumbered to the tune of two and one-half millions of dollars.

You knew that there was less than $5,000,000 of available cash in the general fund of the City Treasurer. You also knew that the former administration had fixed the budget for 1934 with the full knowledge that the expected income would be about two million dollars short of meeting that budget.

In other words, with this financial setup, it was expected that 1934 would end with four and one-half million dollars of unpaid bills and encumbered appropriations.

You have now spent three months at the expense of the taxpayers quibbling about how to balance the budget, and what have you finally accomplished?

FIRST—You have passed a salary ordinance imposing upon the taxpayers of this city a payroll reeking with unnecessary jobs, many of them with compensation entirely out of line with the present economic conditions, and in many instances, positions that are entirely wasteful and not needed, particularly for a city which has not paid its current bills.

Furthermore, this salary ordinance is unbusinesslike and lacking in every good principle of sound municipal administration, and instead of saving the taxpayers' money the salary ordinance calls for the expenditures of practically as much money as the ordinance passed by the previous administration.

Certain positions have been staggered. This will undoubtedly result in the reduction of service to taxpayers and in imposing an unreasonable hardship upon certain of the technical administrative heads of our city departments, all for the purpose of enabling Council to increase certain salary and wage rates. The only excuse given is the fact that you desire to increase the pay of those who earn less than $1,500.00 without regard to the value of the services performed by them and without regard to the greater need for the services performed by those whose positions have been staggered.

Furthermore, the scheme of staggering positions which has been devised to date will now have to be spread over a nine months' period, instead of a 12 months' period. This will make the schedule more confused and much more difficult to work out.

We feel sure that if the results of the staggering system were worked out in detail with names, qualifications and dates for absences of each individual to be staggered, many utterly ridiculous situations would be discovered. We would like to point out one of these to you.

Under your set-up of staggering, the Controller will be left for four months without any real laboratory facilities for analyzing the various materials purchased and delivered to the city. This certainly will be neither economic or efficient, and may be illegal.

TAX POLICY CRITICIZED

SECOND—A great deal of time and attention have been devoted to the imposition of further taxes. Council has not said to the people that new taxes were being imposed for the purpose of relieving the present burdens upon real estate.

On the contrary, it appears very clear to the taxpayer that the tax upon public utilities was intended to get more money into the city treasury to enable the present administration to continue the same or worse extravagances than were indulged in by former administrations.

Council has spent a large portion of the past three months in quibbling about new forms of taxes and to this date all that has been collected in the form of new taxes is a few dollars. This whole question has been thrown into a legal tangle which may require years to unravel, at great expense to the taxpayers of the city as well as to those on whom this tax is to be imposed, and with no definite results in sight for a long time.

The League of Women Voters of Allegheny County is thoroughly in sympathy with the imposition of sound proper, and reasonable taxes for the conveniences which the taxpayers are given by our city. But it is not in favor of imposing such additional taxes for the sole purpose of paying political debts and continuing the municipal extravagances with which this city has been burdened for so many years.

Again I say that the League of Women Voters favors the imposition of further taxes, but only if that tax is to be used for proper expenditures and for the relief that can be extended to the owners of properties, and more particularly the home owner, who has been forgotten in the matter of municipal taxes.

CHECKS RELIEF ROLLS

Yesterday, in order to bring very accurate and up-to-date figures to your attention, I called the Charities Association to find out just how many people were on the relief rolls. During the week of March 12 to 17, we had the following numbers on relief—53,217 families—14,145 single individuals—10,000 families who were temporarily removed from relief rolls to the CWA, a total of 63,217 families on public relief and 14,145 individuals, the peak load for all time for this county.

In addition, a careful survey would undoubtedly show that many of our property owners have now exhausted the savings of years and are on the verge of falling on relief. Many of them are landlords housing the seventy-seven thousand destitute families and individuals and they have now no sources of revenue either to pay their city, county or school taxes, or to secure the bare necessities of life.

Yet what do you propose to do in the face of these appalling facts? You propose to increase the pay of city employes in certain brackets and instead of practicing economy to add to the burdens of these taxpayers.

President Roosevelt in his veto of the Independent Offices Bill put this matter very clearly and succinctly:

"This bill increases the compensation for employes of the United States government $125,000,000 over my budget estimates for this purpose. I have great sympathy for the employes, but I cannot forget that millions of American citizens are today still without employment and reduction in the compensation of federal employes has been and still is on the average less than the reduction in compensation that has been patiently endured by those citizens not in the employ of the United States government."

COUNCIL CRITICIZED

The same words might well have been used against Council's plans of a wage increase and a staggering system, instead of ridding the city of its numerous, unnecessary and inefficient personnel.

THIRD. While the efforts to balance the budget were being carried on during the past three months, largely in secret sessions the propriety of which is questionable, and knowing that its efforts were not accomplishing the result of balancing the budget, Council has been spending many days in devising some method or methods of borrowing more money. To put this in the language of the layman, an effort was made to pay off current debts by placing upon the shoulders of the home owner and the property owner a bonded debt that he would have to pay over a period of 10, 20, or 30 years. In other words, the result of taking this course of least resistance would be a piling up of more bonded debt upon the taxpayer, so that he would have more interest and more sinking fund charges to pay. The burden of such charges already amounts to over six million dollars a year in the budget of the city.

It is the sincere hope of the League of Women Voters that the bankers who have been considering the proposition of lending more money to the city will say to Council, as we now say "Not one penny until you have put your house in order and washed your own linens."

FOURTH—As a rule of good business practice, when the management of a corporation is changed because its stockholders believed them to be inefficent and not capable of administering the affairs of their corporations, the newly selected management as its first corrective step makes every possible effort to determine some of the causes of the maladministration. This usually requires a most careful study of past operations to find their relation to present financial conditions and to learn from them how to avoid a future recurrence.

The present Council has been wholly deficient in this respect. As for those members who came in on January 1 and were unfamiliar with the financial operations of the city prior thereto, what have they done during the past three months to learn of these conditions? Have they determined the status and all of the underlying causes behind the million dollars or more in city deposits that are tied up in banks that cannot pay that money to the city? Have they heeded the request of the Director of Public Welfare—his request for a public audit of his department so that he can lay his plans for a business-like administration—and that department, gentlemen, affects the lives of many thousands of unfortunate and destitute people who were formerly our taxpaying citizens?

MILLIONS OUTSTANDING

Has any effort been made to determine the status of the many million of dollars that are owing to the City, either for taxes or for privileges which the City grants under contracts and franchises? Has a study been made of the contracts under which these privileges and franchises are granted and whether the City is properly paid in view of all the circumstances and conditions surrounding each of the privileges and franchises? Has inquiry been made into the protection that our city should have by reason of surety bonds for officials who are handling public funds and collateral bonds on account of its deposits?

In 1931 conditions became so unbearable in City Hall that the League of Women Voters and a group of private citizens contributed a very large sum of money for the purpose of finding out the conditions then existing in the Department of Supplies and investigating the letter of public contracts because City Council did not deem it advisable or necessary to appropriate the funds necessary for the taxpayers to determine these facts.

Gentlemen, you know as well as the League of Women Voters the results that were obtained through the disclosures and the indictments and convictions, and the improvement in administration that followed as a result of those disclosures, but neither the former Council nor the present one has made a similar investigation of the other departments of the city government to determine if there are in existence any similar conditions which should be corrected. This is not sound business administration of the corporation which spends over 20 millions of dollars for current expenses and has an assessed valuation of over a billion dollars. But you may very easily say that it's just muck raking and politics. If this is your viewpoint, may I call your attention to the disclosure on the part of the League of Women Voters not more than four weeks ago.

You will recall that at the expense of the League of Women Voters we conducted a few days' survey of the collection of rubbish, an operation which costs the City many hundreds of thousands of dollars a year. We came to Council after this study was made and we showed that right during your own administration commercial rubbish was being collected at the expense of the City, contrary to the contract under which the rubbish was being collected.

You may or may not be aware of the fact that since this disclosure the cost to the city of collecting rubbish has dropped several thousands of dollars a month. And, gentlemen, if any or all of you would do as I did and in the cold of the morning trail a few of these rubbish wagons through our city streets from the time they start to the time they deliver the rubbish to the scales, you, too, might learn much more than can be seen from the Council Chambers. In view of all of this nobody has deemed it necessary during the past several years to even change one sentence in this contract in order that the city could be protected against any violations.

But this is a big city and no doubt many of its operations could be analyzed and should be analyzed, just as the League of Women Voters has endeavored to analyze for you this contract for the collection of rubbish. This takes time and effort and intelligent and comprehensive studies, but if done, substantial savings are almost sure to enure to the benefit of the taxpayers.

FIFTH—We have heard a great deal during the past few months with reference to our traction problem. The Pittsburgh Railways Company has been operating under the Traction Conference Board for many years. The salaries alone for Traction Board amount to some $37,000 a year. As we understand it, certain agreements exist between the Railways Company and the City of Pittsburgh, as well as other municipalities, under which the city is to be paid large sums of money if certain operating results are obtained by the Railways Company. We learn from the press that practically no moneys have been received by the City of Pittsburgh under this contract for the past several years.

The contract between the Railways Company and the city creates many complicated and involved situations. For example, let me call your attention to one sentence in the sixth paragraph of that agreement, and I'm quoting:

"The city shall have a voice in the amount of money which the new company shall spend in operations and depreciation allowance, and in betterments, improvements and rehabilitation, and also in extensions, if any, to be exercised in the following manner."

CONTRACT RENEWED

The contract then recites the manner in which that supervision is to be exercised by the city. The third paragraph of Section 8 provides, and I'm quoting:

"Monthly reports shall be submitted by the new company to the Traction Conference Board for comparisons with the budget figures and the said board shall have the right to audit the books of the company at any time."

As I understand from the public press, this contract is again coming up for consideration about May 1. Are you fortified with sufficient information, financial, technical, and otherwise to pass intelligently and in a businesslike manner upon the basis of any further or new arrangement that may be effected after that date? Have you availed yourself of every right provided you under the present agreement so that you can be properly informed in your decisions? Again using the language of the layman, the impression which I have gained of the position of the city in this situation reminds me much of the lawyer who goes into court without first having prepared either the facts or the law in the case that he is about to try, when the opposing side has at its command a battery of legal, accounting, and engineering talent of the first class.

SIXTH. In January, about three weeks after Mayor McNair assumed office, he presented Council with a series of recommendations on the various departments and requested that the budget requests be reduced in accordance with these suggestions. At least $600,000.00 of those recommendations would have saved the city an expenditure of that amount of money for unnecessary positions on the city payroll. This was made at the expense of private individuals and at no cost to the city and upon the invitation of the Mayor-elect before he assumed office.

SAVINGS POSSIBLE

Had this report been made the basis of further intensive study by Council during the past three months, there is no question in our minds that many more unnecessary positions could have been eliminated and the city saved perhaps another six hundred thousand dollars.

Council by equalizing the pay of the same types of workers in the different departments could have saved further large amounts. Council might also have considered whether the amounts paid to employes at City Hall were in excess of the amounts paid for similar services in private corporations, a study that we feel would have been very enlightening and would have saved the city considerable money.

Council is calling in the Economy League to perform a similar service at their own expense. We trust that if they do so, that when their report is presented, whether you agree with them or not, they will be called upon to present in person and to aid in the discussion of their recommendations. If the Economy League has profited from past experience it will probably refuse to undertake so gigantic a task unless it has promises from Council that it will really receive co-operation in carrying out its suggestions. Otherwise it will be time and money wasted and the public will again be reminded of the song "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes."

SUSPECT 'WED' FOSTER MOTHER

CHICAGO, March 29.—(AP.)—Charged with bigamy, 24-year-old Leroy Nelson today said he went through a marriage ceremony in 1927 with his 62-year-old foster mother to help her establish claims to an estate.

The bigamy complaint was made by Mrs. Ruth Proctor Nelson, 23, to whom Nelson was married in 1931. She made the complaint after her father, Edwin Proctor, read an account in a Swedish newspaper in Kentucky of the strange marriage which took place in 1927 and started an investigation.

Nelson said his foster mother, Mrs. Charlotte Nelson, had been friendly some years ago with a man named Gus Sward, who died leaving a substantial estate.

3 HELD IN DEATH OF PARIS JURIST

PARIS, March 29.—(AP.)—Underworld trails into the haunts of the "Stavisky gang" led today to murder charges against two men suspected of slaying Judge Albert Prince, "the man who knew all" in the Stavisky scandal.

Gaetan L'Herbon Le Lussats, a native of Monaco, who is called "baron," and Paul Carbonne Bonaventure, a Corsican, were locked up after an all-night grilling by secret police.

A third man, Francois Paul Spirito, was held at Marseille.

Two Argentines, whose names were not disclosed, also were sought. They were described as friends of Bonaventure, whose real name is believed to be Carboni and who police said, boasted the title of "king of the gansters."

PIRATES AND CUBS SET TO RESUME BATTLES TODAY

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Rabbit's Future Doubtful Injury May End Playing Chance for Record Slips

Mack Now Scorns Cash Floor Cage to Return World Series On Grid

It would be taking a long chance to pronounce Rabbit Maranville done as a ball player at any age or in the face of any handicap. A marvel of physical durability and an all-time standout in spirit, he is beyond reckoning. A man who went through 22 years of major league playing to be still a regular infielder at 42, the oldest daily worker in the entire big show in both age and point of service, and antedating all other big leaguers of the present day except Pitcher Herb Pennock, is not to be measured by ordinary standards or yardsticks.

Rabbit Maranville

But while pulling hard for Maranville to beat his latest serious mishap, just as he has been beating Father Time, most fans fear that the broken leg suffered yesterday by the little veteran of the Braves, besides being a severe blow to Bill McKechnie's club in the pennant race, will end abruptly one of the most remarkable and colorful playing careers in the history of baseball. The Rabbit came back after a similar injury in 1925, but he was nine years younger then. It is gravely to be doubted that even such a physical wonder as Maranville could throw off the effect of so severe a hurt at the age of 42 to the extent of being fast enough again to play at a major league pace.

FUTURE SERVICE MAY BE ONLY AS PILOT

There is no doubt that Maranville's spirit will remain unbroken. It is safe to say that he will want to play again, and it may be taken for granted that he will try. But that any further activity of that kind will amount to more than a short gesture is extremely doubtful. There must always be a place in baseball for the Rabbit, a veteran of five National League clubs, including the Pirates, but it will not be surprising if that place in the future confines him to the duties of a bench manager. He will be pretty certain to get such a post next year or later. In that direction he is a natural.

The tough break that renders any further great stretch of playing by Maranville improbable deprives him of a chance to set an all-time playing record in the National League. Having played in 2,647 games, he needed only 139 more contests to pass Honus Wagner's mark of 2,785 as the greatest number of pennant engagements in which any one player ever participated in the senior circuit. It was the Rabbit's ambition to beat that record, but it looks as though the fates will deny him the opportunity.

WOULD NOT SELL HIGGINS FOR MILLION

Seeking to show that he sold five star players last winter only because he was forced to do so by circumstances, Connie Mack now declares that he would not sell Third Baseman Frank Higgins for a million dollars. That's not hard to believe, of course, because he wouldn't get it. But after first calling attention to the fairly well-known fact that a million dollars is a great deal of money, the veteran boss of the A's asserted in all seriousness that if a rival club owner were to pile a million on a table right under his nose he would not take it for Higgins.

Connie Mack

Reminded that no ball player in history ever sold for as much as $150,000, Mack said he was not holding Higgins to be worth seven times as much as any other player on record. "He may be only a five-dollar ball player, but even at that I would not sell him for one million," Connie repeated. Baseball sales, whether they involve players or franchises and parks, all depend on circumstances, Mack explained, adding that in his present circumstances there is no price big enough to buy Higgins because the owners of the A's no longer need money, the winter sales having solved their financial problems and left them in a position to refuse a million.

NEW FLOOR LEAGUE MAY BRING BACK CAGE

Referring to basketball teams and players as "cage" clubs and "cagers" is only the survival of an old custom, as except on rare occasions cages have not been used in the court sport for many years, just as the pitcher's "box" still mentioned frequently in baseball has not been in existence since 1892. But the cage may be brought back next season by the new professional league proposed for this district. Several of those interested have recommended its revival, and the proposal is certain to be given consideration, at least. The advocates hold that basketball in a cage is twice the game it is on an open court, and that modern cages of rope or heavy twine eliminate all danger of injury to the players.

Two league teams are assured for Pittsburgh, one of them being the ex-Dukes. McKeesport and Charleroi are in line, and to the two applications from Butler and one each from Steubenville and Akron has been added another from Apples Meyers, former Coffey Club player, who wants a franchise from Braddock and says he has a hall equal to any in the loop. Erie and Cleveland plans still are indefinite, but the league promoters are confident of having a circuit of 10 or 12 clubs, aiming to use the first season for experimental or weeding-out purposes and to reduce the membership to eight teams the following year. Two new men being considered as coaches by prospective starters are Chief Muller, old South Side star, and Pete Barry, of the Celtics.

PRO FOOTBALL TO HAVE WORLD SERIES

If Pittsburgh's football Pirates can finish as high as third in the National Professional League next season, they'll get a chance to go to the Pacific Coast and play in a gridiron World Series. Coast advices confirm reports that a six-cornered post-season derby will result from the organization of a pro league in the Far West for next fall. With only one major league in operation, the custom has been to have the leaders in the Eastern and Western divisions meet in a single game for the championship. The plan now is to stage a run-off at Los Angeles in January among the leading three teams of the National League and the top trio in the Coast loop.

Homer Griffith

The Pacific organization is to have eight clubs, constructed with the idea of maintaining former college rivalry by grouping the players in a manner corresponding to alma mater. Four teams in Southern California will be made up of men who played for U. S. C., Santa Clara, Loyola and U. C. L. A., while the four in the North will be representative of California, St. Mary's, Stanford and San Francisco University. Contracts already have been signed by 28 former college stars, including Homer Griffith, famous Trojan back, Jess Shaw and Marger Apsit. A season of 56 games will open September 30. Players will be paid on a pro rata basis, with a bonus for each game won.

MARANVILLE PASSES OUT AS HERO

By BILL CORUM
International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 29.—They cut his uniform off the little guy with the banjo ears down yonder in St. Petersburg, Fla., yesterday and we have seen the last of another baseball marvel in action. Now only Babe Ruth, the old guy who stands alone, remains.

The little fellow with the large listenters was Walter James (Rabbit) Maranville, who was born in Springfield, Mass., on November 11, 1891, and who, until they picked him up with a broken leg in yesterday's tragic practice contest with the Yankees, still was one of the great infielders of the game.

CAREER NEAR END

They sent him back to third base after he had crossed the plate with what looked like the winning run yesterday. They sent him back because another runner had been hit by a batted ball and when he tried to score again on a double steal, he crashed into Catcher Kies, breaking both bones in his leg, and undoubtedly bringing to an end his almost unbelievable playing career.

But the Rab took it joking and kidding, as he had taken all of his 23 years in baseball. Hardly had they cut away a part of the last uniform he ever is likely to wear, when he was razzing his subdued and stricken teammates and the equally solicitous Yankees, including the Babe himself.

As they lifted him tenderly into an ambulance, Rabbit said:

"Now gimme a cigaret and I'll sing the driver a song as we go riding along."

I'm not so sure it isn't bettter for a miracle man like Maranville to go quickly this way than to wear out and become all but an object of pity before he discovers it—to be the last to find out what everybody else knows.

GOES OUT ON CREST

Good as he looked in training this spring, not even Rab could have carried the illusion of perpetual motion on much longer. He was 41, half way home to 42, and in the dog days of last season, it was plain that he was under the whip a little.

Before fate cut him down yesterday, he had made a home run, an occurence for him, a single, started two double plays and made two or three sparkling gloved-hand catches. In short, he went out on the crest as a bright new season loomed.

BUCCOS RALLY TO COP FINAL FROM STARS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, March 29. — Satisfied that his first-string sharpshooters are pointing well toward top form, Manager Gibson plans to call upon a pair of youngsters for slab duty when the Pirates swing into action this afternoon at Wrigley Field against the Chicago Cubs.

The battle will be the first of a four-game series that will mark the close of the Pirate-Cub competition. In the four games staged to date, the clubs have split even. Lloyd Johnson and Cy Blanton will face the Bruins today.

SWETONIC RETURNED

Pirate President Bill Benswanger and Manager Gibson today elaborated somewhat on the status of Steve Swetonic, Pittsburgh boy recently sold to the Boston Braves. The Boston management announced yesterday that Swetonic would be returned to the Pittsburgh club owing to the fact that Steve's ailing arm had returned to harass him at the Florida camp of the Tribe. Benswanger said:

"Yes, Swetonic is due to re-

Each city now has won three tournaments with one tied.

W. Pa. Women's Golf Matches Open May 17

Competition in the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania team matches will get under way on May 17 with sectional duels. This announcement was made by Mrs. Chester H. Lehman, president of the association.

The annual championship tournament will be staged during the week of September 10 at Oakmont. The state championship has been awarded to the Hershey Country Club for the week of October 15 and the Cambridge Springs tourney will get under way June 14.

Plans are being laid for the formation of a junior girls' tourney.

Golf Club Doubles Tourney Continues

First and second round competition continued yesterday in the Pittsburgh Golf Club's indoor doubles tennis championship tournament.

In the second round, H. J. Burgwin and W. R. Scott won over Murray and Orr, 6-8, 7-5, 6-1, and G. P. and Charles Lockhart downed Harrison and Love, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE TO OPERATE WITH SEVEN CLUBS

PARMELEE CLUB AND MT. OLIVER ADMITTED

By TOM BIRKS

The City Baseball League will operate this year as a seven-club circuit. This was decided last night when the five managers of the holdover clubs from last year voted to accept the entries of two newcomers, Parmelee and the Mt. Oliver Business Men's Club.

Books, Homewood, Dormont, Whitaker and the Chelsea club were represented at the session. The Chelsea organization is a carry-over of the North Siders of last season, and is backed by Harp Vaughan and Art Rooney.

Dinty Moore and Walter Early were on hand to file the entry of the Parmelees and had little difficulty in getting the o. k. of the other members of the league. The team has not decided as yet where it will play its home games. Last year the team played at Dean Field and the Magee Playgrounds. Dean Field is out of the question this year as far as City League play is concerned.

The managers will draw up rules and settle the umpire and ball question at the next meeting. After that session, the schedule will be drawn up.

Czlapinski, South Guard, Defense Ace on Floor

Veteran Big Factor In Success of City Champs

By JULIUS LEVIN

ED CZLAPINSKI

Lacking the color of a Spotovich, and the shooting ability of a Jesko, Eddie (Slip) Czlapinski, brilliant defense star of the South High School quintet, which meets Reading High School for the state scholastic basketball championship in the Pitt Stadium Saturday night, nevertheless has won for himself the distinction of being one of the best, if not the best, guard ever developed in local floor circles.

A quiet, unassuming chap, who shies at all efforts to place him in the limelight, Czlapinski nevertheless has played an important part in the success attained by the local champions during the past two seasons.

STARS ON DEFENSE

Like in baseball, a sport in which the slugger invariably is the one who is placed on a pedestal, Czlapinski has the misfortune to play a position on his team that seldom offers him an opportunity to bask in the spotlight, but despite this handicap, he has handled his assignment in a manner that bespeaks volumes for his defensive ability. Opposing forwards, who had little or no trouble ringing up points against all opposition, found their sharpshooting ability muzzled once they stacked up against the Gibraltar of the South High defense.

Overlooked when all-scholastic quintets were being chosen at the close of the City League campaign, Czlapinski did not allow this slight to affect his play in the championship eliminations. In fact, he played better than ever to help his team reach the state championship game.

Those who have followed the South High School teams of the past two years are firm in their contention that he is the most valuable player on the team, inasmuch as he sacrifices all chances to score himself to feed the sharpshooters of his quintet. The result has been that Spotovich, the greatest center the City League has seen in years, and Milkovich and Galiszewski, sterling forwards, have been placed in a position to pile up points against all opposition.

SPARK OF TEAM

An excellent ball handler, an asset which makes him the battering ram of the South High School attack, Czlapinski, besides his great defensive play, invariably provides the spark that sends the Orioles off on a scoring rampage, although he seldom takes a shot himself. He is a guard in every sense of the word and he confines his activities solely to keeping the opposition from scoring. In this respect he ranks second to none.

Invariably the last barrier to be passed before the opposing team can score, Czlapinski has proved himself a standout in that he seldom fails to check the onrushing attack. Oftentimes, he has been forced to halt two men to prevent a score.

Cool and collected at all times, Czlapinski has been the steadying influence in the South attack. He has been one boy in the South lineup who keeps his head when the going gets tough, something scholastic fans seldom see in a high school game.

If South High School is successful in winning the state crown here Saturday night by defeating Reading, much of the credit should be given the "Sphinx" of the Oriole quintet. In the meantime, win or lose, the followers of the South Siders are ready to put up an argument with any one not ranking Czlapinski the outstanding guard in the state.

PITT PASSERS DEFEATED BY S. CAROLINA

ATLANTA, Ga., March 29.—The University of Pittsburgh's varsity basketball team arrived here today after a tiresome journey via automobile from Pittsburgh and will perform before the annual convention of the Basketball Coaches' Association of America today and tomorrow.

Pittsburgh was defeated in Columbia, S. C., last night, 38 to 35, by the crack Gamecocks of South Carolina. Coach Carlson had to depart early, leaving the game in the control of his son, Cliff. Dr. George Kowallis and Claire Cribbs were somewhere between Durham and Columbia, nursing a crippled car towards here. Young Cliff's substituting really was good. He kept the two subs, Slim Wainio and Ted Roderick, looking like a regiment as he rushed them in and out to aid the tiring starters.

Pitt flashed a great passing attack, but South Carolina had five big rangy players, two of whom could shoot with their left hands, and could fast-break with the best of them.

Russ Ochsenhirt led the Panthers' attack with five field goals and two fouls for a total of 12 points. Tompkins tallied six goals and one foul for 13. The lineup:

Pitt.	G.	F.	Pts.	So. Caro.	G.	F.	Pts.

PIRATES, CUBS RESUME DUELS ON COAST

turn to the Buccos, but Manager Gibson has not decided his future. When we sold Swetonic to the Braves the question of his arm was considered. We had no desire to put anything over on the Boston club or anybody else, so we agreed to take him back in case there was a recurrence of the arm trouble which would render him unfit to pitch high-grade ball. Apparently the trouble has returned."

Gibby and Benswanger will make an effort to place Steve with some other club. It is possible he will be asked to report to the Pirates at some point on the home tour of the Buccos.

The Pirates returned to Los Angeles last night from Riverside, where yesterday they defeated the Hollywood club, 12 to 10, in the last clash with the Stars. The big leagers won three of the four games played with Oscar Vitt's team on their two jaunts to Riverside.

SUSCE, TRAPP STAR

Two Pittsburgh athletes, George Susce and Elmer Trapp, provided heroics in the final clash of the teams. Susce hit a homer over the left field wall with one on in the fourth to help the Hollywood cause, and Trapp, Pittsburgh sandlotter, subbing at shortstop for Arky Vaughan, doubled with two on in the seventh to give the Pirates what proved to be the winning marker.

Fred Lindstrom delivered the Ruthian swat of the afternoon in the fifth when he walloped the rocket high over the center field fence with three of his mates on the sacks. Red Lucas made his advertised start but didn't get along so well. The Stars touched Red for seven runs and nine hits in four rounds.

O. S. U. STAR OUT

COLUMBUS, O., March 29.—(AP.)—Scholastic deficiencies have rendered George Pugh, giant freshman tackle prospect, ineligible for varsity football next year, it was learned as Ohio State began spring grid practice.

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 29.—A cloud of sorrow fell upon the camps of the Pirates and Cubs when the athletes learned of Walter Maranville's misfortune. George Gibson and Charley Grimm, pilots of the two flag favorites in training here, were close friends of the little marvel of the diamond. Lefty was the bass singer in Rab's 1921 quartet, and Gibby was the same gent who engineered the deal that put Maranville in the Pirate lineup. George exchanged Billy Southworth, Fred Nicholson, Walter Barbare and a bundle of cash to the Braves in return for the Springfield kid.

It was recalled that Maranville broke one of his legs in California while he trained here with the Cubs after he had been swapped to Chicago by the Pirates. But the boys who are counting Rabbit out may not get to "ten" before he is up swinging again. There is no telling what he is likely to do.

Maranville's injury may have a far-reaching effect on the National League. For one thing it likely will destroy whatever chance the Braves had of winning the pennant and his loss probably means a second division berth for the Tribe. Bill McKechnie's entry made the first-tier grade last season largely on account of the Rabbit's smartness and skill.

And that's only the half of it . . . There is a financial consideration that must be weighed. Maranville for several seasons has been just about the best single attraction in the Heydler circuit. The fact that the Braves made plenty of money during the panic years attests his popularity at the Hub. Rabbit is a perennial favorite among the cosmopolitics of the Polo Grounds and he never failed to put extra customers in the seats of the other six parks.

From a standpoint of greatness, Maranville perhaps should be rated next to Honus Wagner among the shortstops of the National League . . . The Bancrofts, the Jacksons, the Wrights, the Hollochers, etcetra, deserved all the songs of praise sung over them, but they hardly reached the Maranville stature.

POLLOCK TAKES PIN LEAD

By PHILIP GRABOWSKI

E. Pollock, of the Forward No. 1 team, took the lead in the all-events competition, totaling 1,686 pins for his nine games, in the Pennsylvania and Ohio Duckpin Association tournament, which opened on the Forward alleys, Squirrel Hill, last night. By JESS CARVER

The noble bike racers would be half way across this continent if the miles they've covered in their international six-day grind at Duquesne Garden here were to be laid end to end, but they are not much closer to crowning a victor than they were when the field of 11 started off shortly after midnight Sunday.

Speaking of being laid end to end, four of the boys had just that happen to 'em in one of the worst spills of the race, which occurred in the wee small hours of the morning. Paden and Van Kempen and McNamara and young Frank Smith took tailspins when one of them fell asleep and off his bike and the rest piled into him. All were severely bruised and shaken up, but were able to continue riding.

TWO PAIRS TIED

Two teams are tied for the lead in the matter of ground covered after 86 hours of riding. After the French team of Henri LePage and Zenon St. Laurent dominated the riding until after midnight last night and whisked into the lead, the consistent team with the German works and the Swiss movement, the Petri-Zach pair, charged into a deadlock during the 2 o'clock sprints and a hectic jam that followed.

Even the champion partnership of Piet Van Kempen and Frank Bartell, which had been far out in front in points, found its margin cut dangerously close by the veteran Reggie McNamara and Tony Beckman today. In fact, the entire race remains a wide open affair, and, judging from the way in which the leaders are hitting it up, it will remain so until the final gun Saturday night.

Van Kempen and Bartell have 289 points, and McNamara and Beckman 282. One or two successful sprints and old Reggie and Tony will be right out in front, and it will not take much of a spurt to pull the American pair into the lead both in points and miles.

PEDEN, AUDY THIRD

Torchy Peden and Jules Audy have third place all to themselves, one lap behind the leaders, who have traveled 1,378 miles and 9 laps. Van Kempen and Bartell, McNamara and Beckman, and Reggie Fielding and McDonald are tied up tighter than a drum in fourth position, two laps back of the first-place teams.

LePage and St. Laurent, with their "whoop a la's" and brilliant sprinting, made a fine effort yesterday to carve out a commanding advantage, but the best they could do was to steal eight laps in four hours and gain a temporary one-lap lead on the field. This margin failed to stand up, but Henri and Zenon added materially to their point total, going above the 200-mark to 220, and passing Peden and Audy.

Rene Boogmans and Joseph Laporte are finding the pace much too fast and steadily are losing ground. They are four miles behind the first-place teams and have about as much chance of making up the 40 laps as Torchy Peden has of losing his broad grin, which practically is none at all.

STOLEN LAPS

A popularity contest, if it was to be held (and it wouldn't be a bad idea at that) would develop into a pretty close battle between four of the riders. Little Jules Audy would be about a 10-to-8 shot to win, with the immaculate Henri LePage, the veteran Reggie McNamara and the colorful Torchy Peden running neck and neck, or handlebar and handlebar, for second honors.

Reggie Fielding was accorded quite a hand when he resumed riding after a nasty spill during the midnight sprints. So heavy was the press of the crowd in the "infield" that Fielding's tumble was not noticed from the officials' box and the field made almost a lap before the signal was given to slow down.

Those intrepid billiardists, Jiller Miller and Dutch Stadtlander claim to be two boxes ahead of the field in the race for popcorn-eating honors. Miller spurted last night to give the team the lead over the Howdy Jackson-Charley Black combination. The latter team ran out of dimes.

Every now and then, Torchy Peden gives the folks in the press box a thrill, and a scare at the same time, by riding high on the turn and all but hopping into the box. If he ever decides to come in, the boys will give him plenty of room.

Tony Beckman, McNamara's partner, ate an entire chicken while mounted at supper time yesterday. He pedaled around the track at about 30 miles an hour with a drumstick in each fist. Then he finished off his repast with an apple.

If Frank Bartell doesn't quit grabbing Piet Van Kempen's trunks with such vigor on the reliefs Piet is going to find himself in an embarrassing jam. Bartell has the Van Kempen trousers ripped to shreds at the left hip and is going strong—stronger than the said trousers.

In the 11 exhibition games played by the Pirates on the coast to date, apart from the Regular-Yanigan meetings, Paul Waner has led the Pittsburgh hitters with the huge average of .513, representing 19 safeties in 37 times at bat.

Arky Vaughan is the top slugger with a total of 37 bases, his 14 hits having included six homers, two triples and one double. He has another homer to his credit, but that was made in a camp game. Vaughan also leads in runs driven in, with 13, Freddie Lindstrom ranking second with 11.

In the 11 games, of which they won eight, the Pirates went to bat 425 times and made 138 hits and 86 runs for a club average of .324. At that, George Gibsons' pitchers did not keep the opposition from making an even higher average, as the Buccaneers' foemen registered 126 hits and 71 runs in 403 times at bat, for an average of .412.

Following are the batting records of the 12 Pittsburgh players who are considered as being the spring regulars:

SPORT VIGNETTES

It strikes us that the height of something or other—or both—was the protesting of Bill Kern, the Pitt line coach, as the winner of an A. A. U. handball championship on the ground that he earns his living from athletics and once was a member of the Green Bay Packers professional football team . . . Bill isn't in handball for pay but for the recreation he gets out of it, as is every other regular player of the sport, and the fact that he is a college football coach shouldn't be construed as making him out a professional handballer . . . Bill was a football player and coach before he ever gave a second thought to handball . . . Pitt doesn't pay him as a football coach because he can win handball titles, and handball doesn't pay him because he is a football coach . . . So who in blazes ever conceived the brilliant idea of putting him on the spot, anyway?

The A. A. U., through its handball chairman, the well-known J. Rogers Flannery, handled the situation with admirable delicacy when it was called to its attention . . . Perusal of the records revealed the fact that the tournament had not been sanctioned by the A. A. U., and therefore it didn't come under A. A. U. jurisdiction, so why even condescend to dignify the complaint? . . . First thing we know somebody will be accusing Babe Ruth of being a professional.

Madison Square Garden wants $25,000 for the movie rights and $25,000 more for the radio rights for its Carnera-Baer fight . . . At that rate it is estimated a sponsor would have to pay no less than $60,000 for the radio privileges, the $25,000 fee, plus another $25,000 for a national hookup and $10,000 for talent already engaged for the hour . . . It would be cheaper for the sponsor to go to Florida and put on a private—or a little more private than the last time—return fight between Carnera and Tommy Loughran.

Believe it or not, but the State scholastic basketball tournament actually is almost out of the way . . . After all of the fuss and furore of the annual eliminations, they will wind up almost even with the bike race, which is an accomplishment. . . . Speaking of that final game, on Saturday, the local fans have a hunch that South High, the Western survivor, will Galiszewski, Milkovich, Spotovich, Miskevics and Czlapinski the Reading team to death.—HARRY KECK.

JEWELS DEFEAT EX-DUKES ON BLUFF, 32-29

The Ex-Dukes gave the Brooklyn Jewels a run for their money last night on the Duquesne University floor, but bowed to the crack eastern professional aggregation by a 32-to-29 score. The Jewels came from behind in the second half to win.

The Ex-Dukes, led by Irv Brenner, were ahead at 19 to 18 at the end of the first half. The Jewels put on the pressure in the second period, and although the lead changed hands often, the Jewels put on a spurt late in the contest when Begovitch and Shuckman tallied to win.

The Ex-Dukes are to meet the Company D five in Butler tonight and the Jewels are to oppose the Willigs in McKeesport. The lineup:

STOCKS BRACE IN LISTLESS TRADING

NEW YORK, March 29.—(AP)—Financial markets maintained a steady to firm position today and various securities and commodities appeared to have benefited from a mild revival of inflationary sentiment.

The currency expansion implications attached to the over-riding of the presidential veto of the independent offices appropriation bill by the Senate apparently did not bring the bring the buying rush that might have resulted under other circumstances. Trading was dull.

Some of the metal stocks and a few specialties were put up 1 to around 3 points in quiet dealings. Grains, silver and rubber improved. Cotton rallied about $1 a bale. Sterling jumped 2 cents in terms of the dollar, probably in response to the veto news, but other foreign exchanges were narrow. United States government bonds eased. Secondary corporation issues did better.

Many operators and most of the public were reported to have stepped aside because of the fact that the security exchanges will be closed tomorrow for the Good Friday holiday.

Lack of aggressiveness in leading stock groups, however, was attributed largely to pessimistic interpretations of the administration's exchange control bill. In some circles it was felt that if the measures goes through in its present form, the securities business may dwindle to extremely small proportions. There were few hopes that amendments satisfactory to the financial district would be approved by Congress.

Optimistic commentators pointed out that the technical condition of the market had improved considerably, that equities generally were inclined to be firm rather than reactionary in exceptionally dull sessions and that stocks, as a whole, seemed to be in fairly strong hands.

There was still talk of a possible setup in the price of gold in the near future, but most banking quarters were not inclined to anticipate any change in the existing rate utnl and unless other influences fail to work.

CORN REACHES LOW FOR YEAR

CHICAGO, March 29.—Evening up of accounts to prepare for tomorrow's holiday resulted in higher prices for wheat today and lower prices for corn.

Undoing of spread trades was a feature, with the process involving purchases of wheat against sales of corn. Corn broke about a cent, and reached a new low since December.

Wheat closed firm, 3/8-7/8c above yesterday's finish; May, 86 1/4-86 3/8c; corn, 1/4-1/2c down; oats at 1/4c advance, and provisions varying from 2c decline to a rise of 5c.

Washington Should Quit 'Limelight'

By B. C. FORBES

A PUBLIC-SPIRITED businessman who, at Washington's request, is playing an intimate and responsible part in NRA and governmental labor activities, confesses to me:

Mr. Forbes

"I am convinced the time has come when the government should recede as far as possible into the background and enable businessmen to concentrate on their own affairs. This is, after all, a business country, it cannot be prosperous unless business is prosperous.

"Business can hardly prosper as long as it has to worry every day as to what may be done by Washington."

I HAVE been traveling a good deal lately and find a growing sentiment that Washington should, as speedily as possible, cease to monopolize the limelight.

The conclusion has been reached that the sooner Washington bureaucrats cease their "reforms," the sooner Congress adjourns, the sooner employers can concentrate on business and leave politics out of account, the sooner will America return to normalcy and prosperity.

WASHINGTON INSISTS that the day for individualism has passed.

But one man who, through his own efforts, has supplied work for many people, proffers this comment and question:

"Bureaucrats are fond of declaring that individualism is out; but was there ever such an instance of individualism in the whole history of America as we are now witnessing at the seat of government? Is it not rather incongruous that Washington should vehemently declare that there is now no place in America for individualism and that, at the same time, Washington, Congress, should eagerly confer upon one individual greater powers than ever entrusted entrusted to any other individual in the whole history of the nation. Apparently, individualism is all wrong in business, but is all right when it comes to government. It's beyond me."

THIS SAME citizen asks this question:

"The late J. P. Morgan, when quizzed by the Pujo Senatorial investigating committee, confessed that he, James Stillman and George F. Baker exercised tremendous influence during the 1907 panic. When asked if such power would not be a potent force for evil if it fell into the wrong hands, he shrewdly replied that if the power exercised by the United States Senate fell into the wrong hands, it would also be a potential source of danger to the country.

"I find myself asking how it would be if the powers which have been invested in President Roosevelt by Congress were to fall into the hands of a chief executive of a very different, less responsible, less dependable type of citizen?

"Heretofore, this nation has been governed by law and by the Constitution. We have been departing drastically from that principal."

TARIFF HINDERS U. S. EXPORTS TO BRAZIL

Edward Tomlinson, foremost American commentator on South American economic and political conditions, has just completed a tour of South America as special correspondent of Universal Service. In a series of articles, he has written facts as he found them regarding American interests and business conditions in Brazil, the Argentine, Uruguay and Chile.

By EDWARD TOMLINSON
Noted Authority on South American Economics.

President Roosevelt's bid for power to make reciprocal trade treaties with foreign nations is being followed today with the keenest interest by American businessmen in Brazil.

Our commercial representatives in this South American republic agree that Uncle Sam should insist upon a larger share of Brazilian trade.

For instance, we are Brazil's best customer. No pantry in Maine, Missouri or Montana is without Brazilian coffee. And every ship bound for our shores brings us Brazilian oils, hides and cacao for our chocolate and cocoa.

We bought nearly three times as much of these products last year as England and France put together. Besides, the bulk of them entered the country duty free. The ten billion pounds of coffee which we bought had to pay an export tax when it left home in South America, yet it found no tariff barriers when it arrived at North American ports.

BALANCE FAVORS BRAZIL

Unfortunately, the United States does not fare so well in Brazil. Brazilian tariffs are unusually high. The Brazilian public must not only pay for what it buys from us—it must also pay for the privilege of buying. This adds to the difficulties of selling our products in Brazilian markets.

The balance of trade between the two countries in 1933 stood at three to one in favor of Brazil. Although we bought six and a half times more from her than did England, nevertheless British sales in the Brazilian market were practically equal to ours.

There was a time when Brazilians feared that if they did not increase their purchases from us, Congress might vote a tariff on coffee. However, they will now say to you frankly:

"You wouldn't do this. Your people would not stand for it. They would not agree to pay more for their favorite morning drink just for the sake of selling a few more manufactures to us.

"Then, too, the present administration in your country is trying to improve Uncle Sam's standing in Latin America, and Brazilian good will is tremendously important in this endeavor. A tax on coffee would inflame this country against you."

WANT U. S. CREDITS

Incidentally, they justify their large imports from England on the grounds of credit accommodations. They say:

"When Brazil needs money, when she has to borrow for short term financing, she gets no consideration from your bankers. You poured money into the country in good times, during the boom from 1925 to 1929. But today not a penny.

"On the other hand, for 50 years British bankers have never turned the cold shoulder. Rothschilds were our bankers for more than a quarter of a century before you entered the field."

The house of Rothschilds still stands very close to the Brazilian government, closer than any other financial institution in the world.

Sir Henry Lynch, the firm's representative in Brazil, and one of the ablest and most distinguished foreigners in all South America, has lived in the country for 40 years. Although his office is merely located in the same building, if you ask any citizen of Rio where Sir Henry is to be found, the reply will be "At the Bank of Brazil."

No other representative of foreign interests has such easy access to Brazilian officialdom as this able Briton, and if the opinions of Brazilians themselves are to be considered, no other foreigner exercises so much influence.

Chickie's Daughter

CHAPTER XXX.

It was a warm Indian summer day with poppies still gold on the hills, roses blooming in every doorway and a perfumed breeze blowing over the valley. They drove along the ocean shore to that little crescent on the Half Moon Bay road where along the shore was a little grove of trees. This was their favorite haunt.

They built a large bonfire and cooked steaks. They sat around afterwards and listened to music from a little phonograph Pippin had brought. Vivian rested her head on Sherry's shoulder and sang. Sherry accompanied her with his deep, lilting whistle.

Vivian looked lovely in that lavender jersey. Alice Steele said she had woven into her bones, into her manner, her deep undulant voice; into every inflection of mind and body, the lure of sex. Something born with her, like an ear for music. As she sang, you felt it. Sherry looked down at her; his eyes kindled.

"She's right," Pippin thought. "He cares!"

Said John Lloyd, studiously toasting marshmallows:

"You know everything, Alice—why do women like melancholy songs?"

"Our souls are so deep," said Kathleen.

"To lure the darling males," offered Pippin.

Begin to Argue

They began to argue. They skipped from music to emotions, to women and love.

"But you can't free women," said Gregg, giving Pippin a nudge. "If we do, honor vanishes and the gold-digger arrives."

"Is that regrettable?"

"Or is it a new phenomenon?" said Alice, who liked to show off her knowledge. "Just read Mary Beard's book, little boy, if you think this is the first generation when 'honor' has passed from the earth. In the glory that was Greece, the notion that women should be 'good' was just too cute for enlightened ladies to consider.

"And as for gold digging, consider Phryne, who had loot enough to rebuild the walls of Thebes when Alexander destroyed them."

Vivian had her hand tangled in Sherry's bright hair. His head rested in her lap. She leaned down. There was something maternal in the gesture.

Pippin saw the expression on Vivian's face—tender, protective, beautiful: the way Helena looked at Jon. It gave her a pang.

Then Vivian gave a soft, musing laugh:

"In one of my past lives I must have been Phryne or some other classic soul, and I've still a yen for the wide open spaces of the soul. Let's have a dip in the ocean and cool off. You brought swimming suits, didn't you?"

"It's too cold," said Alice Steele lazily.

"You couldn't get me in there if every drop of water that touched me turned into a dollar," agreed John Lloyd.

Go in Swimming

But Pippin sprang to her feet. She and Vivian ducked into a little shelter and got into their swimming suits.

Gregg, sitting by the fire, yawned and stretched.

"Guess I can't let you perish alone," Sherry followed.

The four of them took hands and were soon diving through the breakers, letting the waves carry them back. It was chilly, delicious business. Sherry and Vivian ran back to the fire.

In a moment Vivian was at Pippin's side again. She said, the moonlight making her face so white and her eyes glittering:

"It's gorgeous fun. Oh, Pippin, did you ever know such a lovely, lovely night! Take my hand. See if we can hold together. Come on—let's go!"

The water rushed between them, breaking their clasp. Pippin rode back on a wave. Laughing and her teeth chattering, she shook the foam from her eyes. She saw Gregg dragging a log and Sherry standing at the fire. She looked startled at the breakers and called:

"Veev! Where's Veev?"

They stood heedless at the fire.

Pippin called through the boom of the sea:

"Is Vivian there?"

Then she saw, or thought she saw, someone swimming just beyond the breakers. She thought indignant:

"She shouldn't do that. It's too dark."

She struck out and in a moment was at Vivian's side. She called:

"You scared me. Come back."

Vivian answered:

"I like it."

"We're out too far. It's freezing."

"I'm not cold. You go in. I want to swim."

She went on and on. Suddenly Pippin was frightened. She said: "Vivian, come back!" and flung her arm around Vivian's neck.

Even in the dimness, Pippin could see the startled look in Vivian's eyes. She managed, "Let go, fool. I'll come in."

She swung around then. The waves carried them back. As they emerged from the foaming surf Vivian said:

"Why did you do that? Sherry and I often swim out there. It's smooth as glass."

Pippin felt foolish. She said, "I don't know. Lost my head, I guess."

Vivian said with a laugh, "Well, I'm glad they didn't notice. I thought for a moment you were going to drown me."

They walked, chattering, to the big roaring bonfire and dried themselves. Vivian said:

"We had a nice little swim, only it wasn't long enough."

She sank to the sands, letting her head rest against Sherry's shoulder.

* * *

"It's all fixed up, Vivian, isn't it?" Pippin said happily the next day. "He seemed awfully sweet last night. Awfully glad to be with you."

"Moonlight and music and any pretty girl," said Vivian, her back turned as she reached down a book.

"It didn't seem that way to me. He was all in love with you, again. You looked beautiful—more haunting than usual."

Sherry With Paula

"I planned it. That's the last picnic for a year or so."

"Do you mean Sherry hasn't come back?"

"I'm not really thinking about it, Pippin. You seem to be doing all the worrying."

Vivian opened her books and refused to talk further. She sat there in a kind of hard, cold tensity.

That afternoon Pippin saw Sherry walking across the campus carrying Paula Meed's books and laughing down at her gayly.

* * *

Pippin went to Vivian's apartment. The latch was off. She walked in. She must have gone noiselessly, for Vivian didn't hear her.

The living room had a disordered air. Letter paper, scribbled across and torn to pieces, lay on the floor.

Vivian was sitting at her bureau, her hands clenched together, black wildness in her eyes. Pippin saw her reflection in the mirror before Vivian had a chance to pull any mask over her expression.

Pippin stood in her tracks with her lips parted on a choked "Oh!"

Vivian wheeled around, forcing a smile.

"What's the matter, Vivian?"

"Nothing."

"Yes, there is! There's something terrible the matter."

Vivian wheeled about with that dark blindness in her eyes and burst into tears.

"I've lost Sherry!"

Pippin felt weak. She dropped to her knees and put her arms around Vivian's waist:

"What makes you think Sherry is so hopeless? Give him a chance, Vivian. He was awfully mad about you only a little while ago."

Vivian said, in a still, dim tone:

"He's not mad about me now."

"But he won't let you down. He's not that sort."

Pippin Alarmed

Vivian leaned down and looked with a dead calm into Pippin's face:

"He won't let me down—no—"

Something in the still, icy desperation of her tone went into Pippin's brain like a bright, sharp knife. She stood up, the room clouding. She took hold of Vivian's shoulders and whispered in Vivian's face:

"You knew this last Tuesday—this was what you heard—what made you look so wild. You got up that picnic—you swam out there. You meant to—"

"Does it seem like that to you, Pippin?" Vivian interrupted. "You're mistaken. I only learned it this afternoon. I was happy at the picnic. My last happy day. Don't worry about that angle. I don't want to die. It's no solution. How could you think I meant to drown? I'd hate that strangling."

Pippin's heart made a loud, frightened tumult in her throat. She went on:

"Don't do that, Vivian! That would be worse to your mother than anything."

"I'm not going to kill myself, Pippin. I'm going to meet it somehow . . ."

"I think Sherry still cares."

"Are you saying that to console me, Pippin?"

"He seemed very much in love with you the other night. He has a great deal of tenderness, he has strength, too, Vivian. let me go and see Sherry. I think I can make him see his mistake."

Vivian turned quickly away. She covered her face. Pippin went to the phone and made a date with Sheridan Grove.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

A healthy growth of hair is dependent upon general health, a sound nervous system, a loose scalp and good circulation. If the scalp thins and tightens, blood vessels aren't free and active. Forestall such condition by massaging the scalp every night. Surface rubbing does little or nothing. Spread out thumbs and fingers and claw. Lift up the flesh, move it from place to place. Before the treatment, trickle along the scalp with a medicine dropper a lotion made of equal parts of pure alcohol and water. This warms the flesh, makes massage more effective.

There's a simple way of getting soft ringlets all over the back of the head. Have the hair cut to a length of three or four inches. Then submit to a permanent, by which process the strands are wound from the ends, not from the scalp. After the shampoo, while the hair is wet, rub the back hair upward and turn the ends inward. You will have a mass of soft, flat curls.

It's Coming Round the Bend

Last winter was fairly mild for the international disputes. All the nations managed to get their maps back from the laundry without new pins stuck in 'em.

However, there was a time in February when the outlook was darker than a mule's bedroom.

Manifestoes and ukases were flying back and forth like twin windshield wipers in a rainstorm.

There were some few well-worded ultimatums recorded for the archives. Only a spark was needed to touch off the conflagration. But, at the critical moment, somebody tossed two sixes and backed off the wharf.

We have always suspected that an ultimatum was the last word in the broadcast. We were taught that it was an octave above final.

This winter put the switch on that idea. An ultimatum is so cheap now that the premiers don't even put paperweights on 'em to keep 'em from blowing away.

They do just the opposite. If a dictator has an important defiance to be mailed he places it on a tin roof in a high breeze.

It was a clerk's war all winter. It never got out of the back office.

However, they promise us some action when the roads get better. The terrain over there is mostly lemon meringue. You can't trek places and accomplish things without your tanks and big guns. If you drop a bomb in a swamp all it makes is mud pies.

Barking dogs don't bite until they get commercial sponsors. It takes money to run a war which will meet with the approval of the peace commissioners.

Napoleon, Bismarck and Wellington set up high standards for war. Nobody wants to start something that might turn out to be a squib or a fizzer.

So, when the financial checker gives the word that the national Treasury is stuffed like a Strasburgh goose you will hear the clear, silvery note of the bugle.

Then the classes of 1914-1918 go back to school again.

Council Rebuked

Mayor McNair Gives Excellent Advice in Returning the Salary Ordinance Disapproved.

In the message of disapproval with which Mayor W. N. McNair returned the 1934 salary ordinance to City Council we find him acting like the kind of Mayor that the people hoped he would be.

He properly rebukes the Council for submitting a budget calling for appropriations that are $1,500,000 in excess of the anticipated revenue.

Mayor McNair asked for a balanced budget and showed how expenditures could be reduced to gain that end. The savings could be effected without impairing the municipal service; all that was needed was to eliminate unnecessary or wasteful positions.

Council has been too timid, or too slothful, or too indifferent to public sentiment, to make the recommended cuts. Instead it has proposed to balance the budget by borrowing money.

Mayor McNair calls this "flouting the people's will," and he is right. The people wish to run the municipal government on current income derived from taxes; they do not wish to go into debt to pay ordinary expenses.

Mayor McNair makes two noteworthy points when he asserts that it is bad practice for the legislative branch to attempt to force appropriations on the executive department of the government, and that Pittsburgh's excellent credit should not be taken as an excuse for borrowing money instead of saving it. This is sound business philosophy, and it is to be hoped Council will recognize it as such and amend its budget procedure accordingly.

Mayor McNair is to be commended on his statesmanlike message.

The Housing Problem

Dr. Aronovici's Remarks Should Awaken Visionaries to the Hard Facts.

Dr. Carol Aronovici, of Columbia University, a recognized authority on housing problems, has made some remarks during his visit to Pittsburgh that should awaken some of our visionaries from their dreams and make them face the facts.

He tells us that "McNair Manor," the Mayor's sample cottage near the jail, will not solve the slum problem, but will just make for more slums. Cheap, flimsily constructed houses, intended as temporary abodes, will not do, he says, because experience has shown that they are not speedily abandoned, as contemplated, but are retained as permanent residences, and, while superficially attractive while new, they soon deteriorate into rattletrap insanitary shacks.

Dr. Aronovici also warns that it is impossible under the present federal government set-up to erect low cost houses that will rent at figures within the reach of our present slum dwellers. In this he more or less echoes Charles F. Lewis, director of the Buhl Foundation and the leading spirit in the creation of Chatham Village, who, in a recent article on the housing problem in the Pittsburgh Record, the University of Pittsburgh magazine, says that "new, decent housing cannot be built on a sound basis at rents the present occupants of the slums can pay even in good times," and suggests that provision be made for them in acceptable second-hand houses.

Dr. Aronovici's visit has stimulated interest in slum clearance to be hoped this interest will result in action.

The Decision Not to Permit the Selling of Flowers On the Sidewalks Is Just.

The decision of the city authorities to enforce the ordinance against obstructing the sidewalks by forbidding the selling of flowers by sidewalk merchants is just as well as legally correct.

Florists who pay rent and taxes and mercantile license fees are entitled to fair play, but they do not receive it when other flower merchants are permitted to use the city streets as places of business, in violation of the law.

An attempt has been made to arouse pity for the sidewalk flower merchants by appeals to mawkish sentiment. Their defenders would have us believe they are waifs who depend upon this for a living. As a matter of fact they are for the most part young men and not regularly engaged in this work. There is evidence, too, that some of them are merely agents for established florists who have taken advantage of the leniency of the city authorities by seeking to do business at desirable downtown locations on Saturday afternoons without paying rent.

The tax-paying, rent-paying merchants of Pittsburgh are the mainstay of our business life. They are entitled to protection.

No Coercion

It Is Gratifying to Learn That City Employes May Vote As They Please With Impunity.

The word that went out from City Hall that municipal employes were going to be required to register for the primary election and furnish proof that they had registered was naturally taken as meaning that they would be expected to support the candidates favored by the administration. It is gratifying to learn that that was a mistake.

At least one of the cabinet members apparently was favorable to the idea of some sort of coercion. Welfare Director Southard Hay said he thought employes ought to be loyal to the administration they worked for. But Mayor W. N. McNair said—and it is much to his credit—that he is opposed to attempting to influence their votes with any such plea as that.

The men and women on the city payroll are going to be asked to vote as a civic duty. A similar request might be made with propriety to every citizen. But the Mayor says support any party or candidate that they choose of reprisals.

This is as it should be.

An Opera About Foster

The Great Pittsburgh Song Writer Is Bringing Glory to His Native City.

Associated Press reports that an opera, based on the life of Stephen C. Foster, is being prepared under important auspices, and will be given its premiere in Pittsburgh next year, with John Charles Thomas, the American baritone, in the role of the famous song writer.

Thus Foster, one of our great geniuses, continues to bring glory to his native city.

Time and again the directors of the New York University Hall of Fame have declined to give Foster a niche in the hall. In the light of the steady growth of his fame their hesitation to grant him recognition has become rather amusing.

A Teacher We Can Do Without

(Copyright, 1934.)

Modern democracy was born on the soil of New England when the young Massachusetts Bay Colony established the first public school.

Since then the schoolhouse has contributed steadily to the fortunes of the Republic.

It has advanced our standards of citizenship and has made the American workingman the most intelligent in the world.

And so long as the public school continues its patriotic contribution the institutions of America will endure.

But increasingly the propagandist has invaded the schools.

First the Power Trust was detected in the sly business of editing text books and influencing instructors.

Then the advocates of the League of Nations and the advocates of unpreparedness began making use of the schools and colleges.

And now Communism—something utterly foreign to America and utterly hostile to American ideals—endeavors to spread its subversive doctrines in the libraries and classrooms of our schools and upon the college campus.

These alien and un-American elements do not belong inside the schoolhouse doors.

And they must be driven out!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 29.—Manhattan's port of call for expatriate Britons is by chance but quite appropriately situated close by the British Pavilion at Rockefeller center. It is a barber shop so thoroughly Londonish that one almost expects to step from it into the turmoil of The Strand.

The proprietor is a graduate of the famous literary and theatrical barbershop of Richards of the Haymarket, favored by Sir Beerbohm Tree, H. G. Wells and other artistic headliners of the London scene. Walls are racked with latest copies of Punch, Sketch and, of course, "The Thunderer."

Among patrons are such well-known Englishmen over here as Noel Coward, Valentine Williams, Herbert Marshall, Bromwell Fletcher, George Arliss, P. G. Wodehouse, Keith Winter and the Duke of Manchester. Greetings and farewells are thick with Cheerio, Pip Pip and Toodle-oo.

News of activities of Londoners in America swings from chair to chair and signed photos of many decorate the windows. Those over for a prolonged stay and not located receive their mail there. And the barbers at the proper hour knock off for their spot of tea.

Galen Bogue, one of the new producers, is in a full blown pout against dramatic critics. Bogue, not the Gil Bogue of night club fame, was once sporting editor of the Paris Times and came over as manager of Raquel Miller. His recent production, a rather bawdy opus, was torn to shreds. He claims all the critics walked out before the finish and a weekly magazine smartie wrote the worst slur of all without seeing the play. Anyway he is organizing a Retreat for Dramatic Critics where they will be shielded from the facts of life and never be obliged to listen to anything more forthright than "A School for Scandal."

Christopher Morley in one of his books wonders what has become of Jo Davidson's statue of Walt Whitman, once billeted to a peak in Central Park, but lost in the shuffle and no one seems to know its whereabouts. More than six feet, enormously wide-shouldered and booming, he suggests the prow of some giant leviathan looming suddenly on the horizon. Among busiest men of the metropolis is Lowell Thomas. Aside from his radio engagements and authoring, he often makes two and three lectures a day in the city and suburbs. The other day in one of his fly-in and fly-out visits to his city menage, his wife came upon him. "Mr. Thomas, I believe.." she greeted. "I'm happy to see you. I am Mrs. Thomas."

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Wind of March

Blow into my heart, O, wind of March,
With your wings that are fresh and strong;
Blow into my heart the joy of spring
And the miracle of song!

Sweet, sweet is your breath from the waking fields
And the trees just touched with green,
From the willows that sway in a gypsy dance
And the snowdrops adrift between!

Blow into my heart, O, wind of March
With your message of pure delight;
Leave nothing to the hint of the winter's storms
And their hours of chill and blight!

The sunlight is bright on the breast of the hill
And warm in the valley below;
Blow, March wind, blow and be never still
While the streams of life upward flow!

Blow into my heart, O, wind of March,
With your joyous and ardent strife,
And show me in every bursting bud
The miracle of life!

LISTEN, WORLD!

'No Doctor Bills'

There's a red and white wrapper on the book cover, with a strange picture. It's the picture of a huge, wild old woman with her head done up in a flowered turban and her gaunt arm bared. Beside the big woman, pressing a little knife against her savage flesh, stands a small, intelligent girl in nurse's costume.

The big woman is looking down at the little knife curiously, almost as a child looks at an odd new toy.

The small woman is handling the knife with great care.

The little knife is a vaccinating scalpel.

The book is "RED MEDICINE—SOCIALIZED HEALTH IN SOVIET RUSSIA" by Sir Arthur Newholme and John A. Kingsbury. (Doubleday-Doran.)

And the picture in history. For that picture shows the beginning of "socialized medical care." as a national policy, in the human race.

What is "socialized medical care?" It is medical care administered by society, supported by general taxes, controlled by the government—as against our system of private practice. And it is one of the most red hot issues before the world today.

Russia's society thinks it should take it in hand. "RED MEDICINE" is a record of Russia's effort along this line. Its authors say:

"When a Russian becomes ill the government does something about it. In fact, the government has already done something about it, for Soviet Russia has decided that the health of the individual is the concern of society as a whole. Indeed, the Soviet Union is the one nation in the world which has undertaken to set up and operate a complete organization designed to provide preventive and curative medical care for every man, woman and child within its borders.

"This vast and fascinating experiment in socialized health may not turn out as well as its originators expected, or it may turn out better. In any case, it is an experiment that the rest of the world cannot afford to ignore."

Russia thinks that socialized medicine is the answer to her problem. Would it be an answer to ours?

America, for example, has the highest death rate of mothers and babies in child birth of any civilized nation. America's private conditions are under public fire because of this. In a recent report by Miss Hazel Corbin, director of the New York Maternity Center Association, it was stated that physicians themselves were responsible for 61.1 per cent of these deaths in New York City.

That is a grave indictment of private practice. Childbirth is as dangerous in Russia as it is in America. What do the Russians do about it? They do a great deal.

In the first place, the Soviet believes that, in this mechanized age, wives are happier and healthier if they have some work outside the home, as well as their household interests.

Evidently Russian wives agree with this opinion, for most of them do work. But this in no way interferes with maternity. To the contrary, the Soviet takes elaborate precautions to serve, protect and promote motherhood.

"Women employed in manual work," says 'Red Medicine,' are entitled to eight weeks, and women employed in non-manual work are entitled to six weeks, of rest at full wages before confinement, and the same benefit after confinement.

"They are entitled to a single bonus, for infants' clothing, of one-half of the mother's wage when the birth is registered, and afterwards, during nine months, to a monthly nursing benefit of one-fourth of the average monthly wage. These benefits accrue also to unemployed women, and to the wives of unemployed men."

There are also free rest homes, free vacation homes for mothers and children — nurseries, conducted by experts, in connection with all institutions where women work. Mothers are allowed time from their working hours. Constantly the care of the child is emphasized. On the walls of the marriage bureau of Moscow hang these instructions:

"A child should not be born in the midst of bad conditions.

"Don't handle a child too much. (Pictures shown of right methods of handling).

"Every family should have a medical emergency outfit.

"If the family is crowded a child cannot be well reared.

"The mother, as soon as she leaves the maternity hospital, should go to the special consultation clinic of her district. (At this she is allotted to one doctor continuously)."

That's what Russia does for its maternity problem. Its service is, of course, incomplete but well under way in the large centers. It tackles its other problems with equal forthrightness—the care of tuberculosis—rigorous handling of contagious diseases—the treatment of prevention in venereal diseases.

How do you think that compares with our American program?

But we couldn't do that unless we made medical care a matter of federal or state control and taxation. Well—suppose we did? Would that be any more dangerous than "socializing education," forest protection, interstate traffic, and scores of other national interests, which we have already done? Or would it involve us in difficulties and danger beyond our control?

Read that book. And then let's hear YOUR idea.

Human Side of the News

The Custer Massacre Is Brought to Mind by the Filing Of the Will of the General's Widow

By Edwin C. Hill

NEWS is a stone cast into the great pool of time. The stone may sink—the present fact may be forgotten for whole generations—but the falling of that stone causes endless ripples over the pool which has no limits. We are minded of that in hearing of the $100,000 estate left by a very old woman who was the center, many years ago, of a grim tragedy in the history of our country. She was Mrs. Elizabeth Bacon Custer, widow of that recklessly brave and romantically handsome cavalry officer, Gen. George Armstrong Custer, one of Grant's right-hand men, who bore the flag of truce at Appomattox. And from the Civil War he rode west to fight the Indians of the Plains and come to his end, with his regiment, in one of the epic battles of history.

One terrible afternoon long ago, in the hills of Montana, a little company of blue-clad soldiers made their last stand. Dismounted from their horses, they fought, back to back, as the circling Sioux and Cheyenne warriors pressed closer and closer, riddling them with bullets and arrows. In the center of the fast-thinning group was Gen. Custer, fighting bareheaded, his curling yellow hair falling to his shoulders. And finally, as the sun slanted to the West, he fell, shot through the heart, almost the last of his men. Presently there was not a living white man on the field. The red wave rolled over the heaped-up dead. The 7th United States Cavalry was wiped out in the Battle of the Little Big Horn.

* * *

Standing Bear's Story of Battle

THAT tragedy of Indian warfare seems a long time ago, and was a long time ago. Grant was still President, and groaned when the dreadful message came to him over the White House wire. But it all seemed very real and fresh when I heard the story of Custer's last stand from the lips of a 93-year-old Sioux chief who was in the battle and saw Yellow Hair, as the Indians called Gen. Custer, die with his men.

He's 94 now, old Standing Bear, a chief of the Ogallalah Sioux, but he was a warrior of 37 when he followed Rain-in-the-Face, Gall and They-Fear-Even-His-Horses, in the battle of the Little Big Horn. Straight and slim for all of his weight of years, Standing Bear has the look of an old Roman. I can't give you his words. They came in broken phrases, with many gaps between, a picture one must fill with imagination. But this was the heart of it:

"The white man was driving us from our lands. Already he had destroyed the buffalo on which our people lived. Now he wanted our homes, everything we had. The red man had given almost all. The Great White Father in Washington had signed a paper pledging to the Indians forever the Black Hills for a home and a hunting ground. It was a promise made to the Great Spirit. But the white man never kept a promise to the Indian. Always lies and broken treaties.

"Whatever the Indian had, that the white man wanted, he took. He wanted the Black Hills because gold had been found there. So he broke his promise again. He tore up the piece of paper the Great White Father had signed. The miners invaded our lands. The soldiers came with them and shot us when we protested. What was the Indian to do? Where was he to go?

"Our old men counselled patience. But the young men were angry. I was young then and all for fighting. So we painted for war. Our great medicine man, Sitting Bull, promised us victory. We went into the hills and laid a trap for Yellow Hair. We knew Yellow Hair and his way of fighting. Brave, but reckless as the wind. He came with his riders, thinking we were only a few. But we were many. Six thousand Sioux and Cheyenne rose up in front of Custer when his troops came to the Little Big Horn. We had them on every side. There was no escape for any.

"For hours we rode around and around Yellow Hair and his Long Knives as they stood upon a little hill. We shot them one by one, as we shot the buffalo. When they had no bullets left for their long guns they fought with their little guns until they had no bullets left at all.

"Only a few were left then, not more than I could count on the fingers of my two hands. Yellow Hair was of these, a brave warrior, standing up very tall. When the time came, we charged these, and killed them very swiftly. I do not know who killed Yellow Hair. I think it was Rain-in-the-Face. Then the Great White Father sent armies against us and we ran away to Canada."

Old Man's Story Makes Battle Vivid

THIS is the story as told to me by Standing Bear. As I looked into old eyes blazing with the fire of youth, and heard the guttural words, I could see it all—the gallant, doomed squadron, Custer in their midst, fighting on and on, to the last shot in their guns, knowing that the end was inevitable—that not one young man, of all their company, would ever see the rising sun of the new day.

P. I. 'Independence' Act A Colossal Fake

By James T. Williams, Jr.

Oh, that deceit should dwell in such a gorgeous palace!
—Shakespeare.

In the name of Philippine independence, the Congress of the United States, for the second time within two years, has stopped to make an empty gesture to all the world.

The so-called Phillippine independence bill which has just become law is substantially the same legislative monstrosity which the last Congress passed over a Presidential veto.

The first of these legislative fakes was called the Hare-Hawes-Cutting bill and was rejected by the Phillippine legislature. The second is called the Tydings-McDuffie bill and extends until next October the time in which the Philippine legislature may approve it.

The major differences between the two measures is that the first left to future negotiations between the future Philippine republic and the United States the ultimate disposition of both its military and naval reservations in the archipelago.

In the bill which has just become the law, the United States agrees to abandon all its military reservations on the same indefinite date in the future that this Congress attempts to commit some future Congress with the cowardly policy of scuttle and betrayal for which the Tydings-McDuffie act provides.

* * *

Lobbied Through By Special Interests

BOTH the Hare-Hawes-Cutting bill and the Tydings-McDuffie bill were lobbied through Congress by a powerful coalition of special interests concerned wholly with their aggrandizement. This super-lobby was organized and led by American investors in sugar properties in Cuba and the United States. Aiding and abetting the sugar lobbyists were lobbyists for a group of cordage companies and several other special interests.

The most melancholy aspect of this empty gesture of the Congress is the palpably false pretenses under which these two fake independence measures have been enacted into the law.

The first of these false pretenses were made by the United States to the Philippine people and to the world when the Philippine Islands were acquired from Spain.

As a matter of fact, no such promise appears in the Treaty of Paris, under which sovereignty over the Philippine Islands was transferred from Spain to the United States.

And as Mr. Taft once said, no more definite governmental policy can be declared than was declared by President McKinley in his instructions to Secretary Root for the guidance of the Philippine commission. This policy was incorporated into law by the organic act of the Philippine government, adopted July 1, 1902. The policy thus declared was the extension of self-government to the Philippine Islands by gradual steps from time to time as the people of the Islands shall show themselves fit to receive the additional responsibilities.

The second of these false pretenses was the contention that the fake independence bill which has just become law discharges an obligation imposed upon the Congress by the preamble of the Jones law, under which the insular government of the Philippines has been administered since 1916.

* * *

An Empty Gesture, According to Borah

SPEAKING in the Senate on August 16, 1916, on this very question, Senator Borah said:

"This declaration in the preamble means nothing more than a declaration in favor of the training of the Philippine people to government . . . It gives no additional promise. It gives them nothing which insures independence. . . let us be candid, and, above all, let us cease deceiving these dependent people."

By the enactment of these two fake independence bills within the last two years, Congress persists in disregarding the wise counsel of Senator Borah given nearly 18 years ago.

Last but not least among these pretenses is the contention of the sponsors of the Tydings-McDuffie act that it extends unconditional and complete national independence to the Philippine people. It does nothing of the kind and there is no constitutional authority under which one Congress can bind another Congress to be convened in an indefinite date in the future.

What this legislative monstrosity nearly does and leaves undone is a revelation that must be reserved for another day.

ISN'T IT SO?

Some men are worth more than others, and some are worth-less.

Why is a woman always younger than a man born on the same day?

It doesn't take a girl long to catch a husband after she begins to pose as a man-hater.

A pedestrian doesn't have to know a thing about cars to understand their power.

The only way some wives can get a piece of money from their husbands is to give them a piece of their minds.

The good old days were those when putting your arm around a girl's waist felt a great deal like embracing a telephone pole.
